WOMAN WITH BABY TELLS STOCK LOSS

Mrs. Julia Schauer Goes On Witness Stand With Infant in Arms to Tell How She, Husband Invested All

Story of $600 Loss Heard by Jurors Concerning Operations of Bankers' Mortgage and Discount Company

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—With her babe crooning in her arms and tears in her eyes, Mrs. Julia Schauer appeared in Superior Judge Ward's court today as she and her husband John had invested all their savings in the Bankers' Mortgage and Discount company, only to learn within a week that they had probably lost every dollar. Ten women on the jury gave evidence of emotion as they heard Mrs. Schauer's simple story of what to her was an unutterable loss.

This was the outstanding testimony today in the trial of the five defendants, although there was a decided effort to link up the operations of the mortgage company with those of the Coast Tire and Rubber company of Oakland, three of the officers of which are the same.

Mrs. Schauer told how last April M. Rosenberg, a salesman, had come to her home at 136 Ivy avenue, and talked Bankers' Mortgage and Discount company for an hour and a half. Finally her husband left with him, went to the bank and drew out $600, every cent they had, purchased three units of 300 shares each. At the same time, she asserted, Rosenberg told them that now they had one unit for each of them, they should certainly have one for their new born babe. He urged, she declared, that they borrow money so that they would have a proper care for the little one.

It was at this point in her story that Mrs. Schauer broke down, and it was after the emotional ordeal undergone by the women jurors that the court adjourned for the noon recess.

HOT ARGUMENT ON LINKING OF COMPANY.

The attempted linking up of the Coast Tire and Rubber company was responsible for a heated argument between counsel that occupied more than an hour of the morning session. The point involved went to the admissibility of letters written by Max I. Smith, former salesman for J. J. Eiseman, one of the five defendants. They were written to him and to N. J. Whelan, another defendant, who was also a salesman for the Coast Tire and Rubber company of Oakland. They were dated December 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, and pertained to the showing of a film of the operations at the Coast Tire and Rubber company's plant at San Jose.

Counsel for Holmes Ives, J. J. Pandratz and Whelan objected, claiming that they were connected with the tire company, and that this was a separate transaction. Prosecutor Robert Fitzgerald, however, contended that as the articles of incorporation of the Bankers' Mortgage and Discount company had previously been prepared and filed that the exhibition of the film was in fact a part of the general stock selling scheme. It was argued that the company was organized in San Francisco, and the papers sent to Wilmington, Delaware, for filing, prior to the San Jose episode.

At the outset this morning Miss Lillian Solari of Piedmont, Eiseman's stenographer, was called for cross-examination.

All the money which poured into the office of J. J. Eiseman, one of the five defendants charged with felonious conspiracy to violate the corporate securities act in connection with the operations of the Bankers' Mortgage and Discount company was deposited in the name of Eiseman & Eiseman or to "Alexander & Co., and none of it was deposited to the credit of the Bankers' Mortgage and Discount company or to the nominal trustees of that corporation, according to the testimony of Miss Solari.

GIGANTIC STOCK SWINDLE ALLEGED.

Miss Solari's testimony uncovered what Assistant District Attorney Robert Fitzgerald and the state corporation commissioners allege to be a gigantic stock swindle. Fitzgerald in his opening statements accused the defendants of having conspired to unload $1,500,000 worthless securities on victims in California; to wreck the Coast Tire & Rubber Co. of Oakland and to have actually disposed of $600,000 worth of Bankers' Mortgage and Discount company debentures and stock.

Miss Solari's testimony, much of which was introduced over the objections of the defendants' attorneys, dealt with the identification of letters sent by Eiseman relative to a motion picture of the Coast Tire and Rubber Company plant, which, it is alleged, was to have been shown in San Jose to encourage stockholders in the company and to acquaint them with the new financial scheme which Eiseman was formulating.

Faces Fiery Fate

CAPTAIN RICHMOND P. HOBSON is lost in the mountains near Los Angeles and believed to be surrounded by gale-fanned brush fire.

CAPT. R. P. HOBSON TRAPPED BY FIRE

Hero of Merrimac Lost Near L. A. in Mountains Feared Encircled by Flames.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Reports this afternoon from the area where Captain Richard P. Hobson and Captain Jesse Hunter had gone in search for their sons, who are now safe, stated the brush fire in that district was under control. These reports were considered certain assurance the two men are safe.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, head of the National Anti-Narcotic League, and Captain Jesse Hunter, investigator for the district attorney's office, were reported lost in the Sierra Madre mountains today. All available deputy sheriffs, forest rangers and fire wardens have been ordered to search for them. Captain Hobson is thought to be in the Tejunga region and may be trapped by the brush fire which is raging.

The two men left the city yesterday, with full packing outfits, in search of their two sons, Richmond Hobson Jr. and James Hunter, who were thought trapped in a forest fire which has been raging for several days.

The boys, exhausted and bleeding, reached the foothills last night, but their fathers are feared surrounded by the same blaze.

Mrs. Hobson said today that while she had every hope that her husband would come out of his predicament safely, she was nevertheless anxious over his whereabouts owing to the fact that the territory into which he had gone was on the verge of the area swept by a brush fire last night.

Sunset Country club and scores of mountain cottages, threatened by a fierce brush fire that swept to the top of Sunset Canyon, were saved today when a change of wind sent the fire racing in another direction toward La Crescenta, three miles away. Several hundred men were battling the flames.

Scores of beautiful homes are in the new path of the fire and only another change of the wind and natural fire breaks were declared to be the only salvation for the section. Seven men are said to have been more or less seriously injured. Sixteen boy scouts were trapped in the fire but escaped.

Kellogg Confirmed As Envoy to Britain

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—After a contest in executive session, the nomination of Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Senator from Minnesota, to be ambassador to Great Britain was confirmed today by the Senate.

Both of the Farmer-Labor Senators from Minnesota, Johnson and Shipstead, and several others are understood to have argued against confirmation. They lost their fight, however, on a roll call vote.

The vote, as subsequently announced, was 75 to 9. Those voting against confirmation were Brookhart, Iowa; Frazier, North Dakota; Norris, Nebraska, Republicans; Copeland, New York; Dill, Washington; Ferris, Michigan and Wheeler, Montana, Democrats; and Shipstead and Johnson, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota.

DEATH LURKS IN YULETIDE BOOZE BOWL

Nation Flooded With "Imported Whisky" and Every Other Variety of Poison Liquor; Coroners Prepare

10,000 Killed in the U. S. by Drink This Year; Thousands of Gallons Smuggled Across Borders and Coasts

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (Copyright, 1923, by International News Service).—Christmas, the season of proverbial cheer, holds certain promise of death for hundreds throughout the United States.

Death lurks in the Yuletide bowl, filled with "imported" liquors, synthetic gins, etherized beer, plain old moonshine and the dozens of varieties of home brews and deadly products of the amateur and conscienceless distillers of "poisons."

Reports from coroners, police and health departments of 22 of the principal cities throughout the United States, compiled by the International News Service, show that, to date, "bad booze" caused 2165 deaths.

While this figure is applicable to the entire United States, it means that fusel oil, ether, wood alcohol and other ingredients of 1923 liquor have claimed thousands of other victims—at a conservative estimate, 10,000.

CORONERS, AMBULANCES PREPARING FOR RUSH.

Two big occasions for the bootlegger—Christmas and New Year's—are just ahead, and the coroners and ambulance men all over the land are getting ready for the rush.

Philadelphia reported 400 deaths this year attributable directly to poison rum. The coroner said this figure is "conservative."

Another 400 deaths, the coroner reports, were due to alcoholism as a contributing cause, as in pneumonia and similar disease induced by bad booze.

New York City has had 363 deaths already this year, as compared with 200 for all of 1922. In Chicago, Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundensen credits liquor with 285, tabulated thus: Whisky, 220; ether beer, 45; gin, 7; others, 13; and wine, one.

Detroit has 115 deaths; Cleveland, 90; Pittsburg, 67; Kansas City, 63; Buffalo, 49; Portland, 15; and Des Moines, 9; according to their police and health department records.

13 DEATHS TO DATE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Other reports were: Seattle, 22; St. Louis, 18; Washington, 18; Los Angeles, 18; Denver, 16; San Francisco, 13; Knoxville, 5; Atlanta, 5; Birmingham, 4; Albany, 4; Nashville, 2; Norfolk, 2.

In addition, estimates for Ohio were 400; Iowa, 100; Colorado, 75; Indiana, 52; Wyoming, 50, and New Mexico, 3. In the counties forming the Syracuse enforcement district in New York, there have been 35 deaths and 100 hospital cases.

In New York last year approximately 7000 alcoholics were sent to hospitals for treatment. Figures will be higher this year, according to the health department.

Most victims who come out of hospitals are "never the same," according to Francis J. Gerty, superintendent of the psychopathic hospital at Chicago.

"Practically all cases are the type known as 'moonshine' poisoning," he said. "The effect is more profound and more often fatal, and survivors commonly show mental deterioration after a few sprees."

Today the country faces a flood of liquor. At least 30 boats are in the "rum armada" off the Jersey coast, and thousands of pints and quarts are run in by small craft every night and foggy day.

THOUSANDS GALLONS SMUGGLED IN DAILY.

Some idea of the amount of booze off the Atlantic shore is shown by the following: Zeehund, schooner of 105 tons registry, was captured with a cargo estimated to be worth $250,000.

Of the 30 boats in the rum fleet, one has a registry of 6599 tons, another 3798 tons, and a third, 2050 tons. These three have a tonnage 119 times as great as the Zeehund and there are 27 other boats in the fleet and more coming daily.

Thousands of gallons are coming over the Canadian border. Nine dry agents are trying to stop the flow into New York State.

On the Mexican border rangers are trying to stop tequila and Chihuahua beer from getting by. Inland States have their "moonshine" and synthetic beverages to contend with.

The ten thousand booze deaths, many officials pointed out, does not include casualties from bootleg wars, drunken joyrides and still explosions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Every possible effort will be made by the United States debt commission to procure funding of France's debt to this country, Secretary Mellon declared today in a letter to Senator Borah of Idaho.

By A. D. BRADFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The United States has accepted the invitation of the reparations commission for private American financial experts to take part in an inquiry into Germany's financial condition, President Coolidge announced today.

The President read a formal statement to this effect to Washington newspaper men assembled at the White House.

In view of the fact that the United States is an important creditor of both Germany and the allies and the importance of economic recuperation of Europe, the American government "would view with favor" acceptance by American private financial experts of the invitation from the reparations commission, the statement said.

BRITAIN, GERMANY, URGED U. S. PARTICIPATION.

Great Britain and Germany both have approached this government, expressing their desire to have Americans participate, the White House stated.

The White House statement began with the declaration that the United States government has been informed that the reparations commission has decided on appointment of two committees of experts to investigate the fiscal situation of Germany, as follows:

1—An inquiry into the balancing of Germany's budget and the stabilization of her currency.

2—An inquiry into the capital that has been removed from Germany.

The President's statement then declared that the first inquiry would seem to assure all the results desired.

WILL NOT PARTICIPATE AS GOVERNMENT.

This government will not participate as a government, Coolidge's statement said.

The American experts would be invited to take part by direct invitation from the reparations commission, Coolidge said.

This government believes that the inquiry will have great value, the statement said. It was also pointed out informally, on behalf of the President, that the United States has claims against Germany amounting to approximately $750,000,000, and also because of the great allied war debt to this country that the United States government has the interest of a great creditor in Germany's financial situation and the recuperation of Europe.

Oakland Postoffice Site Sale Proposed

BY SPECIAL WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A bonafide offer accompanied by a certified check, for purchase of the present Oakland postoffice site, was suggested to representative MacLaffetry by Langley of Kentucky, chairman of the House Public buildings and grounds committee. Langley said that if this assurance could be given to his committee, he believed it highly probable the present Congress would appropriate for the new site and building at Oakland the $2,000,000 requested in a bill MacLafferty introduced.

MacLafferty said he would make immediate efforts to secure this assurance from Oakland, and expressed the belief there are interests in that city willing to agree to purchase the present site and building for as much as $800,000. This sum would be made a part of the appropriation requested in his bill.

$275,000 Offered For Rogers Hornsby

CONGRESS HOTEL, CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, announced to those assembled at the major league meetings today that he had offered $275,000 for the services of Rogers Hornsby, star infielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, and that his proposition had been turned down by the Cardinal owners.

20,000,000 Face Famine, Hoover Avers

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Twenty million Germans of the middle class and urban populations are facing famine this winter, Secretary Hoover informed Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, in a letter published today, declaring creation of a foreign commercial credit for food supplies, permission for which is now being sought by the German government offered the most constructive solution of the situation.

Fish, a member of the House Foreign Affairs committee, said he was in hearty accord with the proposal that permission be granted to the German government to secure a private loan in this country.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Negotiations are in progress for a loan to the German government to purchase foodstuffs and necessities in the United States and Great Britain, it was announced at the White House today.

BAR ASSOCIATION CHALLENGES JURY

President Calls for Specific Charges Against Alleged Corrupt Attorneys.

A reply criticising the report of the Grand Jury which questioned the methods of some attorneys and intimated that the Alameda County Bar Association was not doing its duty in eliminating such persons from the bar, was made today by Melvin C. Chapman, president of the Bar Association and a leading attorney of Oakland.

"The report of the Grand Jury is based upon ignorance," declared Chapman. "Every known unethical act of an attorney is reported to the grievance committee of five of the Bar Association, whose integrity and ability is undoubted.

"However, no attorney can be disbarred in this State under the law unless his moral turpitude amounts to a crime and he is proven guilty beyond all reasonable doubt.

"A great deal of time is devoted by the committee to investigation of irregular practices, and a large amount of money is spent by the Bar Association to the purpose of exposing corrupt practices of attorneys. Their number, however, is comparatively few.

"If any member of the Grand Jury will call the attention of either myself or the committee to any evidence of irregularity in the practice of law by any member of the bar, the conduct of such member will be speedily and thoroughly investigated. This being so, we await specific charges based upon facts."

Turning to the grand jury's recommendations regarding judicial procedure, Chapman said: "Laymen composing the grand jury are hardly in a position to criticise the conduct of those whose lifework consists in the practice of law, as to how cases should be tried or the length of time consumed in examinations of witnesses or other matters connected with the trial of cases."

Two former members of the district attorney's office, Myron Harris and Preston Higgins, in comment upon the grand jury's report anent judicial procedure and corrupt practices of attorneys, said: "The grand jury's report is unfair to all attorneys because they fail to name anyone."

CITIES HEARD IN RACE FOR G. O. P. RALLY

With Chicago Definitely Out of Contest, Des Moines, S. F. Become Chief Contenders Against Cleveland

National Committee Opens Meeting With Eulogies for Late President Harding, Pre-Convention Keynote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—After hearing the claims of Cleveland and San Francisco to be chosen Republican convention city for 1924, the Rpublican national committee deferred its choice and the fixing of a date until tomorrow morning.

By FRASER EDWARDS United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—With Chicago definitely out of the running for the Republican national convention Des Moines and San Francisco are the chief contenders against Cleveland. The Des Moines delegation, headed by former Senator Rawson of Iowa, is determined the selection shall not go by default. Armed with data showing the Iowa city to be well equipped in halls and hotels, Rawson intends to emphasize the strategy of selecting Des Moines in the heart of the corn belt.

Certain western and midwestern Republicans point to the political preference of Cleveland as a tactical error. Cleveland, to the western farmer is "east," they said.

The psychological effect of holding the convention west of the Mississippi river would do much for Republican success, they said.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Developments in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination in 1924 almost overshadow the work of the opening session today of the Republican national committee.

The support given by administration leaders to Cleveland's bid for the convention—a choice which appears to be sure of ratification by the committee—promised to take much of the usual uncertainty from the committee's proceedings. Behind the scenes, however, with the campaign managers of both President Coolidge and Senator Johnson of California busily engaged in conferences, the real Republican contest of 1924 was starting into full stride.

NINE APPOINTMENTS ARE RATIFIED.

The national committee meeting was opened by Chairman Adams with a brief address in eulogy of President Harding. Referring to the outstanding events of Harding's two and one-half years in office, he mentioned limitation of naval armaments, reorganization of the national finances and post-war adjustments.

Forty-nine national committeemen and 42 associate committee women attended today's sessions.

On the nomination of Committeeman Mulvane of Kansas, George B. Lockwood of Indiana, was elected secretary of the committee. Appointments to nine vacancies previously announced were ratified. Senator Willis of Ohio, who nominated President Harding at the Chicago convention of 1920, delivered a eulogy of the late president and sounded a pre-convention keynote, saying that the party must ever stand for the causes for which Harding "indirectly gave his life."

William H. Crocker of San Francisco headed the California delegation which presented the arguments for San Francisco. That portion of the afternoon session which was not given up to hearing the claims of the cities was devoted to hearing protests from men from the south, some of them negroes, against the reduction in delegate representation from some of the southern states.

Crocker told the committee that if the convention came to San Francisco, the visitors would be "treated 100 per cent." He also extended an invitation for the 1928 convention.

Representative Burton, speaking for Cleveland, said choice of that city would be a memorial to President Harding.

"We have no candidate this time," said Representative Burton, and we offer you neutral ground with fairness to all candidates."

FRANK LOWDEN PAYS VISIT TO COOLIDGE.

While the national committee was holding its morning session former Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois, who was one of the Big Three candidates for the presidential nomination in 1920, talked with President Coolidge at the White House. In reply to questions afterward the former governor declared that no activities designed to bring forward his name as a candidate next year were being engaged in with his sanction.

W. A. PINKERTON, organizer and head of the famous Pinkerton detective service, who died today.

FAMOUS SLEUTH, DIES IN L. A. HOTEL

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Wm. A. Pinkerton, Noted Detective.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—William Pinkerton, one of the owners of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, died here this morning at the Hotel Biltmore.

The death of the former head of the detective agency came suddenly, due to advanced age, according to Allan Pinkerton, his nephew, who was at the bedside. Mr. Pinkerton was 78 years old. A few moments before he expired in the early morning the dying man called up the hotel telephone switchboard operator and asked her to have Allan Pinkerton "come to me quick." The nephew responded immediately to the summons, but reached the bedside only in time to witness his uncle's last breath. The body will be taken to Chicago, Mr. Pinkerton's home, for burial.

One of the first noted American criminologists to advocate and practice humanitarian methods in dealing with felons, William Allan Pinkerton, head of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, was credited with having reformed more safe blowers and bank thieves than any other man in the country.

Primarily a thief-taker, Mr. Pinkerton spent more than 50 years of his life running down criminals of all classes, yet he always stood ready to proffer a helping hand to the unfortunate malefactor whose repentance was genuine and whose desire to reform was sincere.

William Allan Pinkerton and his brother, Robert A, succeeded to the business of their father, Allan Pinkerton, when the latter died in 1884 after founding the detective agency which bears his name.

Pinkerton was born in Dundee, Illinois, April 7, 1846. He was educated in public and private schools and when ready for college entered Notre Dame University. At the age of 20 he married Margaret S. Ashling of Adrian, Michigan, who died in 1896. Two daughters, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins and Mrs. William C. Pullman, were born to them. Pinkerton made his home in Chicago.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 11. PARIS, Dec. 11.—An unconfirmed report was circulated in diplomatic circles today that certain European powers would bring pressure upon the United State to intervene in Mexico if the Mexican rebels are successful in overthrowing the Obregon government. French officials recalled that France recognized the Obregon government because she wished to "consolidate" with America. It is likely that France will refuse to recognize any government that overthrows President Obregon by force of arms.

Great Britain and France are watching developments in Mexico with great anxiety, owing to the large amounts of British and French capital invested there.

Most of Mexico's railway and land loans were raised in Paris and London. For fifteen years the holders of these bonds drew no dividends. Payments started again last August, but today the bondholders were notified that the next coupon should be held up "pending developments." This announcement created much excitement among small bondholders, who are calling upon their governments to urge the United States to intervene before it is too late.

The operation against Tampico is to be directed by General Alfonso de la Huerta.

Advices received here say that Celaya, in the state of Guanajuato, north of Mexico City, has fallen into the hands of rebels commanded by General Gabaya.

A radio message from the headquarters of General Enrique Estrada, commander of the western forces, says that the advance on the capital from this direction is continuing.

Meanwhile troops are leaving Vera Cruz for the point of concentration from which the march on the capital from the east is to be started. This advance will be along the line of the Mexican railway.

It is reported here that a band of 100 federal soldiers, sent to oppose the rebels, joined the insurgents near San Andreas, Puebla.

Troops which yesterday took possession of Puerto de Mexico pursued and dispersed the forces of General Belmar, who abandoned the town with 100 men.

lutionary forces under Gen. Sanchez which have engaged federal troops in indecisive combat for three days at Jalapa, capital of Vera Cruz, were reported today to be extending the scope of their operations.

The rebellion in Vera Cruz appeared to be proving more difficult to put down than had been anticipated.

After capturing Jalapa, then losing it to the federals, a strong insurrectionist force attacked repeatedly and the tide of battle was swaying uncertainly when last reports were received.

President Obregon has arrived at Irapuato, where federal cavalry is being concentrated for a drive to crush the rebels under General Estrada at Jalisco.

Obregon is reported to have sent his close friend and advisor, Ramon Ross, a member of the recent recognition conference, on an "urgent" official mission to the United States.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 11.—Federal troops hold Ciudad Victoria, Tampico and Tuxpam, and order is being restored in the Tampico oil fields, said advices received here today. Federal troops are moving southward through the petroleum fields, putting down local disorders and preparing to give battle to the rebel forces in the northern part of the state of Vera Cruz.

Extraordinary powers have been voted upon President Obregon by the congress.

The war office is making a determined effort to obtain recruits. Officials are attempting to enlist men with military training who formerly served in the army.

It is planned to raise a new army to take the field against the revolutionary adherents of Adolfo de la Huerta and General Sanchez.

The war office states that the federal forces are plentifully equipped with machine guns, light artillery, small arms and munitions. Airplanes can be employed in certain districts.

Owing to the interruption of traffic the situation in the extreme southern part of the republic is obscure. The rebels claim that there was an uprising in Tabasco against the Obregon government, but officials of the central government are confident that Governor Garrido, a supporter of President Obregon, will be able to overcome the opposition.

Before adjournment congress ratified the treaties with several foreign countries and unanimously approved and ratified the recognition convention between the United States and Mexico.

ALVARO OBREGON BRANDS REBELS AS SELF-SEEKERS

Chief Declares That He Will Never Sheath Sword Until "Enemies Annihilated."

By FREDERICK G. NEUMEIER, United Press Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9. — President Alvaro Obregon declared today he would never sheath the sword until "the enemies of Mexico have been annihilated."

In an interview given the United Press correspondent, Obregon promised to overwhelm the revolutionaries who have risen against the government in the state of Vera Cruz.

"I have no fear for the future," he said. "I believe my enemies are passing more sleepless hours than we. They have more cause. I would hate to feel I was in the shoes of General Guadalupe Sanchez, for instance."

"Would to God I had never been compelled to take my sword up again," said Obregon, with a frown. "But having taken it up, I shall wield it to good purpose. I shall not lay it down until the enemies of Mexico, for such I believe them to be, have been annihilated.

"They talk of freedom. Never in the history of the country has there been such freedom as today. Freedom of speech, writing, and all conceivable expressions of the human soul.

"Into the satisfied, peaceful, unselfish heart of the Mexican people the traitors have hurled the poisonous dart of self-interest and of a loathsome appeal to the lowest emotions of the human spirit.

"Tell your people that I regard this rebellion as the greatest enemy of my country and its organizers as greater traitors to my people. The very principles and interests they profess to be fighting for are ust those that their activities are threatening to defeat. But the revolutionary ideals we have for three years sought to practice will not be defeated. On them any popular candidate will win and take his place where I stand now.

"You ask me about guarantees of foreign lives. While I am here foreign lives and interests will be perfectly protected so long as these lives and interests keep out of this private quarrel, which I know they will have enough common sense to do. We will settle this ourselves and without very great trouble. We are not worried over the outcome."

MEXICAN TREATY SENT TO SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—President Coolidge today sent to the senate the treaty with Mexico. This treaty carries out details of the recognition agreement recently entered into.

The fighting in Mexico will not cause the United States government to postpone ratification of the treaty, it was said at the White House today.

California Coolidge Club to Be Formed

A State-wide meeting of the Republicans of California for the purpose of forming a "California Coolidge Club" will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the St. Francis hotel, San Francisco, according to an announcement of Marshal Hale, president of the Republican Club of San Francisco.

Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee, will bring to the meeting a report of the Republican outlook in that section of the State, and will be accompanied by a strong southern delegation, according to Hale.

Among the speakers will be Charles C. Moore, candidate for the United States Senate at the election last year.

BATTLE ON KLAN GIVEN START BY STANFORD HEADS

Effort to Use Assembly Hall to Organize Chapter Met With Broadside.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 11.—Denial by university authorities today of the use of Assembly hall for an organization meeting of the Stanford chapter, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said to be in process of formation here, was the first broadside fired in the university's battle to overthrow the klan insofar as that institution is concerned.

Another development in the controversy was the severance of relations by the Daily Palo Alto, undergraduate newspaper, with Stanford supporters of the klan.

Rumors circulated last week to the effect that a Stanford chapter of the klan had been formed at a secret meeting of about forty Stanford undergraduates were verified when Robert Burnett, a senior student of engineering, sent a signed communication to the student newspaper telling of the meeting and announcing his intention of securing the university Assembly hall for the purpose of laying the klan's "ideals" before the students.

Philip Newill, editor of the Daily Palo Alto, in an editorial personal letter to "Mr. Robert Burnett, Misguided Patriot," discloses Burnett's wish that no adverse publicity be printed with regard to the klan. Newill, however, declines to favor Burnett a nd definitely puts the undergraduate paper on record as wholly opposed to the klan and its extension of activities on the Stanford campus.

"We note that you have taken pains to discover the 'ideals' of the Klux," writes Newill, "but we hope that the discovery did not give you as much pain as it has given us. As it happens, we have, from personal experience, learned a lot about the 'ideals' of the Kluxers, through seeing those same 'ideals' in practical operation; and we believe that such things as manipulated ballots, spoils systems in government offices, such violences as stringing men up until they are near death and then telling them to go home would provide excellent diversions for Stanford undergraduates—provided there were enough sheets to go around.

"Perhaps you think that the situation on the Stanford campus is so bad that it needs the helpful influences of the bed-sheet threat in the form of sheet-knights in nightshirts who go about in disguise after dark and break the law to secure the peace. Allow us to congratulate you on something which is decidedly not an honor society."

Two Boys, 14, Confess Murder of Baby

WILLIAM FORRESTER and PAUL DAEDLER, both aged 14, of Pasadena, Calif., have admitted that they shot 5-year-old Arthur Martinez by accident, inflicting a slight wound, then, fearing the consequences of their act, beat him insensible with a brick and left him bound with wire in a deserted old factory in that city, according to police officials. This picture shows the two boys telling their story to Chief of Police Kelly of Pasadena.—P. & A. photo.

JAPANESE DIET FACES PROBLEMS

TOKYO, Dec. 11 (By the Associated Press).—Facing many important problems, including that of reconstruction and finance, the Japanese diet convened in extraordinary session here this morning. The prince regent, dressed in the uniform of a lieutenant colonel of the imperial Japanese army, addressed the diet, expressing pleasure in the unity of the people of Japan during the recent catastrophe. "We have been profoundly impressed with the sincere sympathy shown by the friendly powers of the world," he declared.

At the conclusion of his address the prince regent said he hoped the members of the diet would discharge their duties in a spirit of harmony and cooperation.

All women love the little personal adornments that Christmas usually brings—but—the lasting gift—the one that makes her happy all the year—is the one that she regards the most.

Such a gift is the ROYAL Electric Vacuum Cleaner. It is an every-day comfort to the careful housewife. It cleans out-of-the-way corners — stair runners—hardwood floors—linoleum —lamp shades—auto upholstery—mattresses—bureau drawers—moulding—and countless other places where dust and dirt just naturally will creep in.

Give your wife or mother a ROYAL for Christmas—and be confident your choice is the very best.

Remember: There is a vast difference in vacuum cleaners. A "hunk" of aluminum, a dust bag and a handle do not make a cleaner like the ROYAL—the ROYAL is a chum of cleanliness for life.

PRINCE FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO BUY NOTED PAINTINGS

Millionaire Widener Refuses to Yield Rembrandts to Russian Offer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia millionaire and art collector, has refused an offer from Prince Felix Youssoupoff of Russia to recover for $518,000 the two Rembrandt portraits the prince sold him in London on August, 1921, for $350,000, Emory R. Buckner, the prince's attorney, said last night.

The contract for the sale was said to provide that the prince could regain the two portraits within two and a half years, for the purchase price plus eight per cent interest, on the condition that he agreed not to re-dispose of them within ten years. Buckner admitted the prince intended to get the purchase money from a Paris bank which was to hold the Rembrandts as collateral.

It is because of the latter circumstance, Buckner said he understood, that Widener refused to sell. The prince has until January 1, 1924, to regain the art treasures and Buckner plans to present a formal offer for them in the meantime. If that is refused he threatened suit on the basis that Widener has no right to stipulate conditions in a mortgage.

The original purchase money was 100,000 pounds sterling, and when Widener made the purchase the pound was down on the exchange.

The prince is one of the most ancient and noble families of Russia. In the days of the czar he was reckoned the wealthiest man in the country. He has admitted that it was in his house that Rasputin, the monk who exerted such influence over the czarina, was assassinated. He escaped from Russia and formed an organization to aid noble Russian refugees in London, Paris and Rome.

Silk Lingerie Taken by Thief; Gems Untouched

DENVER, Dec. 11.—"I am taking your silk underwear for my wife; she has all the jewels she wants."

This note was found on a table when Mrs. Charles F. Cleland returned to her home from the theater. Near the note were several valuable pieces of jewelry. The burglar had evidently found the silk "undies" while ransacking a dresser and decided that they would please Mrs. Burglar very much.

Mrs. Cleland says she thinks he showed good taste, and that she certainly appreciated his action.

Eagle Attacks Car Upon City Street

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—An eagle swooped down out of the sky yesterday and landed on the hood of an automobile being driven by Dr. M. B. Mooslin at Eddy and Franklin streets. The huge bird, apparently frightened into a frenzy, attacked the windshield of the car. Dr. Mooslin stopped the machine and after a fierce struggle succeeded in throwing his coat over the bird and capturing it. The windshield of the car was broken, the eagle received a deep cut in one wing when he threshed it against the broken glass, and one of Dr. Mooslin's hands was injured.

S. F. Man Injured When Hit by Auto

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Joseph Bassler, 410 Eddy street, suffered a fractured skull and severe cuts and bruises when run down by an automobile today at Fourth and Market streets. The driver of the machine, Joseph Whitley, 687 Twenty-ninth street, conveyed him to the Central Emergency hospital.

SENATE SHEARS POWER OF WOOD

MANILA, Dec. 11.—Important discretionary powers of controlling the collection of land taxes and of confining penalties for failure to pay the assessments would be sheared from Governor General Leonard Wood under a bill passed by the Senate here today.

Another measure passed by the senate gives the insular government greater authority over foreign banking institutions operating in the islands. Neither bill has come to a vote in the house. The bill relating to taxation would transfer the powers now possessed by the governor general to postpone the payment of land taxes from the legislature to the provincial boards in the island.

Recently the senate passed over Governor General Wood's veto a bill remitting penalties for the non-payment of the land taxes and the measure was sent to Washington for action by President Coolidge. In his veto message Governor General Wood declared that he opposed the remission of taxes of any kind except in cases of great calamities.

Mrs. O. D. Miller, 2028 Hyde street, San Francisco, inserted an advertisement in The TRIBUNE "Houses to Let" column, to run for three days; on the second day a TRIBUNE reader rented the house.

Worker Drops Dead On Martinez Street

Train Blocks Road; Court Gives Damages

PARIS, Dec. 11.—(By Associated Press).—Long waits by automobiles at railroad crossings in France promise to grow shorter, in view of a recent Paris court decision awarding damages to M. Schreiber for being kept waiting by a railroad train for forty-two minutes.

Schreiber tried strong language on a switching crew, but witnesses effect, so he got some witnesses and filed suit. It developed that an old law authorized department prefects to fix the limit of delay where train stops, or when switching was likely to exceed ten minutes. As there was no such limit in this case the court accepted ten minutes as the time a railroad might block a highway, and recognized the right of those delayed to collect damages for loss of time and mental suffering.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE, tell them so.

Woman Rears 18 In Abandoned Scow

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 11.—(By Associated Press).—The old woman who lived in a shoe has a rival in a woman who for years has lived with her husband and family in an old scow moored at a coal wharf in Lake Champlain in this city, where they have raised eighteen children.

At one time this family moved ashore to a regular house, but they soon went back to their marine quarters. On another occasion the wife and mother, who has been bedridden for several years, went to a hospital for treatment, but after five days she said she did not get enough fresh air, and insisted on returning to the scow.

Swede Actors Sail For Southern Seas

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 11.—Parking their bear-skin coats at home along with their worries about the price of coal, a group of Swedish adventurers has just sailed away from the winter nights of the north, bound for Borneo and other South Sea islands, where they will take motion pictures and write up their impressions for the benefit of their fellow citizens. They will be gone eight months.

BRITISH CABNET BACKS BALDWIN TO HOLD POSITION

Prime Minister Will Retain Premiership and Attempt to Carry On.

By Lloyd Allen,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The British cabinet, it is understood, approved today the action of Premier Stanley Baldwin in deciding to remain prime minister and attempt to carry on without a majority.

The cabinet adjourned at 1:30 p. m. after conferring with Baldwin at 10 Downing street.

By DAVID M. CHURCH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—When the British cabinet session began some ministers urged the premier to quit at once, pointing out that the Tory government would be at the mercy of the Laborites and Liberals when Parliament meets. It was reported that some of the war ministers threatened to resign if the premier decided to carry on.

The Rothermore and Beaverbrook newspapers, the most powerful chain of papers in Great Britain, are demanding the resignation of the premier.

Former premiers David Lloyd George and H. H. Asquith held a conference to determine the policy of the Liberal party.

It was reported that Asquith was inclined to have the Liberals support a new Tory government if former Premier A. J. Balfour were appointed to Baldwin's post, and Austen Chamberlain were given a portfolio in the cabinet.

Blue Bird Bureau

It seems impossible that a mother could desert her child, but it has happened in this case. The little girl who wrote tells how her mother had deserted her sister and herself, and how they are now living with their grandmother and father. Her father is not earning enough to support them, especially as the grandmother is ill a great deal of the time. She asks for a few toys for herself and sister at Christmas time.

The boy writes that his oldest brother's hand was hurt, and he is at present out of work. The other brother lost three fingers which were cut off his hand, and is out of work. The father is working, but is not making enough to support them. The mother has the use of only one hand, so the prospect of a happy Christmas is rather slight unless they are given some help.

The day after Christmas last year the father of this child died, and since that time things have been going rather hard with them. The mother is ill, and Christmas looks rather bleak to the two little giddies. They think, perhaps, that some Goodfellow will play Santa Claus to them.

This kiddie's father has been crippled. As a result he has been laid off from his work. His mother has tried to find work, but has failed. He writes: "I hope you will bring us some toys and something for Christmas if you can." May he have them, Goodfellows?

A young girl, paralyzed on one side and unable to work, asks help for the family, for her mother is out of work, and her father can find work for only three days of the week. She especially wants a dinner for the little members of the family. In fact, "I will thank you ever so much for anything you can give me."

The time is getting short, Goodfellows, to answer these appeals for help. Time goes so rapidly and it will be Christmas before you realize it. Send in your blank now, don't wait. Some child may be disappointed if you do.

To those who ask for help from the Blue Bird, please have all letters in the office by Saturday, the 15th of this month. After that time, it will be impossible to give attention to the appeals which may come in.

To the donors of the gifts and money, the Blue Bird wishes to extend its heartfelt thanks and appreciation. They were given for the sake of a child and the Blue Bird will fly with happiness to every child that it possiby can.

GOODFELLOWS' BLANK

Husband Sues for His Cash in Bank

Suit to recover $1500 cash in bank which his wife withdrew and then placed in his own name, it is alleged, has been instituted by George M. Harris, a salesman, against Mrs. Ethel M. Harris. Harris says the money was in a joint account in the Oakland Bank until October 18, when his wife withdrew it and placed it in her own name. The couple are now separated and Harris obtained a restraining order from the court to prevent his wife from disposing of the money pending a hearing.

Woman Autoist Travels Far and Saves Fine of $10

HAYWARD, Dec. 11. — Because Mrs. J. E. Black, box 193, Saratoga, traveled all the way to Hayward to plead guilty and pay a fine for speeding, and then journeyed on to Oakland to find Judge Jacob Harder Jr., who was sitting for an Oakland police judge there, she not only saved herself $10, but gained the well wishes of the local official.

Pending conference with Lewie Elke, arresting traffic officer, Judge Harder ordered Mrs. Black to leave $10 bail. At yesterday's weekly session here, it was agreed that the defendant's act was so unusual, her desire to cause the Hayward officials as little trouble as possible was so sincere and her agitation at being placed under arrest so obvious that her check would be returned and the charges dismissed.

"Y" SECRETARY TO SPEAK.

William Gillanders, general secretary of the Oakland Y. M. C. A., will make the principal address tonight at the Men's club open forum at the First Presbyterian church. Dinner will be served in social hall at 6.30. Gillanders' theme will be "The Greatest Topic in the World."

GUS OLIVA TAKES HIS FOURTH WIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—The fourth matrimonial venture of Rinaldo Augustus ("Gus") Oliva, commission man and politician, became known today with the announcement of his marriage to Myrtle Cavanaugh, 23, who assisted him in his recent $100,000 seduction suit brought by Elaine Litt-tel. The wedding occurred in Sausalito November 22, but was kept secret until today. Mrs. Oliva is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cavanaugh of this city.

They were married by Judge I. M. Henry, town recorder of Sausalito, at his home, with Camille Henry and Harold V. Henry as witnesses.

Oliva divorced his first wife and married Louise Newsome in San Jose in 1916, before the divorce of Camille Gilardi Oliva, the first wife, had become effective. The second marriage was annulled and, after the divorce had become effective, they were married the second time. Louise Newsome Oliva died October 23, 1920.

Oliva's third matrimonial venture was a secret marriage with Clare Dolan, 19-year-old daughter of Joseph P. Dolan, U. S. inspector of hulls and boilers. The marriage was annulled two weeks later and kept secret until April, 1923, two years later.

E. F. DELGER DIES AT S. F. HOME

Edward F. Delger, son of the late Frederick Delger and Mrs. Ernestine Delger, early settlers in Oakland, died last night at his home in San Francisco, following an illness of several months. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. from the family home, Twenty-fifth street and Fair Oaks avenue, San Francisco. The interment, which will be private, will be made in the Delger vault in Mountain View cemetery.

Born in the old family estate at Nineteenth street and Telegraph avenue, a landmark recently wrecked to make way for a business building, for nearly a half a century, Delger resided in Oakland. Some years ago, however, he established his residence across the bay. He was educated in the local schools and eastern colleges.

Delger was prominent in Masonic and Knight Templar orders. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Pryor Delger, died in March. A son and daughter survive. They are Mrs. Joseph Barnett and Frederick F. Delger Jr., both of San Francisco.

Delger was the brother of the late Mrs. Matilda Brown, Mrs. William E. Moller of Piedmont and Dr. Lillian Delger Powers of New York.

CRAZED MAN RUNS AMUCK IN COURT; TWO ARE BITTEN

Mike Johnson, S. F. Waiter, Attacks Warden Emley and Steward.

Becoming violently insane during a preliminary hearing as to his sanity before Superior Judge George E. Samuels yesterday evening, Mike Johnson, 30, a San Francisco waiter, in trying to escape from the courtroom, bit off part of Warden Charles A. Emlay's ear and a piece of flesh from his face and also bit a piece of flesh from the hand of Steward J. E. Tompkinson, who assisted in subduing the crazed man.

Judge Samuels had continued Johnson's case until today. Johnson, who was clad only in night clothes, made a break for the door, but was caught by Emlay, who leaped on his back. John Marvinoni, court clerk, and Steward Tompkinson aided Emlay. A straight-jacket was put on Johnson. Twelve other insane patients became greatly excited during the fracas. Some of them tried to escape and were quieted with great difficulty.

Johnson, who is a powerful man, more than six feet tall, had never shown symptoms of insanity before last Friday evening, when he was arrested at East Fourteenth street and Twenty-third avenue on the complaint of his cousin, Thomas Johnson, 2622 Twenty-third avenue, who found him dancing around a drug-store and babbling incoherently.

RAIL HEADS GIVE RATE TESTIMONY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Representing California railroads joined with the Southern Pacific Company in a defense against the application of fruit growers for a reduction in the basic rate on fruits to points east of Denver, witnesses testified at the Interstate Commerce Commission field hearing here to the burden of expense which railroads assume to accommodate fruit growers.

C. B. Strohm, superintendent of transportation of the Santa Fe, testified that his company was compelled, in order to aid growers, to purchase 6000 refrigerator cars and 63 locomotives to move California grapes, the cost of the latter being $4,000,000.

He also told of the cost of moving fruit freight from Bakersfield to Chicago in 154 hours, when ordinary freight is moved in 197 hours over the same territory.

Concurrent with the fruit hearing the Interstate Commerce Commission today is holding a regional field inquiry into the grain and hay freight rates. This hearing was ordered by the commission upon the suggestion of President Coolidge. Local flour millers and California grain shippers will be heard.

Old and new clothing make up the bulk of the foreign Christmas mail, officials said.

MEETS WOMEN, $440 OUT

A meeting with two strange women on a downtown street corner last night cost Albert Hanson, residing at the Woodrow Hotel, $440, Hanson told the police today. Hanson said he encountered the women at Sixteenth street and San Pablo avenue. While one of them engaged him in conversation, the other extracted his wallet from his pocket.

BOOZE GUARDS STONED IN FIGHT NEAR FORT ERIE

Hostile Crowd Attacks Crew Attempting to Capture Canadian Runner.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Captain Daly and the local Coast Guard crew were stoned last night by a hostile crowd on the wharf at Fort Erie after the American officer had made an unsuccessful effort to capture a Canadian motorboat supposed to be smuggling contraband liquor to the American side of the Niagara river. The American Coast Guard craft withdrew to American waters and the alleged rum boat remained tied up at the Canadian wharf.

The excitement began about 10 o'clock when the speedy government cruiser was seen in pursuit of a larger craft between the head of the river and the international bridge. The Coast Guard crews got a line on the prize and started toward the head of the river to docks at the Coast Guard station. Then a man on the Canadian craft cut the tow line and the cruiser put in to the Fort Erie dock and made fast.

SCOUT PLANE RUSHED INTO JERSEY SERVICE.

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

KEYPORT, N. J., Dec. 11.—Fighting tooth and nail to land before Christmas many thousand cases of liquor now bobbing around on rum row, smugglers today found themselves threatened with defeat by the activities of shore forces serving as a secondary defense to Coast Guard cutters patrolling the wet squadron.

Still further hampered by the withdrawal to the proposed 12-mile limit of the liquor carriers from Nassau and other wet ports, bottle fishermen with headquarters ashore have been forced to press a scout plane into service, according to the latest reports reaching New Jersey state police.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE, tell them so.

1-MAN CARS TO OPERATE IN BERKELEY

City Council Passes Ordinance Approving Type for Dwight Way, Ashby Lines; Referendum Is Threatened

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—As a conclusion to the one-man street car controversy here, the city council today adopted an ordinance approving the use of the one-man type of cars on the Dwight way and Ashby avenue lines.

Upon motion of Prof. Samuel C. May, member of the council, City Manager John N. Edy was instructed to draft an amendment to the present ordinance which prohibits the one-man cars as unsafe.

Mrs. W. G. Clevgerdon, president of the Berkeley State Housewives' league, and Mrs. Mabel Mitchell protested against the adoption of the ordinance, and threatened the council with referendum proceedings if the measure carried.

The ordinance contains a clause which may disapprove the use of the cars if they are found to be unsatisfactory after six months' trial.

The council also passed to print an ordinance allowing the operation, by the traction company, of a bus line on Sixth street north to Gilman street, thence east to San Pablo avenue and connecting with the Dwight way line at that point. An annual fee of $60 is to be paid by the company for each bus in operation.

The council also endorsed the site at Le Roy, Buena Vista and La Loma avenues, designated by the board, for the new Hillside school.

MONTANANS TO MEET.

The call to all ex-Montanans to attend is sounded by the following committee: L. D. Howard, formerly of Bozeman; Miss Nell Barry, formerly of Butte; H. W. Lamont, formerly of Missoula; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Kitts, formerly of Miles City.

Early Christmas Mailing Is Urged by Postmaster

"Do your Christmas mailing early."

This was the appeal made today by Postmaster Joseph J. Rosborough in order that the local and postoffices throughout the country may function at their maximum efficiency during ing the period preceding the holidays when mail handling facilities will be taxed to the utmost.

According to the postmaster, due to the fact that Christmas will be on Tuesday, December 25, it is imparitive that every piece of mail reach its destination by the preceding Saturday. If mail is disposed of early, according to Rosborough, it will be handled by only experienced clerks, while if it is put off until the last minute, it will be taken care of by sub-clerks employed by the postoffice to assist in the Christmas rush.

In order that Oakland people may have some idea of the necessity of mailing their packages early, Rosborough has announced the following schedule, showing what times packages for various sections of the country should be in the local office:

Packages going east of Chicago and to the southern states, to be mailed not later than tomorrow.

To North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, not later than December 14.

To Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Arizona, not later than December 15.

Oregon, Washington, Utah and Nevada, not later than December 17.

To points in California, not later than December 18.

To San Francisco and bay region, not later than December 21.

POULTRY AND PIGEON SHOW WINS PRAISE

Following Award of Prizes Exhibition in Auditorium Will Close This Evening; Great Interest Is Shown

With the announcement of the award of prizes the Third Annual Poultry and Pigeon Show of the California State Poultry Association and the California Pigeon Club will come to a close this evening at the Auditorium. From every standpoint the exhibit has scored a success. More than 4500 birds were placed on exhibition, and chicken and pigeon fanciers from all portions of the State have been in attendance.

"Our third show is easily the most successful of all our efforts," explained O. H. Hunt, secretary of the association, yesterday. "We have succeeded in arousing a greater degree of interest than ever before, and the quality of the birds entered indicates a distinct advance over the exhibits entered in previous shows.

"A feature of the event has been the interest taken by the school children. We have had exhibits from school children not only from Alameda county but from other sections of the State, and the officers of the association are taking considerable pride in this fact, inasmuch as it means that the coming generation is being educated to an appreciation of the finer qualities in poultry and pigeons. Our attendance record also indicates the growing interest in these things on the part of the general public.

"I wish to take this occasion to extend thanks to all who have made this show the great success that it has turned out to be."

Wealthy Wheatland Man Hurt in Auto

SAN JOSE, Dec. 11.—E. Clemens Horst, wealthy former hop grower of Wheatland, was painfully but not seriously hurt when his automobile turned over several times on the San Francisco highway near Mayfield last night. Horst was returning to his home in Los Altos after a visit in San Francisco. It is alleged that he was traveling at a high rate of speed when the car skidded from the highway, turning over several times. Horst was rushed to the Palo Alto hospital in Palo Alto, where it was found that while he was severely cut and bruised, he was not seriously injured. The car was demolished. What caused the crash is not known.

FILM SHOWS OAKLAND TO ANTIPODES

Australia and New Zealand to Be Made Acquainted With Big Eastbay Attractions at Movie Theaters

The people of Australia and New Zealand will see Oakland in the movies during the coming winter and summer months.

One print of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce film, "The Goal of All the Ages," is now on its way to the Antipodes, and will be placed in circulation there through the leading motion picture theaters.

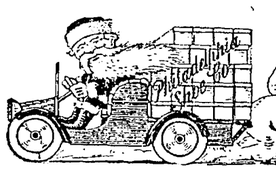

There are now 31 prints of this film in circulation. The cost of production and the cost of the first 11 prints was borne by the publicity department of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. The county of Alameda, through the board of supervisors, has since purchased 20 additional prints. These 20 are circulating through the Bureau of Commercial Economics of Washington, D. C., which reaches into practically all of the States of the Middle West and East.

The chamber also is completing a one-reel industrial film, which is said to be the first of its kind ever made. It will be a sales talk in pictures designed to tell prospective investors the story of Oakland's advantages in a manner only possible through graphic presentation. This latter film contains animated charts and maps.

Ale Taster Dies; His Job Was to Sample Liquors

TWICKENHAM, Eng., Dec. 11.—(By Associated Press).—The official ale taster of the Duke of Northumberland, Frederick Stuckley, of Sion Manor, Isleworth, is dead. In the good old days when English ale was real ale, pungent, rich in color and possessing a kick, unobtainable from any of the lighter, frothy brews at one time familiar in America, many Englishmen considered the ducal ale taster the most fortunate man in the king's realm.

He had the authority to enter a public house, call for beer, taste it, and condemn it if not of good quality. In recent years, however, he had not taken advantage of his official position.

The office of ale taster extends back to the time when the Saxons ruled in England. The injunction to the official on assuming his duties was as follows:

"You shall swear that you shall well and truly serve the King's Majesty and the Lord of this Leet, in the office of ale taster.

"You shall have diligent care during the time of your being in office to all the brewers and tipplers within your office, that they and every one of them do make good and wholesome ale and beer for man's body, and that the same be sold according to the prices limited and appointed by the King's justices of the peace."

Bulgaria Battles Soviet Penetration

SOFIA, Dec. 11.—Moscow has resumed its efforts to "re-establish a system of bolshevik penetration," says a statement issued by the ministerial council. King Boris and his government are determined to fight the spread of sovietism, it is announced, recognizing in it a real danger to the country.

Several soviet agents have been arrested.

FORGER ADMITS BAD CHECKS NET OVER $100,000

Harkins, California Fugitive, Said to Have Confessed Many Bad Checks.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 11.—"I am glad it is all over. I do not care what they do. I am tired of it all. I wish they would hang me."

The foregoing statement was said by the police to have been made by William Hamilton Hawkins, alleged forger and, according to his own story, member of a prominent family of San Jose, Cal., who was arrested here yesterday and is being held as a fugitive from justice. Hawkins is said by officials of a local detective agency, who effected his arrest at the Jefferson Park race track, to have forged checks amounting to approximately $100,000 in many cities throughout the country.

A woman giving her name as Mrs. Edna Alexander of New York was being held with the alleged fugitive.

Hawkins talked freely after his arrest. He said he was a lieutenant in the Seventy-third squadron and was on detail with the British army at Ypres when he was wounded 47 times. He exhibited to newspaper men the wounds circling his heart and a silver plate in his skull.

SENT TO SAN QUENTIN.

He said he got into trouble at Shreveport in 1919, when he forged a check for $100. He was sentenced to five years at San Quentin penitentiary, but served only one year, he told the police. Later, he declared, he was sent to an insane hospital at Agnew, Cal., where he remained about a year. He walked away a few months ago, he said.

"I have cashed checks all the way from a few dollars to $9000," Hawkins was quoted as saying. "I never have any trouble. I can nearly always find out how much a man has in the bank. Whenever I got broke, I wrote a check," he is said to have added.

The records at the detective agency show Hawkins has operated in at least twenty cities since 1919. He is said to have forged checks on a local furniture company amounting to $1200 ten days ago. He arrived here yesterday from Jacksonville, Fla.

He probably will be returned to California.

COMMITTED TO ASYLUM.

SAN JOSE, Dec. 11.—William Hamilton Harkins, arrested in New Orleans under the name of Hawkins as a forgery suspect, was arrested in Oakland in 1922 as a parole violator. He was brought to San Jose where he was alleged to have passed a forged check for $50. His brother Rev. H. D. Harkins on May 15, 1922, brought proceedings in the superior court to have the suspect declared insane on the ground that he did not know right from wrong and was irresponsible. The accused man was committed to the state hospital at Agnew.

In 1920 Harkins was arrested in San Francisco on a charge of having forged a $600 check in Stockton. He was sentenced to serve one to 14 years in San Quentin prison, but was paroled in 1921, according to records of the local police. It was for violation of this parole that he was arrested in Oakland.

Harkins' father is William Harkins, a contractor living at 474 North Fourth street, this city. The brother is said to be living now in the vicinity of Newman.

VIOLATES PAROLE.

According to the identification bureau of the Oakland police department, Harkins was arrested on February 4, 1920 in San Francisco for Stockton authorities. He was booked en route to Stockton, "checks, no funds." On February 19, he was booked at Stockton as "Owen Galen" on a charge of forgery and was sentenced to from 1 to 14 years in San Quentin on August 14, 1921.

On May 9, 1922 he was arrested in Oakland as W. H. Hawkins and was booked en route to San Jose as a parole violator. On August 1, 1922 he was arrested in San Francisco on a charge of burglary.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 11. — Emil Koski of Oakland pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Justice of the Peace Frank Glass and paid a fine of $200. Koski was arrested several weeks ago at Walnut Creek.

MAN WORRIED BY INCOME TAX TAKES POISON

BREMERTON, Wash., Dec. 11.—The death of Frank J. Mossman, an employe of the Puget Sound naval station, here today by poison was attributed to worry because he had not made federal income tax returns. He died an hour after he had according to police, taken the fatal draught.

CHILD CRUSHED TO DEATH.

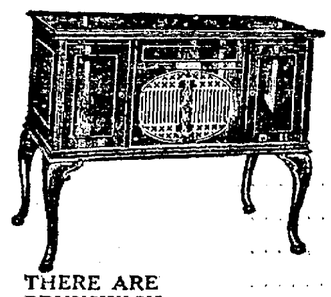

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 11.—Sherill Usher, 4, son of Charles Usher, an employe of the Terrabella Irrigation district, was crushed to death yesterday when material for construction of a well fell on the child.

Volstead Offender Is Fined One Cent

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—One cent was the fine levied against R. W. Bailey, found guilty in the federal court on a Volstead charge when it developed that he was without funds and had been in jail since liquor was found in his possession, October 31. A deputy marshal paid the fine for Bailey.

WORK STARTS ON OFFICE BUILDING IN 17TH STREET

Ground Floor to Be Devoted to Stores; Investment Totals $500,000.

Construction work on a new seven-story office building to be located on the north side of Seventeenth street, 100 feet east of Broadway, started today. The building will be owned by Dr. W. H. Wakefield, Edwin R. Leach and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wolfenden, who recently purchased the lot from George Ebey and J. Richard Ryan.

The new building will occupy a lot 100 by 100 feet in size. The excavation work for the building was finished several months ago, when plans for another building had been made. Work was halted on this project, however, when negotiations for the new building were commenced.

Charles W. McCall is the architect for the new building. The investment represents approximately $500,000, according to Dr. Wakefield, the principal owner. The building will be devoted to offices, with stores on the ground floor.

Wolf Hunter To Seek Prey In Spiked Suit

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 11.—Having turned himself into a human porcupine, Stanley Carlson of St. Paul, Minn., has announced his intention of departing soon for Port Arthur to slay the wolves of northern Ontario for government bounties.

He has constructed an anti-wolf equipment comprising a cowhide suit covered with spikes an inch long, a helmet, a wire mask, and spiked gloves. The rig weighs only twenty-three pounds despite the fact that it has embedded in it 1200 nails at half-inch intervals.

Carlson's plan is to let the wolves nibble at his armor while he clouts them on the head with an axe.

Sewage Cost for Campbell Detailed

CAMPBELL, Dec. 11.—Detailed reports on the cost and construction of a satisfactory sewage disposal system for this community were presented at last week's meeting of the Campbell Improvement club, when Clyde Kennedy, sanitation engineer from San Francisco, reported the results of his recent survey of this territory. Kennedy reported that a satisfactory system could be installed at a cost of approximately $85,000. A committee of five members has been appointed to give the matter a further investigation.

The annual election of officers of the improvement club was also held at this session, Roy Archibald being named as vice-president and E. R. Kennedy being chosen as president. Mrs. C. B. Miracle was named secretary and L. Miller was elected as assistant secretary. Various annual committee and officers reports were heard. Plans were made for the annual banquet, to be given by the Country Women's club on January 11 or 12.

Project Supplementing Don Pedro Is Seen in Filing of Transfer.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 11.—Construction of another water reservoir by the East Bay Water company as an auxiliary to its great San Pablo project was seen today with the placing on record of a deed disclosing transfer by the C. A. Hooper & Company of 505 acres in the Moraga district to the water company. The property lies in Contra Costa and Alameda counties, with the greater portion of the tract in this county. The consideration as indicated by the deed was $75,000.

Youth Arraigned On Battery Charge

SAN JOSE, Dec. 11.—Ray McClintic, twenty-year-old son of Mrs. Lucy McClintic, secretary of the Santa Clara County Law and Order League, arrested on Sunday after a fight with his cousin, Wawsworth Hawes, in which Hawes fell or was knocked in the path of a moving automobile, run over and badly injured, was arraigned on a battery charge preferred by W. H. Hawes, father of the injured youth, before Police Judge T. R. Dougherty yesterday. The case was set for trial on Jan. 8 by Judge Dougherty. Young McClintic was released until the date of trial on $100 cash bail.

ARSON COUPLE AWAIT SIGNING OF EXTRADITION

Pair Held at Napa Ready for Return to Face Wisconsin Charge.

NAPA, Dec. 11.—All formalities of extradition for Edward J. Sailstad and Miss Dorothy Anderson, confessed arsonists, for their removal from California to Wisconsin for trial, are expected to be completed today.

District Attorney Robert E. Kennedy, and Sheriff W. A. Hagreen of Douglas county, Wis., who arrived here yesterday, went to Sacramento to take the necessary steps for the removal of their prisoners.

Once this is done, there will be no further reason for delaying the departure of the man, who confessed he attempted to defraud insurance companies out of large sums by robbing a grave and burning the body so that it might be identified as his, and his companion.

Both Sailstad and Miss Anderson were in good spirits today, anxious to "go and get it over with." Exhibitions of sympathy made by the Wisconsin officials at a conference with the accused pair yesterday have greatly cheered them.

Mrs. W. A. Hagreen, who accompanied her husband west, will act as matron for Miss Anderson. The entire party will travel together, leaving late Wednesday or early Thursday, it is understood.

Builders Get Rich In Tokyo District

TOKYO, Nov. 10.—(By Associated Press).—Industries in all parts of Japan are feeling the effects of the decreased demand as a result of the earthquake and fire. Unemployment is on the increase everywhere except in the devastated area where there is plenty of work, specially for manual laborers.

Farmers, too, are complaining that the reduction of the duties on food products has brought down the prices of what they have to sell. Meanwhile the builders and their workmen, and the people who supply building material, are reaping a harvest, charging in many cases exorbitant prices for the merest makeshift buildings.

Workmen are surprising their employers. An American resident here for upwards of fifty years, and indirectly an employer of many workmen, says the Japanese never worked so hard before. They have given up all amusements and have unreservedly set themselves the task of making the destroyed cities habitable.

TO IMPROVE U. S. HOSPITALS.

ALLIES SECRETLY PLEADED WITH U. S. FOR HELP

Congressman Kahn Tells of Meeting Where Allied Leaders Admitted Defeat.

BY SPECIAL WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

By LEO A. McCLATCHY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The story of an impassioned plea made secretly in Washington early in 1917 to a congressional delegation by a joint British-French commission, for assistance in prosecuting the war against Germany, is told for the first time by Represe ta-tive Julius Kahn, San Francisco.

The British mission was headed by Lord Curzon, while Viviani and Marshal Joffre were the leading light representing France. After laying their proposals before the War Department, they asked that arrangements be made for them to meet in a secret session with twenty-five representative members of the two branches of Congress. Kahn, as chairman of the House military affairs committee, was one of those who was picked to attend.

MEETING WAS SECRET.

What transpired in that session has, to this day, remained secret. Kahn tells the story to disprove what has been said in England and in France that the allies could have won the war without American assistance. He also says the facts should be made public because of refusal by France to pay its debt to this nation, using the funds instead to increase its own military strength.

Marshal Joffre, as spokesman for the French-British delegation, is quoted by Kahn as having said:

"Gentlemen, England and France are licked. You alone can save them by coming to their relief immediately. If you cannot send any troops over for a year, then keep them at home. They can be of no service to us. We have got to help and we have got to have that help now.

"Send us immediately just one division. Have half of that division parade down the streets of Paris, the other half down the streets of London. That will show the French people and the English people that you are in earnest. They have given up now, but that will renew their hopes. That is the only thing that will save us."

WAR'S TURNING POINT.

"The result of this plea," said Kahn, "was that the first American division sailed June 6. On July, half of that division paraded in Paris, and half of it paraded in London. That was one of the turning points of the war, for it showed the English and the French that we were determined to help."

Pointing out that hundreds of thousands of American troops followed that division to France, and calling attention to the victories won by those troops, Kahn sys it is time the allies give to America the credit to which is entitled for the part she played in bringing victory.

He condemns the present attitude of France in not repaying to this nation the money he says enabled France to "carry on," end adds:

"France hasn't any right to spend money right and left on increasing her army and doing all kinds of things that she is doing. She ought to pay us what she owes first."

Twins Touted as Political Aids by Congressman

BY SPECIAL WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Youths aspiring to a career in politics might derive some benefit from the advice of Representative Arthur M. Free of San Jose, who suggests two preliminary steps as being exceedingly helpful. The first is marriage, and the second is to become the father of a big family, with at least two sets of twins sprinkled in for good measure. Then the road to success as a representative of "the dear people" is pretty well paved.

The California congressman has had experience, and presumably ought to know. He's the father of five children, including two sets of twins. Those twins have been helpful in building up his political fortunes. Everywhere he goes, he is heralded as "the father of two sets of twins." The movie photographers and the news camera men are "shooting" this little group pretty often.

Free says it's a big asset. When asked by one of the twins, "Dad, where would you be if it wasn't for us?" he had to admit it might be pretty tough sledding.

Some other members of Congress are envious of all the publicity that the prune belt representative gets, but they are not in a position to compete with him.

Recently, Free was all smiles because he had broken his arm. People wondered how he could derive any enjoyment from what they regard as a misfortune.

"It's this way," the Calif rnian explained. "Last year I was nearly killed in an automobile accident near Baltimore. Just before that, I broke my wrist. With me, everything happens in threes. This being my third accident, I'm immune for the future."

And the wondering public nodded their heads knowingly at this explanation from the father of two sets of twins.

Iowa Maintains Record for Autos

(By International News Service.)

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 11.—Iowa, with the largest number of automobiles per capita in the United States, is increasing its lead, according to figures announced by the registration department of the Secretary of State's office here.

Motor vehicles registered this month totaled 573,000, and it is estimated that at least 575,000 motor vehicles will be registered before the end of the year. The 1920 census showed the state with a population of 2,400,000 and, allowing the present population to be 2,500,000 gives Iowa a ratio of one automobile for every 4.3 persons.

REPUBLICANS OF SACRAMENTO IN COOLIDGE LEAGUE

President's Supporters Busy in State; Johnson to Campaign in Massachusetts.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 11.—The move on the part of friends of President Calvin Coolidge to invade California found expression of action in Senator Hiram Johnson's home city last night when Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan and State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson took the lead in forming the Republican League of Sacramento County. Republicans in attendance at the organization meeting of the league, which started out with a membership of 168 votes, were emphatic in their declarations that California will send a delegation to the national convention pledged to Coolidge.

The league to back Coolidge in the city of Johnson's birth followed the organization a week ago of a Johnson-for-President club. This club was sponsored by the Sacramento county central committee, which is controlled by Johnson men.

J. W. S. Butler, Sacramento attorney and former president of the California State Bar Association, who was chosen president of the league, said its purpose is "to advocate the candidacy of Calvin Coolidge for president of the United States."

"At no time in the history of the United States has it been so important that the Republican leadership be continued," he continued.

W. S. Killingsworth, a local fruit dealer, who presided temporarily, said it would not be the persuasive powers of a candidate that will influence the voters of California, but "the principles he espouses."

State Treasurer Johnson told the league that eighty-two similar organizations had been formed in California, and added that many others will be listed after the state meeting of Coolidge followers to be held in San Francisco tomorrow.

Secretary of State Jordan said California has been following a "strange god long enough, and it is time for us to assert ourselves. California ought to be recognized in the result of this campaign as one of the potent factors in the party."

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California will make a personal campaign in Massachusetts, home State of President Coolidge, for the Republican presidential nomination, it was announced last night by A. D. Murtha, one of the Senator's eastern campaign managers.

Murtha commented upon reports from Washington that President Coolidge's friends planned entering the California primary fight, and declared Johnson would go to Massachusetts "personally to speak his candidacy frankly and fairly to the men and women who have enrolled in the Republican party."

"He is going to lead a drive and take the whole delegation away from Mr. Coolidge," said Murtha.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Formation of the Los Angeles County Johnson-for-President club will be effected here Friday, according to announcement today. Many prominent local citizens, supporters of the senior senator's candidacy, have signed the organization call.

Beedy Opposed for Census Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—An effort to prevent Representative Beedy, Maine, from being named chairman of the Census Committee, which will handle reapportionment legislation, was launched today by House members favorable to action on reapportionment. Beedy, who is opposed to this legislation, is the ranking Republican on this committee under Fairfield of Indiana, who is slated for the helm of insular affairs. The program, presented before the House committee on committees, was to give Beedy another committee chairmanship and place at the head of census some member who would agree to reporting a reapportionment bill to the House.

Representative Kahn, California's member on the committee of committees, was reported to have proposed appointment of Representative MacLafferty to the place made vacant by the transfer of Barbour to appropriations. California would get three additional members if reapportionment were made on the present House strength of 435, and the California delegation is insisting that the State should be given Barbour's place.

LENNON AND LUCE WILL BE URGED FOR U. S. JUDGES

BY SPECIAL WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Appointment of Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Lennon, San Francisco, as Federal judge for the Northern District of California, and Superior Judge Edgar Luce of San Diego as Federal Judge for the Southern District is expected to be recommended this week by Senator Johnson.

Both Johnson and Shortridge will confer late this afternoon in an effort to agree on joint recommendations, but this is regarded as impossible, for each Senator already has decided on different candidates for each berth.

From Shortridge there had come no intimation as to who he will recommend, although it is known that Superior Judge Graham of San Francisco, who the junior Senator supported when last there was a vacancy in the Northern district Federal bench, has withdrawn from the race. Judge Frank Kerrigan is reported to have the backing of Shortridge.

Judge Lennon Johnson's first choice for the post that was given by the late President Harding to John S. Partridge. Johnson said today that if he and Shortridge are unable to agree this afternoon, he will immediately send his own recommendation to Attorney-General Daugherty. Shortridge would follow the same policy.

SENATE IS STILL DEADLOCKED ON CHAIRMANSHIP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The senate again found itself in a deadlock as it resumed balloting today for the election of a chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

Senator Cummins, Republican, Iowa, who holds the dual position of chairman of the committee and president pro-tem of the senate, received 41 votes for the chairmanship on the first ballot to 39 for Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, and seven for Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, leader of the Republican insuregnts. This left Cummins three short of the necessary majority.

Supporting LaFollette were the same seven senators who brought about the deadlock yesterday after Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, a member of the Interstate Commerce committee, had forced a separate vote on the chairmanship. They were Brookhart of Iowa, Ladd and Frazier of North Dakota, and Norris and Howell of Nebraska, Republicans, and Shipstead and Johnson, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota.

These senators want repeal or revision of the Transportation act, and some of them are opposed to one senator holding two such important posts as those held by Cummins.

Cummins' vote dropped to 39 on the third ballot, Smith holding his 39 and LaFollette his 7.

With Cummins four short of a majority, the senate went into executive session and later adjourned until tomorrow, when there will be more balloting.

FOR HAITI WITHDRAWAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, today introduced a resolution in the senate demanding immediate withdrawal of all American troops from Haiti. He said he would submit a similar resolution for San Domingo unless the state department ordered withdrawal of United States troops from there.

SEEKS TO ADMIT WOMAN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A resolution to admit to this country Anna Lerner, the wife of a native-born American, was prepared today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, whose efforts to have the state department order the vise of her passport have been unavailing.

Mrs. Lerner is detained in Russia, and Secretary Hughes has informed Senator Norris that information as to her activities is of such a character that the state department has felt compelled to issue instructions to have her application for a vise refused.

Christmas Gifts

For as little or as much as you wish to spend

Opposite each name on your Christmas list, jot down the amount you wish to spend.

You will find that there are Eversharps and Wahl Pens which so closely parallel your figures that you can give this favorite pen and pencil to everyone on your list.

Few gifts offer so much in beauty, pleasure and usefulness. Eversharp is America's favorite pencil—and its features can't be copied. Only Eversharp has the rifled tip that holds the lead free from all slip or wobble. Look for the automatic index, too! And the eraser and extra leads which are found under the cap.

Wahl Pen in gold or silver matches Eversharp in design. The all-metal Wahl Pen is a truly wonderful fountain pen improvement. It can't crack or split. It holds more ink. It is more beautiful. And it will last a lifetime.

To those who have Eversharp, give the Wahl Pen that matches it. And vice versa. To those who have neither, give both. In the velvet-lined gift box. Look for the name on each. Eversharp is $1 to $50; Wahl Pen is $4 to $50.

SOMETHING NEW!

The Miniature Set

A real Eversharp and a real Wahl Pen in a diminutive size that can be carried on the end of a watch chain, ribbon or in the smallest purse. Ask to see them.

They give the same perfect service as their larger brothers. The tiny Wahl Pen will write 1200 words at a filling. You can't give a more original gift—nor one which is more useful than the Eversharp and Wahl Pen miniature set.

MOTHERS DEFEND STUDENT BAR IN FACE OF ATTACK

"Let Men Enjoy It in Peace," Says Founder of Club; Protest From C. E.

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—Declaring that her organization made a thorough investigation of the new "tap room" for men students of the University of California in Stephens Union, which has been condemned by the W. C. T. U., and has caused considerable controversy, Mrs. C. A. Tusch, founder of the University Mothers' Club, came to the men students' defense today in the face of another protest.

"The men have been driven from every place on the campus by women," said Mrs. Tusch. "Why can't they enjoy their tap room in peace?"

The latest organization to join the "White ribbon" force in an attempt to oust into the junk pile the shiny mahogany bar and other trimmings in the new "tap room," was the Alameda County Christian Endeavor Union. That the union, whose membership includes many college students, objects to alleged "wet propaganda," which is declared to have been emanating from the campus through the editorial columns of the "Daily Californian," their protest was received by President William W. Campbell.

"LET 'EM HAVE IT."

"Why can't the men students have their tap room in peace?" demanded Mrs. Tusch. "Co-eds are every place, even in the barber shop now, and it is natural that the men want a corner of their own. The University Mothers' Club investigated the so-called bar room before it was opened to make sure that everything was all right and we have given it our stamp of approval. Let 'em have their root beer or near beer in steins over an old-time bar with a real bartender handing 'em out. What's the harm in letting them think that they are being 'different'?"

President William W. Monohan of the student body today declared that official approval was given the bar room both by student and faculty leaders before the place was opened and says that nothing has happened in the six days since to alter opinions that the "atmosphere is unobjectionable."

Owing to the fact that the official complaint of the W. C. T. U. leaders has not reached him as yet, President William W. Campbell today declined to discuss the matter. Prof. J. H. Hildebrand, dean of men at the university, who was present at the opening of the bar room last Wednesday night, comes to the defense of the new institution, however. He says:

"The place is as clean as a home dining room and anyone whose morals would be injured by such an atmosphere must be a strange individual. I have always voted for prohibition, but I see no connection in this matter with the tap room. The new students' 'joint' has my endorsement."

EDITORIAL PROTESTED.

Herman Grondorf of Berkeley, citizenship chairman of the Christian Endeavor Union, today voiced the protests of his organization.

The editorial to which the union objects appeared on October 22, under the initials of J. R. Loofbourow, senior student, bore the title "Who Has the Solution?"

Loofbourow voices protest against the present "unsatisfactory" condition of affairs resulting from the passage of the eighteenth amendment and declares that the promises made by "dry" agitators as to improved social conditions which would come from a liquorless nation have not been fulfilled.

A particular statement which has called forth the wrath of the Christian Endeavor leaders follows:

"Looking at the situation now, we see bootleggers on every side selling liquor that is not fit for anyone and getting more money for it than was previously gotten for "pure" liquor. These higher prices are forcing the poor man to pay double for his daily stein and the statistics show that the flame of crime is blazing higher than ever."

Berkeley's Mayor Makes Harding Memorial Plea

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—Berkeleyans have been called upon to observe Harding Memorial Week by contributing to a national fund being raised to honor the memory of the late president in an appeal issued by Mayor Frank D. Stringham. Following is the mayor's appeal:

"In accordance with the invitation of the President of the United States and the other members of the board of trustees of the National Harding Memorial Association, the week from December 9 to 16 will be observed throughout the nation as Harding Memorial Week.

"To perpetuate the great human qualities of the late president, a national memorial is to be established. Three million dollars is the national goal. A large number of small contributions is the ideal. Every one subscribing a dollar or more becomes a permanent member of the Harding Memorial Association and receives a certificate bearing a portrait and the signature of President Harding and a picture of the White House.

"The national memorial will be a tribute from the people of the entire United States. It comprises three features—perpetuation of the Harding homestead at Marion, Ohio; the erection of a fitting mausoleum on a site to be chosen by Mrs. Harding, and endowment of a Warren Gamaliel Harding chair of diplomacy and functions of government in some great central university.

"I feel sure that Berkeley, in the fullness of her heart, will join generously with the other cities of this country. Hon. James Rolph, Jr., mayor of San Francisco, is chairman for northern California. Make checks payable to Harding Memorial Association and send to the mayor's office, City Hall, Berkeley."

122 Exams Held at U.C.; Total Will Number 800

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—Final examinations in 122 University of California classes were held today. The number of tests is the largest that will be given in one day during the two weeks period. The total number of examinations this year will be nearly 800.

Members o fthe senior class declare thaht the present final tests will be the last to be given at the university. Petitions were circulated today requesting President W. W. Campbell to appoint a faculty committee to devise a substitute for the present system, and the signatures of several hundred students were secured. Chairman Harry Hurry of the welfare council has announced that he will take action at the beginning of next semester to investigate the final examination system, in accordance with the resolutions adopted last week by the seniors.

J. R. Loofbourow, member of the editorial board of the Daily Californian, declares that the faculty should realize that the present system requires students to "cram" during the week before the tests. Fraternities and sororities have made arrangements this wee kto provide hot coffee and sandwiches for their members who will study all night. Loofbourow believes that these conditions should be remedied by permitting the students to take a number of short tests each month during the college year. Under the present plan the collegians are examined concerning the work assigned for the entire half-year.

S. F. WATERFRONT BLAZE TRAPS 40 PEOPLE IN HOTEL

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Fire of undetermined origin, with belching smoke and columns of flame, broke out on the waterfront early today and for a while menaced the lives of a large number of lodgers in the Arcade House, 58 Clay street, also injuring two firemen.

There were more than forty persons in the place when the first alarm was sounded. Several of them were bedridden old men and before they could seek safety smoke poured into the hallways. A dozen policemen from the Harbor station nearby aided in their rescue and several of them were carried out of the building bodily.

Damage estimated at many thousands of dollars was caused by the blaze, which originated in the M. Nossen bag factory, 54 Clay street, spread to the Van Dagen & Moller Company, plumbing supplies, adjoining, and the Seamen's Institute. The Arcade House occupies the second floor of the structure.

The firemen were forced to use their oxygen helmets in entering the smoky building and the blaze was a stubborn one to combat.

Captain Edward Boland of No. 12 engine was overcome by smoke and Ladderman Thomas Grady of Truck No. 1 had his right hand lacerated. Both were taken to the Harbor hospital.

Fireman Charles Ragerty and Battalion Chief Kerns were treated at the hospital after being overcome by smoke.

WATER EXTENSION OFFER TAKEN BY BERKELEY SOLONS

BERKELEY, Dec. 11. — An emergency ordinance of the city council, embodying a $430.000 contract with the East Bay Water Company for the improvement of the municipal water system was adopted today over the protests of a number of clubs and citizens.

Leading the opposition to the ordinance, the Ashby Improvement club declared that the water company was charging 10 per cent more than the specified cost for the work, besides an additional payment of 8 per cent for interest and depreciation.

City Manager John N. Edy told the council that, after discussing the matter with hydraulic engineers of the State Railroad Commission, he was satisfied that the "cost-plus" plan specified in the contract was fair to both the city and the company.

Prof. Samuel C. May, councilman, said the city had driven a hard bargain in the contract, and that the people should realize it. He declared that the best had been done to provide the city with an adequate water system, which would protect it against conflagrations like that which destroyed part of the city in September.

U. C. SENIORS TO ADVSE FRESHMEN

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—The traditions of the University of California will be taught to the 400 co-eds who will enter the institution next month by members of the senior class. Dean of Women Lucy Stebbins addressed the members of the upper class yesterday and outlined to the advisors the instructions they will give the new students.

Immediately after registration each of the entering co-eds will be assigned to a senior advisor. The university women will introduce the entrants to their faculty advisors and will aid them in arranging their study lists. During registration week a number of social events will be arranged by the visitors to enable the freshmen to meet the women of their own class.

All Roads Around Stadium Completed

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—All roads surrounding the University of California memorial stadium have been completed, and the landscape gardening will be finished during the Christmas recess. Clothing Ignited By Heater; Man Seriously Burned

ALAMEDA, Dec. 11. — Her clothing ignited by flames from an air-tight heater, Mrs. Minnie Day, 2323 Buena Vista avenue, this morning suffered extensive body burns which may cost her her life, according to the report of physicians attending the case. Mrs. Day is under treatment at the Alameda sanitarium.

Mrs. Day battled the flames as they ignited her clothing, but the clothing was practically burned from her back before she succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. Almost overcome, she succeeded in calling the police for aid.

She was removed to the sanitarium by Police Officers Grant Hicks and Andrew Peterson.

GIRL, 7, SENDS $5 CHECK TO AID YULE TREE MOVE

Berkeley Committee Say List Larger Than Ever, Issue Appeal.

BERKELEY, Dec. 10. — And a little child shall lead them!

Once again has this been exemplified. The Berkeley municipal Christmas tree committee announces the first outside contribution for its annual Yule fete to come from a seven-year-old girl. She was a beneficiary at last year's Christmas tree and since then has known a little of prosperity. To show her childish gratitude she has mailed a check for $5 to Santa Claus at Box 150, Berkeley Postoffice, so that other kiddies may be made happy this year.

"I do not need your help this year, dear Municipal Santa," wrote this girl. "I have a Santa Claus of my own now. When my new mother and daddy told me about you, I remembered when I was poor, too, and you made me happy. I know there are lots of little girls and boys who need your help this year and I want to help."

Along with the letter and "greenback" from the little girl came another $5 bill from a woman signing herself "A Friend."

J. W. Berkeley, chairman of this year's municipal Christmas tree committee, declared today that the list of orders to fill among the poor and needy families this year is larger than ever. He issued a renewed appeal for funds, explaining that all checks should be made out to Santa Claus, Box No. 150, Berkeley Postoffice.

Saturday Is Last Day for Payment Of Income Taxes

Saturday is the last day on which taxpayers who are still carrying installment accounts with the government have to meet their final payments of federal income taxes for the year 1922, according to John P. McLaughlin, internal revenue collector.

All accounts must be wiped off the books of the collector by that date, says McLaughlin, otherwise penalties and interest attach.

Statements have been mailed to the thousands of organizations and individuals who are still carrying installment accounts. The penalty for failure to make this payment is from 20 to 25 per cent of the tax and interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month until the tax is paid.

CHARGES FLY AT HOLLISTER DRY SLEUTH PROBE

HOLLISTER, Dec. 11.—The epithet "liar!" was freely hurled back and forth in the "law enforcement officers co-operation" special meeting called by the board of supervisors here, to inquire into the reason why District Attorney Geo. Moore's office has to employ several high-priced detectives on a monthly basis, "when the county has a full, and apparently competent force of its own officers to enforce the laws," as one supervisor put it.

District Attorney Moore addressed the crowded county courthouse hall, and asserted that he had failed for many years now to get co-operation from both the officers and the supervisors of the county, in his law enforcement proceedings, "both against the bootleggers and other offenders."

When Moore said Justice of the Peace Dan McPhail had failed to co-operate with his office in prosecuting bootleg cases, asserting that the justice had been discovered by "under cover men" to be one of the patrons of bootleg joints, Judge McPhail jumped to his feet and yelled, "You're a liar, and always have been!" District Attorney Moore retorted that his accuser's penchant for lying was generally well known in the community.

The meeting broke into an uproar, and only heavy gavel pounding by Chairman Hugh French brought silence.

Sheriff Jere Croxon was asked to give his views of the situation, and was questioned as to whether law enforcement activities, with the aid of private detectives, had resulted in any lessening of bootlegging. He said that, as far as he knew, the only result was one of the chief law enforcement officers "had quit patronizing the blind pigs himself." This sent another thrill through the meeting.

The supervisors two months ago voted a "secret fund" to District Attorney Moore for hiring aides to prosecute bootleg cases, but they have taken umbrage because Moore refuses to itemize the heavy bills he submits monthly, in addition to the secret fund. Outside of one private detective, A. Simonetti, the District Attorney's office refuses to divulge the names of other operators, referring to them by numbers.

Another bill rejected by the board is one for $360, submitted by Town Recorder A. M. Cunning of Hollister, before whom Attorney Moore had two bootleg cases tried, on the grounds that county justices would not co-operate with him. The supervisors aver the bill is too heavy for four or five days' work trying two cases.

Another meeting is to be held before any conclusion is come to regarding the extraordinary bills.

TINY BIRDS TO HAVE DRINKING FOUNT IN PARK

In addition to the feeding and drinking facilities furnished Oakland's duck guests at the municipal duckery on the north end of Lake Merritt Superintendent Lee Kerfoot of the park department today announced the completion of a smaller drinking fountain for the robins, sparrows and smaller miscellany which seem to gather at Lakeside park to keep company with the ducks.

It was discovered recently that though the park has many feathered inhabitants, their drinking facilities were nil. Many of the birds have been patronizing puddles near residences or have even been driven to sewers. The new drinking fountain is now so popular that space there is already at a premium, day or night.

Partially Clad Man Shot in Berkeley

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—T. H. Jowett, 35, 131 Avis avenue, El Cerrito, was treated at Berkeley General hospital last night for wounds caused by buck shot.

He told the Berkeley police that he was attacked on Stockton street in El Cerrito by a man in a passing automobile who fired a volley of shot in his direction. Jowett made an explanation that labor troubles was the cause of the attack.

Officer George G. Eldredge, who investigated the complaint, has a different theory. In his official report, he says some of Jowett's clothes were missing when he was shot.

S. J. Woods. Ede is declared by the police to be responsible for a series of store burglaries in Berkeley, including the Sunset Market, Channing way and Telegraph avenue; Nicholls Grocery, 2707 College avenue, and the Lewis Candy store, 2705 College avenue. Gasoline books from the market and grocery store are said to have been found in Ede's possession.

Berkeley Man Will Put in Bureau for Honolulu Department.

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—Honolulu will have the "Vollmer system" of police work and has asked a Berkeley man to install it.

Sheriff David K. Trask of Honolulu, who came to Berkeley last week, after conferring with Chief of Police August Vollmer of Los Angeles, has announced that he has offered a position to Ronald A. Abbey, superintendent of records at the Berkeley police department, who will supervise the installation of the new system.

Abbey plans to sail for the islands about January 1, after a conference with Chief Vollmer in Los Angeles. He tendered his resignation to the local department some weeks ago, planning first to engage in work in the south, but changing his intention to accept the Honolulu post.

BODY OF COUNTY PATIENT ROBBED

SAN JOSE, Dec. 11.—Deputy sheriffs are today investigating the theft from the body of Lyman Castell, who died at the county hospital yesterday, of $200 contained in a purse concealed on the dead man's person while the body was being removed from a ward. A son, L. F. Castell, box 254, Hillsdale avenue, called at the hospital and asked for the money, knowing that his father had the money on his person. Search for the purse containing the $200 failed. A hospital orderly who disappeared from the hospital yesterday is suspected of taking the money, as well as $30 belonging to a steward. Deputy Sheriff E. A. Raymond has been assigned by Sheriff George W. Lyle to head an investigation.

Two Clubs to Meet On Merger Prospect

HAYWARD, Dec. 11.—To consider a proposal to consolidate with the Willow Avenue club, members of the Smalley Avenue Co-operative club will hold a special meeting at the home of Miss R. Christine Rackie, 360 Smalley avenue, tomorrow night. It is urged that a full membership be present. The proposal will probably be put to a membership vote.

Affiliation of the two organizations, it is held, will establish a strong, active club in that western section of Hayward that can accomplish far better results than if each remained in their present conditions. It would aim toward improvement work for the district represented, social enjoyments for the members and a greater protection to the agriculturists, it is mentioned. At a recent meeting of the Willows Avenue club the members were in favor of such combining, and there is small doubt but what the Smalley Avenue unit will vote unfavorably on the consolidation, according to officers.

Frats Must Wait Until Men Enroll To Start Rushing

BERKELEY, Dec. 11.—The decision of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate conference to bar from athletic competition all students who have been pledged to college fraternities while in high school will change the present "rushing" system at the University of California, according to student officers.

For a number of years the Greek letter societies have refused to join any inter-fraternity conference that would bind them to observe strict rushing rules. Two years ago Dean T. M. Putnam called the fraternity members to meet with him, and he proposed a conference, but the plan did not meet with the approval of the collegians. This year another attempt was made to bring the organizations together, but the students were not willing to submit to rules limiting their activities in securing new members.

The new conference ruling will require all fraternities to wait until high school students are enrolled in the university before asking them to join. This was one of the rules objected to by the fraternities in the past, but student officials declare that the action of the conference will prevent the societies from continuing the "gentlemen's agreement" now in force.

ALAMEDA FARM BUREAU PLANS REORGANIZATION

HAYWARD, Dec. 11.—The annual meeting of the Alameda County Farm Bureau members, at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected, general re-organization effected, a new constitution adopted and a membership campaign be outlined, has been set for Saturday, January 12. The meeting will last all day. This was decided at a meeting of the bureau board of directors.

It was agreed that the present constitution, in effect for several years, was not satisfactory, being out of date and not applying to all departments of the bureau work. A committee, co sisting of A. R. Anderson and E. G. Young, was appointed to draft a new constitution and present it at the annual meeting for approval and a vote.

Complete arrangements will be made at the gathering for an extensive membership drive, reaching to every point of the county.

William Lammers was elected director of the Mt. House center of the Alameda County Farm Bureau at the last meeting of the unit there, it was announced today. J. Saxauer was elected vice-director and William Henderson was chosen secretary. A. R. Anderson is the outgoing director. The term of office is one year.

"H. E. Heckman was elected director of the Bayview center, and A. P. R. Fallaghan was elected secretary. The latter is the outgoing director.

On the resignation of George L. Monohan as treasurer of the Alameda County Farm Bureau, the position has been turned over to Miss Irene Templeton, secretary of the bureau. Miss Templeton will act as treasurer pro tem until the annual election of officers takes place the middle of next month. A press of business, resulting in inability to attend the bureau meetings regularly, and therefore unable to give his best efforts to the office, is given as the reason for Monohan's resignation.

U. C. HEAD URGES COMPULSORY ACT FOR ARMY DRILLS

Dr. Campbell Says Surety of Peace Lies Only in Preparedness.

BERKELEY, Dec. 11. — That every man in the United States should be forced to undergo a period of military training every year as a means of building up a great national army to insure peace was the declaration yesterday of President W. W. Campbell of the University of California, in an address to members of the student R. O. T. C., assembled for annual inspection on the Berkeley campus.

President Campbell said that only through a system of sane preparedness could the United States keep out of future wars. He said, in part:

"Far be it from me to defend excessive militarism such as we used to observe in Germany and Russia, militarism not for defense, but for oppression. There is no excuse for German glorification of war. There is no excuse for the domination of the military spirit. There can be no justification for a policy in our country requiring able-bodied men to give two or more years to military training.

"But an exceedingly strong case can be made for military training on some limited scale as prescribed by Switzerland and Australia. This provides for a short period of training lasting a few weeks each year for two or three years for every able-bodied young man in the nation. It should be for the banker's son, the farmer's son, the janitor's son, the teacher's son, the shoemaker's son; for the clerk in the store, the student in the university; for workers in the city, the valleys and the mountains; for young men who have lived many generations in America, and for the newly naturalized men citizens from Italy, Spain, Poland, Belgium and other countries; for the Caucasian and the negro."

WELFARE WORK IN STANISLAUS HELD STANDARD

Secretary of State Board of Charities Praises the Institutions.

MODESTO, Dec. 11.—The welfare department of Stanislaus county, under the direction of the board of supervisors, sets a standard for the rest of the state, according to Mrs. Cornelia McKinne Stanwood, secretary of the state board of charities, who spent yesterday in Modesto. She inspected the plans for the new detention home, the county hospital, and then went to Keyes to inspect the Faith Home for Children.

"Too much cannot be said for the commendable social work being done in Stanislaus county," she said.

Mrs. Stanwood pronounced the county hospital, although an old building, clean and fresh, and praised the fact that it has modern nursing service, which many counties do not have.

The plans for the new detention home, she said, were the best in the state as regards segregation of the sexes and supervision.

She complimented the county on the business-like way in which the supervisors conduct tel rpart in the Ahwahnee sanitorium.

OROVILLE

OROVILLE, Butte County, Dec. 11.—A new building ordinance which will become effective within thirty days and which, it is declared, will add to building activities in this city has been adopted by the city trustees. The new ordinance, while not so drastic in many ways as the ordinance prevent construction of dangerous or firetrap structures. The cost of building, under the new ordinance and especially as referred to buildings in the business district of the city, it is declared, will not be so great as under the existing ordinance.

Oroville Post, American Legion, received their colors at ceremonies held in the Odd Fellows' hall in this city Sunday afternoon. The presentation of colors ceremony was attended by American Legion and ex-service men of the city, members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Women's Relief Corps as well as visitors from Chco and Gridley. Following the ceremony attendng the unfurling of the colors, a turkey dinner, prepared by the Women's Relief Corps, was served.

Oroville has increased in population 64 per cent since the 1920 Federal census, according to a census taken by local Elks and authorized by the city trustees.

Home Saved as Pail of Milk Quenches Fire

WOODLAND, Dec. 11.—A pail of milk quenched what had all the promise of being a disastrous blaze in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Young of Knights Landing. Mrs. Young was awakened by the smell of smoke. Young investigated and found the wall back of the kitchen stove ablaze. A bucket of milk standing for cream was the only thing available. He threw it at the wall and a fire was averted. The home belonged to Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Dixon of Knights Landing.

STATE BOOST BUILDING URGED

BY SPECIAL WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Suggestion that the state of Califc ia make an appropriation for the erection in Washington of a combination apartment hous and auditorium, to be used for housing its representatives i. C ngress and for generally "boosting" the state, is made by Representative Arthur M. Free of San Jose.

Free thinks an undertaking of this nature eventually would pay for itself through rentals received from the partments and for use of the auditorium.

"The trouble is now," he said, "we Californians are scattered all over Washington and we don't get together often enough. If the state would build an apartment house here, all of the California people, including those working in the government departments, could live right in one place, and we could work together better for the general interests of the state.

"We could have a motion picture machine in the auditorium, showing California scenes and invite the public to see them, and to hear talks on what we have out here. The auditorium would be a source of revenue through renting it out for other purposes."

Foreigners Collect No Rent in Germany

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—(By Associated Press). — Foreigners who bought real estate in Germany for speculation in the days before the government legislated against transfers of realty to non-Germans are in a state of constant uncertainty.

Some foreign owners do not even try to collect the rents, which are fixed by law and are so low that the number of paper marks realized would not meet repairs. But while many foreigners do not bother collecting rent, they also fail to make repairs. Such repairs fall upon the tenants if they desire to have them made.

German tenants have had practically free rent for such a long period that there are great complaints when any charges of ny sort are forced upon them in connection with their lodgings.

CAR DISAPPEARS AFTER CARRYING DRIVER TO DEATH

Auto Mysteriously Missing After Accident on Road Near Santa Rosa.

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 11.—No trace has been found of an automobile belonging to B. Arnold Hopland stockman, which mysteriously disappeared near here Saturday, following an accident in which Arnold was killed.

Arnold and Richard Burke, also of Hopland, were on their way here when a wheel of the machine caught in a rut at the side of the highway and when Arnold sought to turn back onto the pavement the car overturned. Arnold was fatally injured, dying in a local hospital about half an hour after the accident. Burke was only slightly hurt.

When deputy sheriffs went to the scene to get the wrecked car it was nowhere to be found and all traces so far to locate it have been futile.

Funeral services are to be held in Sebastopol today for James A. Fletcher, 80 years old, who drove an ox team across the plains to California in 1863. He had been a resident of Sonoma county ever since coming west. The widow and four sons survive.

Three Arizona stockmen are making a survey of pasture lands in Sonoma and Mendocino counties with a view to shipping several thousand head of live stock to the section for winter grazing. The men compose a committee representing extensive live stock interests in Arizona, where winter pasture facilities are inadequate.

About 200 persons will attend the dinner to be given here tonight by local business men in honor of the high school football team and the boys' stock judging team. Miniature gold footballs are to be given the gridiron squad, while a large silver cup will be awarded the live stock judges.

Mrs. Matthew Brady, wife of the district attorney of San Francisco, has returned to her home following a visit here during which she narrowly escaped death in an automobile accident. Mrs. Brady was driving to Santa Rosa with Mrs. David Crowley of San Francisco and Mrs. Ollie Bockee, owner of the Petrified Forest near here, when the Crowley machine was crowded into a ditch by another machine. All three women were badly bruised, but escaped serious injury. The driver of the other car did not stop.

Mrs. Dorothy Boardman of Sebastopol is convalescing at a local hospital following a major operation Saturday.

Alleging that his wife found time to go to dances several nights a week but not enough to cook his breakfast, Charles P. Gerard has filed a divorce suit here against Hilda M. Gerard, whom he married in Oakland, August 7, 1906. The couple separated three years ago. They have a 16-year-old son.

Wife Has Identified Napa Ghoul Prisoner

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Dec. 11.—Shown a photograph last night of Edward J. Sailstad, under arrest at Napa, Cal., Mrs. Leona Sailstad-Richardson declared that she is now convinced that the man under arrest in California is her husband. She immediately made an agreement with her present husband, Rome R. Richardson, to separate and live apart until such time as she can obtain a divorce from Sailstad and sufficient time has elapsed to permit their marriage legally.

After studying the Sailstad picture for a time Mrs. Sailstad-Richardson declared that the man must be "crazy," otherwise he would never have acted as he did.

FOR YOSEMITE ROADS.

A fuller and broader use of Yosemite by the people of California and the country is noted by Secretary Hubert Work of the Interior Department in his annual report to Congress. Tourists in increasingly large numbers, are becoming acquainted with the high mountain country of the park as well as with the Valley itself. Thus, while motor travel to the park increased more than 35 per cent over that of the previous year, the increase in the use of Tioga Road was nearly 50 per cent.

The outstanding feature in Yosemite, Secretary Work says, was the unexpected heavy increase in travel, amounting this year to 130,046 visitors, as compared with 100,506 visitors in 1922. Not only are people motoring through the high country but they are taking advantage of the natural camping sites for a few days' stay and exploration by foot or horseback of the adjacent areas.

Encouraging for its promise of new facilities and improvements is the statement by Mr. Work that the park year was successful for operators and permitees without exception and that "this success should give impetus to further investment in permanent building units and increased service to the public."

A plan for a new village unit, for the opposite side of the Valley from the present one, has been approved by the Fine Arts Commission and adopted. There will be an administration building, stores, studios and shops. Steps are being taken toward the fulfillment of the requirements of San Francisco to build roads and trails from the Hetch Hetchy reservoir.

Of the problems to be met that of roads is considered the most important and on this Secretary Work says:

"But better roads is Yosemite's greatest need. Of the 138 miles of Government-owned roads, only eight miles were constructed under Government appropriations, the remainder having been built from 30 to 50 years ago by private concerns as toll-roads for horse-drawn traffic. As no funds have been appropriated for their improvement, they are essentially in the same condition as when built."

While there is no recommendation here for road appropriations for Yosemite the inference and the promise is evident. Secretary Work has stated the case emphatically and in the light of the service which the park is performing for the thousands.

A GOOD BARGAIN.

When the United States acquired Alaska by purchase from Russia, at a price of $7,200,000, that vast Arctic region was considered of no intrinsic value. It was considered of some strategic value because it gave us a longer coast line and removed a European nation from the American continent. The sale was deemed of mutual benefit to both nations and it served to increase the good feeling already existing. But there were many people who thought the United States had wasted what was then a considerable amount of money.

Since that time, 1867, we have been learning much about the material wealth of resources in Alaska. We became aware of the value of the seal fisheries, of the salmon fisheries, of the timber resources, of the gold mines, of the coal deposits, and, lately, we have been informed of the discovery of vast areas of oil deposits, the development of which is still in the future.

The total annual exports from Alaska now aggregate $75,000,000 in value, with imports amounting to about a third of that amount, most of the trade, naturally, being with the United States. Since the purchase of Alaska by the United States that territory has produced minerals to the value of more than $220,000,000 and furs and fish to the value of $240,000,000. Total exports of all kinds since the region became American territory amount to more than $700,000,000, or about 100 times the amount the United States paid for the property.

Of course this production of salable products does not mean a financial gain to the United States to that amount. The proceeds of sales have gone to pay the producing laborer in Alaska and the capitalist in Alaska or elsewhere, but it has chiefly been gain to American citizens here or there. The people of the United States have the satisfaction of knowing that under our constructive and helpful policies, Alaska has been made the home of a fairly prosperous people.

When there was discussion recently of the possibility of development of water power in Southern Alaska there were vigorous denials that such a development could be made a success for the reason that the Southern portion of Alaska consists of a comparatively narrow strip having no long rivers. The doubters overlooked the fact that water power development depends not upon the length of a river but upon its quantity of water and the abruptness of its fall. Abundant rainfall and a mild climate west of the mountains, furnish all the water power needed by lumbering and other manufacturing industries.

Although the great rush of gold mining in Alaska is apparently past, that resource still yields annually more than the price we paid for the territory. Copper yields some $25,000,000 a year. Coal mining has not yet been undertaken in a large way as the mines are too far from large markets, but it is known that there are some 12,000 acres of coal fields, including both bituminous and anthracite. Although we are accustomed to think of Alaska as a region of Arctic cold, the territory is capable of supplying its needs in agricultural production, so far as products of the temperate zone are concerned.

Each additional discovery of the value of Alaskan resources serves to emphasize the wisdom of a Republican administration in negotiating the purchase.

THE NEWER PERSPECTIVE.

A striking illustration of changed attitude and new recognition was afforded last week with the visit of a party of St. Louis aldermen to Oakland and the Eastbay. These men were here to investigate the larger cities of the Pacific Coast that they might acquire new ideas for use in the efficient distribution of an $88,000,000 bond issue which St. Louis has voted.

"We are amazed at the tremendous development on your harbor," said the chairman of the delegation. "Your industrial growth is surprising. It is the talk of the Middle West and Eastern cities. I believe the manufacturing production of the world will shift shortly and will center about San Francisco Bay. And Oakland is destined to be the heart of this industrial area."

After the party had been shown the Eastbay in all its aspects this same man remarked: "If I had the money to invest in California I would invest it in Oakland. Your possibilities have hardly been touched but you have made a splendid beginning."

This is a different sort of speech from that which this city used to hear from visitors who saw the Eastbay only through a car window. The St. Louis men had heard of Oakland's development before they started on their trip. When they arrived they found all of the reports more than borne out.

In an effort to sound Congressional opinion on the Mellon proposal and to gauge the prospects for a tax reduction the New York World addressed letters to members of both houses. Of the 144 who replied, 68 were for reduction of taxes without qualification; 56 were for the bonus first and then a reduction if possible; and 20 were undecided.

A report of the Department of Agriculture just published shows that in 1922, there were surfaced 988 miles of road outside the cities and towns of California; 615 in Idaho, 414 in Arizona, 129 in Montana, 979 in Oregon, 433 in Utah, and 811 in Washington.

One of the best reasons for hoping that the Wampas ball comes north is furnished by a Berkeley poet who has been looking for something to rhyme with campus.

EXPERT ADVICE TO WRITERS.

The following advice was given writers by Joseph Joubert, famous French author of aphorisms, in the early nineteenth century:

Never write anything that does not give you enjoyment; emotion passes easily from the writer to the reader.

The fine feelings and ideas that we wish to set forth in our writings should become familiar to us, in order that the ease and charm of intimacy be felt in their expression.

All that we say should be suffused with ourselves, with our soul. This operation is long, but it immortalizes everything.

The mind conceives with pain, but brings forth with delight.

When writing we should recollect that scholars are present; but it is not to them that we should speak.

An ordinary book needs only a subject; but for a fine work there is a germ which develops itself in the mind like a plant. The sole beautiful works are those that have been for a long while, if not worked over, at least meditated upon.

Many useless phrases come into the head, but the mind grinds its colors out of them.

In the minds of certain writers nothing is grouped or draped or modeled; their pages only offer a flat surface on which words roll.

The end of a work should always suggest the beginning.

There never was a literary age whose dominant taste was not unhealthy. The success of excellent authors consists in making wholesome works agreeable to morbid tastes.

Taste is the literary conscience of the soul.

When in any nation an individual is born, who is capable of producing a great thought, another is born capable of comprehending it and admiring it.

* * * * *

It is worth a hundred times more to adapt a work to the nature of the human mind than to what is called the state of society. In man there is something immutable; thence, it is, that in the arts and work of art there are fixed rules—beauties that will always please, or else contrivances that will please but for a short time.

The LANTERN

We are a Substitute, an erstwhile contributor, harpooned from a more or less private existence and yanked into the public eye, gasping for breath and dripping with self-consciousness, out of our element.

The signature you must try to get used to is Edward Hope, though—as in the case of Lawrence and Anthony—Hope is not the name we write on checks and ballots and things. It is the first two-thirds of the name the income tax department has on record as being two installments overdue.

Born, New York, N. Y. Age at nearest birthday, 27. Eyes, brown. Complexion, blotchy, with slight beard. Height, 5 feet 10¾ inches. Weight, 168. Politics, few if any. Bottle scar on right thumb. Married.

It is with due humility that we approach this new responsibility. In fact, not ten minutes ago, when we were trying to get started at this first column, our wife called attention to certain drops of perspiration which were standing out on our nose.

"Is it too hot for you in here—" she asked.

"It isn't the heat, my dear," we replied. "It's the humility." And then we rushed right over to the office before we forgot it.

There is a terrific amount of stuff to be done here. The correspondence is in appalling condition. The desk is covered with contributions, thoughtfully opened by some one and left face up.

And most of the contributions have stamps neatly clipped or pinned or pasted to the upper left-hand corner of them. . . . There's the work of unfastening them all and taking them home for private correspondence.

And then it looks as though a lot of these things would have to be read.

Cheerful stuff, it is! This is the opening thought of the top one:

I dream of you—lost Kama—
through the days
And see your eyes—Oh God— so blue, so blue . . .

It reminds us of our early days in the advertising business, when we had to read proofs and didn't know how. Many were the lost commas — and semi-colons and dashes, and especially decimal points—we dreamed of. Only we dreamed through the nights.

Right underneath the lost Kama thing up pops this:

For she has left me, as I have failed
To hold her; and for the East has sailed . . .

That's the way it goes! The plot is much the same as that of the delightful song, "You've got to Se-e-o-e-e Mamma Every Night!"

They seem to get gloomier and gloomier as you go down into the pile. After a letter from the Advertising Club of St. Louis, a letter to the Editor about what should and shouldn't appear in a family newspaper and a ticket to the Army-Navy game, never used, we come upon this:

"I weep for the path you've chosen,
And the world still clatters by . . ."

And then a book, called "As Is," by a movie actor named Hanemann, with funny John Held, Jr., illustrations, which improves the general tone of things considerably.

Next, a publisher's announcement, and under it a copy of "The Nation."

And here, on top of a fresh pile of letters, is a limerick! A darned funny limerick about an old man from Australia . . . but we can't print it. Well, not on the first day, anyway.

The limerick, however, will be a great comfort to a party we are going on tomorrow night and we are duly grateful to K. L. G.

Next comes a card, which, "when signed, will entitle you to ONE copy of the greatest piece of inspirational writing ever penned by Elbert Hubbard." The book costs nothing, which is exactly what it is worth to us.

And that goes for the rest of "inspirational" writing. The piece of writing which has inspired us most in the last six months is a play which is being acted by John Barrymore and others at the Manhattan Opera House for a few nights.

If Shakespeare had had any idea of being "inspirational" when he was writing "Hamlet" he couldn't have made it half so fine, dramatically. Or half so inspiring.

Speaking of plays, by the way, we saw "Spring Cleaning" the other night and liked it immensely. It seemed to us like drawing room drama at its best, sophisticated and up to the minute. The lines are good, but so is the construction, for there is scarcely a moment from start to finish when interest lags.

And we wish that Frederick Lonsdale would write another play just as soon as it is convenient. We want to see lots more of one of the minor characters of "Spring Cleaning," the youngest girl, whose name we forgot.

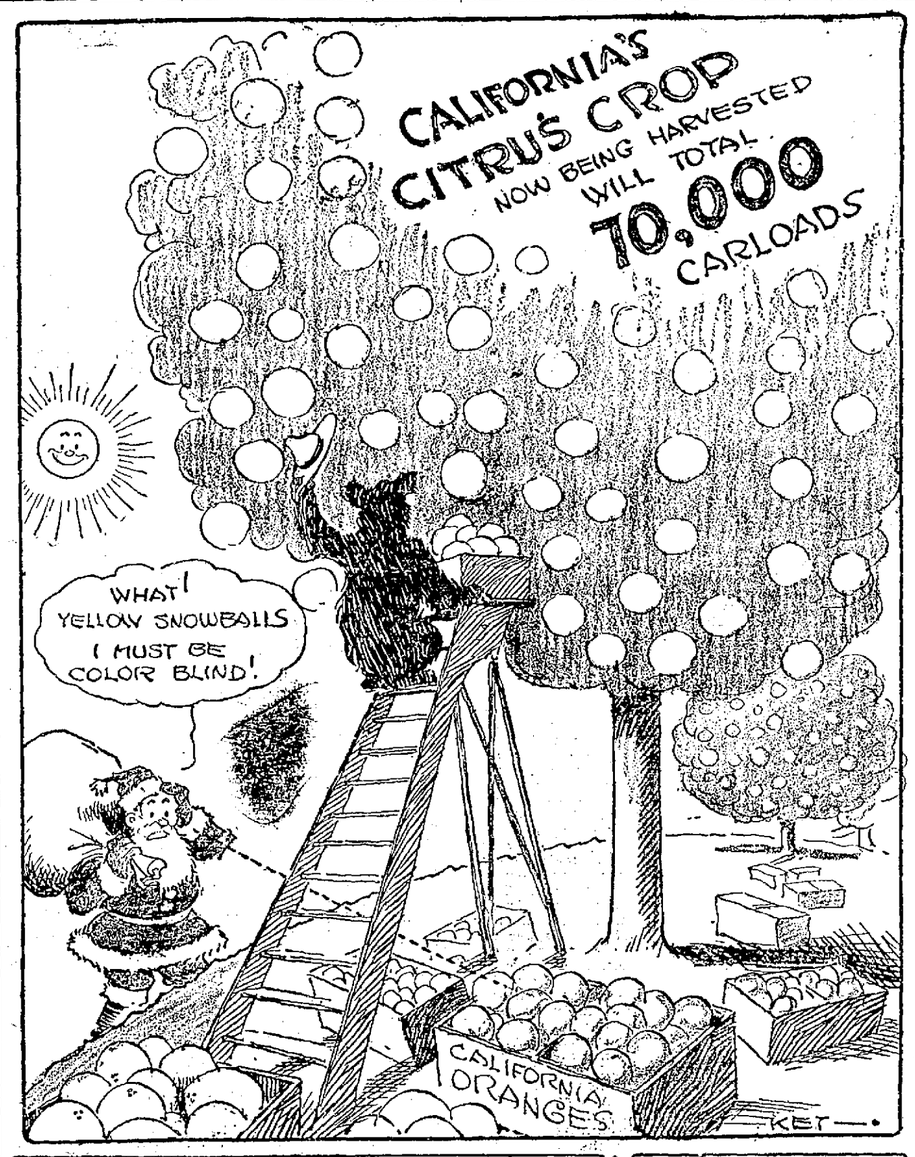

She is an old friend of Scott Fitzgerald, we know, but this one came from England and was more interesting to us than any of Scott's heroines.

Good Heavens! Here's the end of the thing and not more than half the contributions read!

A CALIFORNIA POSTCARD.

EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

Christian Science Monitor: "It would actually appear, according to a so-called health investigation conducted by a transit company in New York, that, as one writer has put it, the subway, instead of being a compressed-air happy hunting ground for disease germs, is really almost a health resort, where a nickel gives the city dweller not only a ride, but free immunization from virulent ailments. Guards, conductors and motormen, we re told, grow healthy and oftimes corpulent on their jobs, and other beneficent results are said to be noticed."

New York World: "Cotton persists in sticking around the extraordinary price of 37 cents a pound, and for once the cotton growers appear to be more than satisfied. This means that they are less than satisfied with the situation if not with the price, for the price reflects an unusual scarcity in the year's supply and this is due to the growing ravages of the boll-weevil. So Congressmen from the cotton states have been meeting in Washington to crowd the government into larger appropriations and a more aggressive campaign against the boll-weevil."

Chicago News: "Europe has now learned to sit up and listen when the United States talks on the radio telephone. Christopher Columbus' discovery divided the world with an ocean. The radio engineers are doing their share in binding it together again."

Denver Post: "Discovery of oil in the Wellington field has placed a small fortune within the reach of a Denver business man, T. R. Dumont, who conducts a modest grocery store at 2601 West Twenty-third avenue, and who owns a 40-acre tract about two miles south of the Union Oil Company's wells, which fell into his hands ten years ago in settlement of a $750 debt. Dumont did not exactly want the land, but his debtor insisted on wishing it on him, and he took the chance which will, according to reports from Fort Collins, net him a profit of $39,250 if he accepts an offer made to him by a prominent oil company."

Seattle Times: "Press despatches report that Amundsen's ship, the Maud, gripped fast in the Polar ice, has succeeded in sending a message by wireless to Christiania, Norway. The news brings a thrill to the civilized world and arouses in man a feeling of pride in his achievements. On the opposite side of the pole, another ship, the Bowdoin, with the Macmillan expedition, also is sending messages with more or less regularity. It is possible in these days to get one's Polar news fresh off the ice."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Doctors or porters? Berlin is wondering which are the more valuable, with the present inverted wage scale. Here is Professor Bier, a famous surgeon, getting 80,000,000 marks—half a cent—as a court fee, and the porter who carried his things for three minutes getting 140,000,000 marks, or two full cents. Professor Bier, who worked four hours preparing his testimony, wanted $12, and his bill is regarded as extortionate."

Goldfield Tribune: "Henry Ford thinks that so far as motor cars are concerned there is no saturation point. He says: 'Until the population stops growing and people stop building roads and stop desiring to ride instead of walk, there will be steady demand for automobiles.' There is something to be said for this view, though Henry may be a trifle prejudiced."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

P. V. Rovnianck was host to the Jugoslav ambassador to the United States, Dr. Ante Tresich-Pavicich, yesterday at a luncheon held at his Log Cabin home in Santa Cruz. Dr. Pavicich, accompanied by his secretary, Mr. Novak; Statko Stanojevich, Jugoslav consul at San Francisco; his secretary, John Simich, and Andy Balich, Stephen Scurich, M. L. Kalich, George Carstulovich and Peter Mirich visited the Big Trees in the morning.—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

An order has been given by the county supervisors for the purchase here of the site for the American Legion memorial building, and the long campaign to secure that result has been carried to a definite conclusion. Plans for the structure which is to be erected call for one of the finest buildings of its type in the bay cities, which will make an admirable meeting place for all veteran organizations.—Richmond Record-Herald.

Coincident with the meeting of Congress comes the report that the White House is in danger of falling down. Ambitious standpatters have probably circulated this report to frighten off progressive candidates seeking the presidency.—Red Bluff News.

The increase in demand for hotel accommodations is a good index of the growth of a city. Much therefore is intimated in favor of the growth of the San Francisco bay cities when we learn that in addition to all the building of homes, apartments and smaller hotels that has featured the development of the past few years, some of the best known hostelries are now planning large additions.—Palo Alto Times.

The Los Angeles papers say that the southland is going to have the "largest paper mill on the coast" and it will cost $2,500,000. There are several larger at Oregon City and they cost a whole lot more than that, but then L. A. needs the white paper for future publicity, so let it go at that.—Hanford Sentinel.

Subscribers may not know it, but newspaper publishers are still paying increased postal rates on papers under the war revenue law of 1917. Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania will ask Congress to reduce the rates, and claims that war taxes have been removed from practically every other industry.—Watsonville Register.

The importers are starting their usual fight against the tariff on California products, but it is not likely they will succeed in slipping anything over on our California delegation in Congress.—Merced Star.

WINTER NIGHTS.

When old winter sets in,
Then the happy times begin.
"Happy times, with blizzards howling
And the skies a sombre gray?
"Oh," I think I hear you pleading,
"It is summer time we're needing,
With the roses all in bloom,
To be happy through the day."

Let the blustering blizzards blow,
And the path be deep with snow,
We'll sing our songs together
And make merry round the fire;
We'll grow closer to each other,
Father, mother, sister, brother,
And we'll revel in the pleasures
Of which mortals never tire.

With a fire upon the hearth
We can manufacture mirth,
We can drown the north wind's meaning
With a flood of simple song;
And, disdainful of the weather
We can romp and play together,
And the bonds of love shall tighten
Though the winter may be long.

When old winter settles in,
Then the nights at home begin,
Nights that know no hint of danger
But are sweet with mirth and play;
Nights together—father, mother,
Little sister, happy brother—
Finding all the joy that's needful
In the best and truest way.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR WRITES ON RECLAMATION

Editor of The Tribune:

The editorial appearing in your issue of October 21st has just come to my attention, and I read with interest your discussion of the reclamation problem.

For the first time an intensive study of the policies and methods of the Government in reclaiming lands in the West is being made, and we find that this step should have been taken ten years ago.

I believe in reclamation as a conception and confidently expect that plans now being formulated will result in reclamation taking place in the picture of the West that will insure its permanency.

Those who live on the land together with the towns that have sprung up, or have been benefitted by Government reclamation, should be our first concern in adopting a policy for future guidance.

THE DOSE OF SLEEP.

One of the theories of normal sleep is that it is brought about by the accumulation of acid waste products in the blood to a concentration sufficient to induce fatigue in the brain cells, which results finally in sufficient depression of their activity to suppress consciousness.

The constant activity of muscles during the waking hours—even thought the individual sit in a chair or lie abed all the time—as well as the constant activity of the heart muscles and various glands of the body cause a gradual accumulation of acid waste products, particularly lactic acid compounds, since their oxidation and removel or destruction cannot keep pace with their production. The accumulation of lactic acid compounds in the muscles is known to be the direct cause of fatigue. If lactic acid or its sodium salt be injected into the blood it will bring on a condition of fatigue and finally a state of unconsciousness. The brain cells in activity also produce acid wastes though in far less quantity than the muscles do. Muscular activity, whether work play, is more effective as a sleep producer than mere brain or "nervous" activity; the normal child who plays actively needs relatively more sleep than the freak or abnormal child who does not play hard. The laborer and the athlete need relatively more sleep than the person who lives by his wits or prefers sports to games.

Another theory is that sleep is due to diminished blood flow to the brain cells. By means of a glass plate in the skull physiologists have observed that the brain becomes paler during sleep; it is well known that the pulse rate slows and the blood pressure falls and the size of the limbs increases from the greater amount of blood distributed to the extermities. The circulation in the brain is not automatically controlled or regulated by vasomotor nerve control (contraction or dilation of aterioles) as it is in the body generally. The brain circulation is indirectly regulated by the circulation in other parts of the body. Thus when the blood vessels in other parts of the body relax or dilate so that they hold more blood, the vessels within the skull receive less blood, because the blood is shunted elsewhere. Thus it is hard to woo sleep when your feet are cold; a stiff dose of alcohol, which flushes the surface, conduces to drowsiness, the politely called "stimulant."

Of course we do not know certainly what the state of blood supply to the internal organs other than the brain may be during sleep, but we believe they share in the flush which is present in the vessels of the surface and the extremities. There is no doubt that it is normal and natural to sleep after a full meal, contrary to a popular fancy. And a bed time lunch helps a great many people to sleep better. Perhaps the prejudice against going to bed "on a full stomach" comes from the unwise practice of overeating or indulging in improper food and drink late at night.

As regards children let 'em sleep on a full stomach; they'll sleep right. It is a fine time to use the blood for digestion when you don't need it in your head. Remember in normal sleep, many functions go on unaltered by the abeyance of consciousness. We breathe, the heart beats; digestion goes on. In one sense normal sleep is but an exaggerated after dinner doze, a big dose of doze.

FORD PLANS HOMES FOR WORKMEN

Option Taken on Residential Acreage by Manufacturer, to Be Divided Among the Workers in Branch Shop

The exclusive announcement in The TRIBUNE Sunday morning of the plans for the location of the Ford Motor company's manufacturing plant on the Oakland estuary at the foot of Dennison street, was followed today by the announcement that an option has been obtained on a large tract of Eastbay residential property which, it is understood, will be used as a site for a colony of workmen's homes.

The location of this tract of land has not been announced by the agents of the Ford Motor company, but it has been rumored that it consists of more than twenty acres.

HUGE PRODUCTION.

If the plans and prices for the purchase of the Standard Gas Engine property and adjacent property on the estuary are approved by Henry Ford himself, construction on the new manufacturing plant will commence immediately The plant will employ approximately 300 men at the outset.

Contracts for power, water and traction service have already been tentatively secured, but final confirmation of all the plans must await the approval of Henry Ford.

Shortly after the visit of Edsell Ford to Oakland and San Francisco nearly a year ago the statement was issued from Ford headquarters that no location would be approved which did not have deep water access.

SHIPPING FACILITIES.

The government of the city of Oakland has co-operated with the engineers sent out by Ford in drawing up a plan for the dredging of the upper estuary channel, especially that section of it north of Government island, where Ford intends to locate his plant. The plan of operation is said to include the construction of huge deep-water docks at which lumber and ore ships can unload directly into traveling conveyors which will bring materials directly to the desired part of the factory.

It is understood that Ford several years ago obtained control of a large timber tract on the Northern Pacific coast and has more recently bought an interest in a sawmill property there. Ford's engineers and realty agents have inspected more than a half dozen sites on the Pacific coast.

Four Students Suspended for Intoxication; President of Committee Says Liquor Will Not Be Tolerated

BERKELEY, Dec. 11. — Intoxication will not be tolerated at the University of California.

The fact that four students have been suspended from the university for drunkenness after trials before the student affairs committee became known today. As is the custom in dealing with student offenders, the names of the collegians who were forced to leave the Berkeley campus have not been disclosed.

"The 'honor spirit' has been applied to the actions of students outside of classrooms this year," says W. W. Monahan, president of the student body and chairman of the judicial committee, "and we have dealt severely with students who have been reported to us for intoxication. The cases brought to our attention this semester resulted in the suspension of four men, two of them upper classmen.

"Although we believe that this action will serve to warn others who may be inclined to violate the law, the penalties imposed were not intended merely to make examples of the men tried. We shall continue to recommend the same punishment for all men found guilty of this violation of the 'honor spirit' in the future."

According to the report of the activities of the student affairs committee presented by Monahan at the last meeting of the student body, 42 students were tried during the half-year for violations of the "honor spirit." Of this number, nine were suspended and a number of others disciplined less severely for infractions of the "code of honor" compiled by the welfare council.

Five of the students suspended were found guilty of cheating during examinations. All of the findings of the student committee and penalties recommended by it are referred to President W. W. Campbell for approval. None of the recommendations of the student committee have been reversed since the judicial body was organized, more than 20 years ago.

San Leandrans Hold Presbyterian Sale

SAN LEANDRO Dec. 11.—Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church held a clothing sale yesterday afternoon at the Thomas building. Ward and East Fourteenth streets, as a part of the "Christmas Emporium," which will continue until Thursday evening. Today a "gift shop" sale was held and all kinds of appropriate gifts for Christmas were placed on sale. Thursday a cooked food sale will be held. Funds raised by the sales will be used for the new Presbyterian church, which will be constructed here soon.

The committee in charge is composed of Mesdames Helen Pike, T. Cortelyou, W. J. Liggett, A. S. Weaver and C. H. Miller.

Use of School Children As Solicitors to Stop

Complaints against the asking of children by teachers to sell anti-tuberculosis stamps for the Christmas holidays was voiced last night before the board of education by Mrs. Lucy Barker, who said she had been asked "by numerous parents to protest against it."

"By what authority are school children being made to peddle things on the streets?" she demanded. "It makes no difference what the purpose of the sale is. What business have teachers to use their charges in this fashion?"

Mrs. Barker was informed that the matter would be referred to the superintendent of schools. Superintendent Hunter said he had not heard of the matter, but would issue orders to put a stop to it.

"Nobody has any right to require school children to engage in any such transaction," said Hunter.

A report from Music Supervisor Glenn Woods concerning a youth who lost a saxophone recently at Technical High school asserted that "all the saxophones owned by the school department are now in use," but the first vacant one will be loaned to this boy. The board had decided that it could not reimburse him for his loss, but would try to lend him a saxophone. Woods' report, said President Geo. Hatch, suspends any further action by the board until some saxophone is available.

INQUEST IS SET.

Miss Searles Makes Known Betrothal Today

Society on both sides of the bay was today apprised of the betrothal of one of its debutantes, Miss Jean Clift Searles, daughter of the late Mailler Searles and Mrs. Searles of Vernon Heights, and Jean Delattre-Seguy of Paris, France.

The betrothal comes as a surprise to many friends in the north and south of the state as well as in the bay cities.

Miss Searles is a sister of Miss Emily Clift Searles and cousin of Miss Helene Lundborg whose debut will be a brilliant event of December 21 at the Fairmont across the bay.

The future bride is a niece of Mrs. Lee Cole Burnham of San Francisco, of Mrs. Irving Lundborg of this city, of Mrs. Howard Campbell of Santa Barbara and of Frederic C. Clift.

She is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. William Nelson Searles of New York and of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Clift. Mr. Clift in his earlier days was prominently identified with the mining industries of the state, later retiring from active business and taking up his residence in the bay region.

Mr. Delattre-Seguy came to America a year and a half ago as expert engineer with the Universal Oil Products company, with headquarters in Chicago. His mother, Madame Delatree-Seguy and his sister are prominent in musical and art circles in Paris. He is a graduate of the University of Paris and served during the four years of the war as First Lieutenant in the Mounted Artillery Corps being awared the Croix de Guerre with citations. His name has just been proposed to the French Government for the Legion of Honour.

The wedding of Miss Searles and M. Delattre-Seguy will take place early in February, the ceremony to be a quiet one owing to the recent death of the bride's father.

The marriage of Miss Ru S. Pennock of Alameda and John M. Moss of this city was solemnized in the College City at the First Unitarian church, Rev. Gordon Kent officiating. The attendants were Miss Edna Pennock and Charles Maraghano.

The honeymoon was passed in Los Angeles and San Diego and later the couple will establish their home at 2732 Seventy-eighth avenue in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watson (Thelma Schwilk) are home from their honeymoon, an eastern trip, and have gone to Sacramento to take up their residence.

December 22 is the date set for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Wicks and McCarthy Thornton. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wicks of Willows and attended the College of the Pacific at San Jose.

Thornton will receive his degree in law from the University of California in May. He is a member of the Delta Theta Phi fraternity.

After the ceremony the couple will leave for Cleveland, Ohio, where Thornton will attend the annual convention of his fraternity which opens December 28 in that city.

Betrothal Is Announced At Dinner

An engagement which is interesting news to the college set was that announced Saturday evening of Miss Florence Dolcater, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. F. J. Dolcater of Lodi, and Oscar C. Parkinson, University of California graduate. To intimate friends the engagement was revealed at a handsomely appointed dinner given by Mrs. O. D. Sharpe of Stockton at her home in that city.

Parkinson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar B. Parkinson and is now engaged in law practice. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity, the Phi Beta Kappa Honor society and the Phi Alpha Delta Law fraternity.

The wedding is to take place in the very near future.

Miss Brynhild Marie Bransted is the betrothed of William Bratton Parker and is to be married Saturday in St. John's Episcopal church in Stockton. She will have a trio of her classmates at college in her bridal party—Miss Julia Tuggle as maid of honor; Miss Dorothy Lang and Miss Elizabeth Trowbridge of Fresno.

Orange Crop Hard Hit By Wind Storm

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 11.—Damage to the navel orange crop of San Bernardino county from the heavy windstorm will be serious, according to preliminary reports to citrus fruit growers here. The growers say the damage extends to many southern California districts. While the number of oranges knocked from trees in districts in this county was not excessive, growers say much fruit on the trees was damaged to such an extent shipments to eastern markets will be materially decreased.

MONTEREY CITIES FIX SESSION DATE

CARMEL, Dec. 11.—At the meeting of representatives from the three cities of the Monterey Peninsula, Carmel, Pacific Grove, and Monterey, and the president and secretary of the league of Municipalities at the Carmel Highlands Inn on Saturday, the opening date for the coming 1924 convention was set for October 6. The headquarters chosen for this convention, which will last four days, is Hotel Del Monte. The meeting on Saturday was called by Manager Fenton Foster of Monterey Peninsula Incorporated. This body will have charge of the program of entertainment for the members of the convention next October.

At the meeting last Saturday there were about sixteen representatives from the Peninsula present besides the president and secretary of the league, the mayor of Santa Cruz, and A. P. This convention is held for the purpose of discussing all questions connected with municipal government. Special attention will be given to city planning and zones.

Mrs. Annette Adams' Is Speaker at Chico

CHICO, Dec. 11.—Forty members of the Northern California branch of the American Association of University Women attended the annual dinner held at St. John's Episcopal church. An address by Annette Abbott Adams, San Francisco attorney, was the feature of the program following the banquet. Mrs. Adams took for the theme for her talk the "Constitution of the United States," and spoke of the recent tendency to make numerous amendments. The speaker stated that she had read a statement that there were 64 proposed amendments to the constitution which may be brought before the people at the next election. Conservatism in making changes in the national document must be exercised, was the message that she left with the members of the club.

Marysville Man Is Killed by Upset Car

GRIDLEY, Dec. 11.—George Austin, 26 years old, well known Marysville young man, was killed Sunday evening in an automobile accident nine miles west of Gridley.

Austin, in company with Eddie Conahan, another Marysville young man, was returning from a duck hunting expedition and the accident is believed to have occurred when the machine in which they were riding overturned down an embankment while trying to pass another machine also coming into Gridley.

Passing autoists and duck hunters brought Austin into Gridley. His neck was broken.

Conahan suffered several cuts on his hands and arms and was injured internally. The car was a total wreck.

Austin was employed in Marysville as a pharmacist and is believed to have relatives in the East.

COLGATE'S

Gifts that are Sure to Please

WE pass on to you OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES' opinion that memory, imagination, old sentiments and associations are more readily stirred by a fragrance than almost any other means.

With this excellent advice in mind, one chooses COLGATE'S, particularly for Christmas. Down the list—from the oldest member of the family to the youngest; from Johnny's teacher to one's bosom friend—the gift of COLGATE'S brings twofold pleasure. To the recipient because of its fragrant loveliness and fine quality. To the giver because the joy of giving has not been dampened by the cost.

And the pleasure of a COLGATE gift will stir the memory and live in sentiment long after the gift itself has yielded its last precious remnant.

MINISTERS READY TO WAGE WAR ON PETTING PARTIES

Richmond Pastors Prepare to Start Crusade On Parked Autos.

RICHMOND, Dec. 11. — "Thou shalt not pet!"

This was the edict issued today by local ministers who announced that they would begin a relentless war on all "petting parties" and endeavor to "clean up" the maze of "lovers' lanes" and other secluded nooks near this city where automobiles with "spooning parties" have been wont to congregate.

The determination of Richmond ministers to put an end to "petting parties" within the limits of this city, came as a result of trips made Saturday and Sunday night through the dimly-lighted, out-of-the-way sections. Scores of automobiles, containing pairs and quartets, were found parked by the investigators. Remonstrances to the occupants of the cars had various results, according to the ministers, who declare that, in most instances, their advice to the youths and their fair companions only caused the principals to move deeper into the security of more secluded nooks.

The inquiry was the result of reports to police and county officers who have found the problem of breaking up spooning parties a difficult one. Richmond spooners are said to be accustomed to park in their automobiles for hours at a time, and the police have reported cases where occupants of cars have been noted at midnight and seen in the same place at sunrise.

Rev. Frank K. Baker, of the Wesley Methodist church, said that Richmond probably had no greater numbers of "petters" than any other city of its size, but declared that conditions are deplorable and that parents should do all in their power to remedy them.

Rev. M. H. Greenlee, of the Community Methodist church, concurred in believing that the parents do not fully realize the seriousness of the matter.

"If they did," said he, "parents would be much more careful where their children went."

Welfare workers were much encouraged yesterday in aiding the pastors' plans for a campaign against the parties in the finding of an ordinance, almost forgotten, which forbids presence upon the streets of minors under the age of 18 years.

Gives Secret Away

Almost anyone with a little knowledge of baking can turn out a delicious cake, if only first-class materials are put into it. On the other hand, the best cook in the World cannot make good cake from poor materials.

The secret of the delightful flavor of Mother's Cake lies in the use of pure, honest ingredients — fresh ranch eggs, milk, sugar and plenty of rich shortening. That's why this cake has such an enormous sale—why thousands of housewives continue to buy it month after month.

Compare the quality of Mother's Cake with that of any cake sold, and see if it isn't far superior. It has that wonderful home-made taste which is usually lacking in "bought" cake. The very first slice will convince you that it is just as pure and wholesome as it would be if made in your own kitchen.

Mother's Cake is sold by the man who supplies most of the good things for your table—the grocer. He carries all six varieties—Gold, Silver, Marble, Raisin, Nut and Chocolate. Each cake enclosed in waxed wrapper at the baking plant. Guaranteed to be absolutely fresh when delivered to you. The price is but fifteen cents for any kind desired—enough to cut into six good slices. Order from any grocer.—Advertisement.

PRAYERS AND RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES FAITH MANIFEST IN NUMEROUS FORMS

Some Persons Take Religion One Way And Some Another

Prayer and religious beliefs are so intimately related to the lives of each individual that it is hard to argue about them. What is truth to me may be hopeless sacrilege to another. For that reason I'll print this letter without comment:

Jerry:

I can't let Renshaw's scientific drive go unchallenged, for we need prayer and supplication in this world far more than we do that cock-sure attitude. There are too many people sure that "me and God" can run things as they see fit. Too many who don't fear man or the devil or God because they have been so tickled pink with the achievements of their own brains that they think that that brain is surely the Almighty Power.

That article on Prayer is the most helpful piece of writing I have seen in your column since it started. If you took all the people out of the world who pray so earnestly, you would soon find the worth of a power far greater than the greatest human brain could combat.

I do think that some people need to be told to stand on their own strength, but they can gain that strength only by prayer. How useless to come back with dribble about our own strength when we know our own lives through the years and know that our strength is gone; in fact, we were born without any. Can anything but prayer and a strong belief in its help carry us on to achievements of courage and helpfulness?

Renshaw says one truthful thing when he says the greatest human plan is sitting down and waiting for a Providence to pull us out of difficulties. But I want to say that if every human being had that dominating will to over-ride all opposition and gain their own ends, that this world would soon go up in smoke. For myself, I would rather be in the class who with prayer and supplication, believe in a Power above the human, but I am like Jerry, I pray for strength and courage and nothing else. Oh, yes, for understanding and guidance, and my prayers have been answered in God's own time.

MATHENY.

HILLSIDE MOTHER AND HER LETTER.

There's no use, Hillside Mother, and I cannot agree. I resent her attitude that because I don't use her WORDS my soul is lost, or that I am not as sincere and living just as decent and generous a life as she. WHAT DO WORDS MATTER, and why should anyone insist that I say "Thank you God," or "Dear Father in Heaven, I mean you?"

I don't go through life saying YOUR way of prayer is wrong, just because it is not MY way. Your way is RIGHT to you and I have no criticism to make, and in return I DEMAND that I be allowed my beliefs in my own way.

Evidently the meddlers in other people's souls think they are the sole possessors of tickets to the reserved seat section of Heaven. If by chance that is true, I'll be content to a seat in the gallery.

Dear Geraldine:

Yes, I am still your friend, although we do not agree in everything, and I do think you are sacrilegious. But with your wonderful depth of intelligence I have hopes that you will get over it, and some day be filled with reverence. It is easy to agree with you as to making the home as bright and as happy as our ability can reach, but why should we want to do anything without Christ and the Bible? We might raise a bed of lettuce with artificial light and heat, but what's the use while the sun is still shining? I was glad to see your article on prayer, but why not be polite and say "Dear Father in Heaven, I mean you; I am not throwing out hints to the Sphynx or to Santa Claus."

It reminds me of my little girls whose aunt used to give them ribbons occasionally: as soon as they were comfortably seated at Grandma's one would say "I haven't any ribbons to wear tomorrow." Then another, "I'm not going to church anymore 'till I get new ribbons." The other, well, I forget just how she broached the subject. Perhaps God would know who you mean, but why not be polite and treat him respectfully? If the prayers, instead of criticisms, of conflicting denominations were steadily directed at one another, perhaps there might be a spiritual benefit of wondrous degree.

Think of the multitudes of little children all over the world who will meet temptation and pray that God will smite Satan away from them.

If you believe that Jesus suffered and died for mankind, ask it in His name; why not? If someone does you a kindness you smile a radiant "Thank you."

Why not be polite to God?

Yes, Geraldine, I was raised in a strict religious atmosphere, but in some way, like many young people, my human nature was still with me, so I went and built a little Tower of Babel all of my own, and expected to outride the turbulent waters of earthly adversity.

Of course it failed, and God sent someone to tell me of better things in store, and it was told in such a way that my dilatory soul stood up on its feet and listened.

Always in my deepest sorrow I have been thrown in contact with people of great faith. Believers who knew that God had manifested Himself to them. I have seen the trembling aged looking joyfully across the grave to the bright beyond.

Dear Geraldine, there was a time when I was an unbeliever, or at least a doubter. Unwilling, it is true, but the theories of science were before me as a school girl, and a tiny doubt began to grow, and soon became a thrifty plant. Those were the darkest, bitterest times of all my life. The loss of my children in later years would not compare with it. Burning my mind at all times, the thought that nothing was sure but death, eternal death. I could not bear to look at my baby sister whom I loved so much fearing the dark fate of the future. The dust of the grave, that alone to be a certainty. Two kind women gave me some comfort, one wrote in my little gilt embossed autograph album the following lines:

"I know it, I believe it,
I say it fearlessly,
That God, the highest, mightiest,
Forever loveth me,
At all times, in all places,
He standeth by my side,
He rules the battle's fury,
The tempest and the tide."

Often I read the little verse and always felt stronger afterward.

One day I began reading the Testament earnestly, and then God came to meet me, and I have never felt that darkness since.

Geraldine, if only you would let me in once more, perhaps some other school girl is standing where once I stood. You do not have to be a doubter, make a determined effort and help will come. Oh, Geraldine, our feelings change as we grow older. How I long for a part in the prayers of her who signed herself "Woman." How I yearn for a part in the prayers of all who sincerely love our Savior, that I may have a deeper experience, a stronger vision, than ever before. That I may become sure-footed, like the little animal that bears its burden in safety over the mountain passes.

HILL-SIDE MOTHER.

RIGHTS OF OTHERS TO FAITH RESPECTED.

With the writer of this letter I have no argument, as I had none with Matheny. Their beliefs are their own and I respect them. AND NEITHER INTIMATES THAT MY SOUL IS ETERNALLY DAMNED BECAUSE I DON'T SPEAK THEIR PIECE IN THEIR WAY.

This woman wants your prayers, Gang.

Dear Jerry:

Some time ago I wrote to you and signed my name Faith and Hope. Remember? I asked 99 out of a 100 to pray for me. Well, I just wondered how those felt that had put their faith in God and left it all to Him.

Jerry, as I told you before, that's all that's left for me to do. What would I do if I didn't believe that God is going to help me? Why, Jerry, I dread thinking of it. Now when I read about you, in Sunday's paper, for a moment my heart sank and sank and I almost thought of the gas jet. You said, if most people would get in and make their own fight, they'd be better off than always using God for a crutch. Well, Jerry dear, when the doctors said: "We will have to leave it to God" (they had done all they could). I called upon Him, God, I mean, and Jerry, I recovered.

I had blood poisoning. I was more dead than alive, Jerry. I could go on telling you loads of things that then happened.

Now, Jerry, I am calling on Him again, and am going to ask the Gang again to pray for my heart's desire. Jerry dear, did you ever see a miracle happen? I'd like to take you by the hand and say, come, let's visit L. She was cured from the last stages of the "con." Then come with me and see D. He was cured from cancer by God after it was beyond the doctors' means of curing him.

Oh, Jerry, I would like you to see Hubby dear. He, too, was cured by prayer. He believes in asking.

Well, Jerry, we have no business to butt in on your faith, but please don't put your foot down too hard on us guys who have to go to God, who made us. Why not go to Him for repairs? He understands us best after all. Anyway, Jerry, please don't "slam" me, as I am sensitive and would feel it.

Love to you and the Gang, Jerry.

FAITH AND HOPE.

Why should I "slam" you' Friend? I am happier than I can say that you've received help in your troubles, and if the Gang's prayers will aid you, here's hoping they're generous in giving.

My point of view in my own case is simply this: None of you know my private life, how my hours are spent (when I'm not working), what my religious beliefs are, and yet a few PRESUME to say that I do not believe, or that I am sacrilegious. I am not paid, nor do I wish to "preach" to people's souls. I'd be "scabbing" on the ministers' jobs if I did. I'm just here to help, if I can, and give you my love and friendship. If I succeed in that, it means a great deal more than the weekly "check." If we don't agree at times, what does it matter? We're touching hands and hearts, and that means HUMANITY.

PERSONAL WORD.

INNOCENCE. I wish, little girl, that you had sent me your name and address for a personal reply. It is very hard to answer you through the column. Besides I am not sure what it is you want me to do. If you were my little girl I'd take you IMMEDIATELY to the family doctor, or some reliable physician for examination. Not knowing your parents, I don't know what to advise you about them. You are a better judge than I of their attitude. It's up to you to be a brave and STRAIGHT little girl. And go and see your doctor real soon, will you?

EXPERIENCED. I am sorry, friend, but I can't print your letter. It might be rewritten, but I am afraid that I couldn't do it so that it would "get across." I think that you mention a very unusual condition, and more than one weak youngster would grab it as an excuse for her misdeeds. It is up to mothers to know and study these things, and protect their children. I am afraid your letter, as written, would do more harm than good, so I'm thanking you for your good intentions and hoping that you will "come again" to this column when you can help.

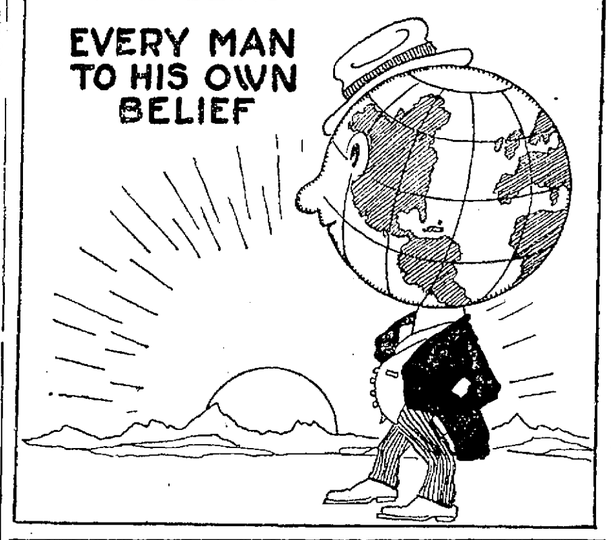

CYNIC. Those who have seen LIFE, talk in essentials. That is what I thought as I read your letter. It is wonderful, and so are you. While I don't always agree with you, I know that you are talking and thinking straight from the shoulder. At least I know it NOW. I am at one with you in your hatred for smugness and "grafters." Here's "straight from the shoulder" talk back at you. I'm proud to call you FRIEND.

If you change your mind, let me know about publishing your letter. I'd like to, for it would give many a "sheltered" woman a view of a world she never dreamed of.

My original offer stands more than ever. If I can ever help you, let me know.

WILLIAM BRANCH was a burglar. This story is not concerned with how long he had been one or the reason for his choice of profession. It finds him, with his cap pulled over his eyes in the conventional manner of the porch climber, with his feet treading stealthily, making his way across the floor in the home of Nylander Biggs.

William felt his way slowly. A squeak of a board, a sneeze, a bump into a chair, and he would have to dive out of a window. He did not like the layout, he decided, and wished he were outside. Then he saw the box, three feet long, perhaps, and a half as wide. He heard someone stir, picked up the box, tossed it out on the soft earth and followed.

For more than a mile the burglar carried the box wondering what was inside. He made his way out of the city and into a forest, then he shoved the chest under a bush that it might be half hidden while he opened it. At dawn he listened and looked and turned to his haul.

William Branch lifted from the chest some frilly clothes, a few souvenir spoons, embroidered towels and pillow slips, and then he knew what was behind taken.

There was a time when this burglar was known as the finest dressed boy in his home town. It was then he made up his mind to show the "hicks," what a fellow could do, with brains and push, in a large city. So he went to the girl, the girl who had been his particular friend through school days, and told her.

William remembers how frightened she looked and how sorrowful. Then she brightened when he said it would be but a short time before he would be making more money than he could ever earn in the small place. He could get married and she knew what that meant! William asked her again. After a while she led him into another room and showed him a big box. It was full of clothes and things she had been making since she was a little girl.

"It's a hope chest," she said. "All of those things are for me when I am married."

William Branch, who was the best dressed youth in town, was struck of a sudden with a realization that this talk of marriage was serious. He was aware that the girl had been planning for years, and when he looked into her eyes he saw a light he could not understand.

"Women," said William, "are queer. Now me, I'm thinking more of the times I'll have in the city."

After that the man's education started. There came a time when he dared no longer write to the girl, when he dropped from the sight of his city acquaintances and moved from place to place. He thought of that hope chest and of the plans of the girl. He knew it was his fault they had gone wrong and he knew also that as long as he lived he would carry the regret. William took to smiling a hard smile and doing desperate things.

"The girl was lucky," he said when he thought of her, "not to get me. I'm a hard one."

Now in the chill of the morning William Branch found himself looking at another hope chest.

"These things are no good to me." He held up the ruffles with a grin. "Wonder how many years she has been working on 'em?" He thought of this girl, and that other, tucking away the garments one at a time, packing them in the chest with dreams of wonderthings and, suddenly, he felt very small and mean. It was a long time before he made up his mind what to do. Then he wrapped up the box, carried it to the next town, and expressed it to Nylander Biggs. It took his last cent to pay the charges, but he felt as a man relieved of a load.

Nylander Biggs was astonished when the box came back.

"What was in it, anyhow?" he asked of his wife. "I've often wondered why you had it about."

"That's the box my sister sent me, you know, the time her daughter broke her engagement. The poor girl couldn't stand seeing it around, so Carrie sent it here. I never knew the whole story, except the man turned out to be no good, disappeared or something, and that his name was William Branch."

JERRY SAYS

The Love Gyp

by George C. Henderson

SYNOPSIS:

Jake Gill, a male vamp and car washer in an Oakland garage, poses as Col. St. Clair, war hero, secret service man and aviator, and wins the love of Marjorie Hyde away from Napoleon Knott. Gill and Marjorie are engaged.

Knott and Cal Dyce, Marjorie's brother, get Gil into an airplane by trickery in order to "show him up." Gill is badly scared.

High in the air, the Love Gyp gradually overcome his fears. Then Cal goes into a tailspin and the Gyp in a frenzy of fear grabs the joystick and crashes the plane.

Cal angrily charges the Gyp with wrecking his plane, but Marjorie comes to his defense and declares that the Colonel has proven himself an expert, since he declared the plane was unsafe for flight.

Napoleon Knott, Cal Hyde and Roy Marvin trail the Love Gyp to McKim's garage, but with the help of Mose, the negro, the Gyp eludes discovery.

Napoleon Knott calls on Inspector of Police John Scott and tells him of the Dynamite Kid. They plan to capture the Kid.

Knott goes to the rear gate of the Hyde home, sees Marjorie meet a strange seaman, hand him a package and kiss him. He sends an operative, Slater, to trail the stranger. A woman in a check skirt also has witnessed the episode.

Entering the Hyde home Knott finds Marjorie kneeling before the safe. On warning her that the $6300 is in danger, Marjorie dares him to try to get in the safe and see what happens.

Knott takes the dare, is held up by masked men, whom Marjorie explains are guards engaged by Joe Marvin to watch the safe. But when Knott attempts to telephone out one of the so-called guards prevents him at gun's point.

Knott tries to leave the house, but is held up again by masked men. He concludes that bandits have surrounded the place.

Marvin is revealed as the Dynamite Kid. He calls on Oakland Slim, gangster leader.

CHAPTER 17.
OAKLAND SLIM.

"My men are in there now?" queried Oakland Slim. "But won't the preacher get wise?"

The Dynamite Kid laughed again.

"You don't know me," he boasted. "I presented my stolen credentials to young Cal a week ago. He took me on. Believed all I told him. We're great friends. I'm a house guest. Do you get that, a preacher's house guest?"

The Kid could not restrain his mirth. He a robber, counterfeiter and safe cracker was a guest in the home of a wealthy minister of the gospel!

Slim poured himself out a drink and glowered. He did not have a sense of humor. The Dynamite Kid refused the flask, which lowered him still another peg in Oakland Slim's opinion.

"When I wanted to plant your men in the dump, I told young Cal I was afraid someone would steal that $6300 in his dad's safe."

Slim exploded.

"Why you poor simp," he cried. "You told him that? He'll be on his guard."

The Kid's laugh chopped off short. He leaned across the table and bored into Slim's eyes with his own.

"Don't call names," he warned. "I'll work with you, but I won't take nothing off of you. Do you get that?"

Slim reached across the table as if to catch the Kid's coat collar, but he suddenly found himself looking into the barrel of an automatic pistol. He lowered his hands and the Kid stowed his gun.

"I trained in Chicago," said the Kid, with a cynical grin. "Don't try to pull any of your rube stuff on me."

"But why did you tip them off to guard the safe?" growled Slim, "I don't getcha."

The Dynamite Kid spread his hands in eloquent contempt.

"Oh I don't expect you to get me," he declared suavely. "All you have to do is listen. I told Cal his safe needed guarding. Then I said I had some friends who were private dicks, good gunmen, sure shots. I run your men in to guard the safe."

This was too much for even Oakland Slim. He leaped back in his chair and looked at the Kid, open mouthed. Finally when the full significance of the thing had soaked in, his great gash of a mouth spread in a broad grin and he laughed harshly. The emotion brought on a great thirst, evidently, because he proceeded to pour out a copious draught of the yellow poison and swallow it.

"But how about the trick detective?" queried Slim. "Won't he get wise and flag the bulls in on us?"

"Not a chance," retorted the Kid. "That's the best part of it. He thinks there's a plot to rob the safe also. In fact he warned Cal. But we've got him barking up a wrong tree. He suspects the fake society guy."

"But who is this dick?"

"A fat man, Napoleon Knott."

Oakland Slim unfolded to his full seven foot heighth as if a spring within him suddenly had been released.

"Napoleon Knott?" he cried, huskily. "A tubby guy with red cheeks?"

"Yes, Napoleon Knott," repeated the Kid. "What of it?"

Slim hit the table so hard that the room vibrated.

"I'm through," he said, with finality. "Count me out of this. If Napoleon Knott is on the job, I'm through."

The Kid regarded Slim out of eyes that were disconcertingly cold.

"Cold feet?" he sneered. "I might have expected it of a guy that makes his jack holding up his friends."

Oakland Slim did not object to the remark. Perhaps he remembered the automatic pistol. At heart a coward, Slim did not care to come in contact with hot lead of any great velocity. He let killers strictly alone. Instead he was inclined to be apologetic and pacifistic.

"You don't know that bird," he complained. "Why he's the slickest dick in California. Looks like a boob, acts like a boob, makes you think he's a dumbbell and then jumps onto you when you're not expecting it. Don't run me in on this, will you?"

"I can't call your men off now," retorted the Kid, tartly. "I could have done this job myself, but I like the excitement of gang work. And so although I travel alone, I like to tie up with local gangs and pull off a trick that makes the newspapers howl. I didn't size you up as a quitter."

Slim walked toward the door.

"Where are you going?" asked the Dynamite Kid.

"I'm going down to the police station," declared the tall man. "I'm going down there and get throwed in jail, so I can establish an alibi on this job. If I'm in jail, they can't blame it on me."

The Kid's gun again slid out of his pocket and pointed directly at the elongated body of Oakland Slim.

"Sit down," he snapped. "Sit down or I'll drill you."

Slim studied the glinting eyes of the Dynamite Kid for only a second. He knew men. He could tell when they were afraid of him. That was his stock in trade, to frighten men. What he saw in the Kid's face caused him to sit down abruptly.

"Now I'm going to tell you about Napoleon Knott," the Kid continued. "He think's I'm Cal's lifelong friend. Cal told his family that, because his old man don't approve of pickup acquaintances, Knott came to Cal and me and said he was afraid someone was going to knock over that safe. He suspected the fake gent, Colonel Maxmilian St. Clair. We trailed him. And I bet you can't guess who he was?"

Slim shook his head.

"How should I know?" he asked.

"Colonel Maxmilian St. Clair, war hero, secret service man and aviator—that's what he seemed," continued the Kid. "We trailed him to McKim's garage. Then I recognized him. The fine Colonel is nothing but a car washer."

"What's that got to do with Napoleon Knott?" growled Slim. "He's the bird I'm scared of."

"Why Knott thinks that the car washer is a yegg," explained the Dynamite Kid. "He's spending all his time watching this St. Clair bird. Maybe he is a crook. Otherwise why should he masquerade as a bon ton?"

Slim leaned across the table, interested now.

"We could plant stuff in his room," he suggested. "If only we could nab Knott."

"Knott's virtually a prisoner," declared the Dynamite Kid. "Your men have orders to shadow him. If necessary they're to stick him up and put the irons on him. Our lookouts will warn us if the police come. We've got Knott sewed up. Nobody else around there has sense enough to know what's going on. Now does that still your trembling heart."

"All right," assented Slim. "I'll go through with it. But I'm warning you that this Napoleon Knott is a slick hombre."

"Well listen to this," retored the kid. "I've got a scheme that will fool all of 'em."

STALKING BIG GAME.

Man is a hunter—
From the start—
In fact he is not glad of heart—
Until that day he points with pride—
At vanquished quarry by his side—
He starts with sling-shot as a boy—
The use of which gives him much joy—
Then graduates until a gun—
Is handed down from sire to son—
Then proud he stalks for bigger game—
And adds much prestige to his name—
If he perchance is keen of eye—
And kills his quarry with each try—
And so it is when he first starts—
To hunt fair game with Cupid's darts—
For maid—no matter what your name—
Man stalks you as he does all game—
And though you set an awful pace—
Until at last his wish fulfilled—
He points with pride at what he killed—
First as a youth on love's trail bent—
He loads his gun with sentiment—
And shoots you letters full of gush—
For youth is full of milk and mush—
But keen young hearts rebound to this—
With ripe lips tingling for a kiss—
And young eyes glimpse a promised land—
Just out across Life's changing sand—
But these soft bullets made of bread—
Will seldom knock their quarry dead—
So as he grows with lengthened days—
He learns no ammunition pays—
Save that which looks to his frail dear—
As if his shooting was sincere—
For fickle hunters lose their pull—
If all they do is shoot the ball—
So now when love songs he sings—
He works in hints of diamond rings—
And often are his quarry flops—
He shoots in many chocolate drops—
But still he's not sure of his kill—
For modern maidens have a will—
And if some man comes on the scene—
A hunter bold with limousine—
You'll often find you've lost the range—
Your ammunition you must change—
And if you pause with broken sighs—
And beaten looks beam from your eyes—
You'll find it ever in Life's race—
The strongest hunter wins the chase—
Brave man has ever stalked the maid—
The biggest game in glen or glade—
And he who ever wins the prize—
Must take his aim with steady eyes—
Lad don't use bullets made of lead—
They seldom ever knock them dead—
I give this tip then make my bow—
They're using modern bullets now.

READJUSTMENT.

Walter Waffles—
Child of Nature—
Born and reared where meadows green—
Spread over all a restful carpet—
And seemed to whisper—Peace—be still—
Grew tired of harking to the wooing—
Of birds and bees—
And spreading wings flew far away—
To where the boom of city's traffic—
Crashed in his ears—
And there he met Miss Pansy Pinkey—
A daughter of the dizzy whirl—
That seems to never cease revolving—
Where millions meet and go to grips—
For life's necessities—
And Pansy looked on Walter Waffles—
Took note of all his potent charms—
His bulging chest—his shoulders square—
And with the will that's born with woman—
Resolved to have him for her own—
And Walter—simple minded yokel—
Saw in Miss Pansy everything—
That he could wish for in a woman—
And though she was a child to him—
But just to satisfy each notion—
That came to her—
So they were wed—this child of nature—
And this daughter of life's whims—
Then Walter said—"We'll buy a cottage—
With climbing vines around the door—
And roaring fireplace—
And future years will see our children—
Roll noisily upon the floor—"
But Pansy said—"Please cut the children—
They bring out trials I will not bear—
Besides there'll be room for youngsters—
Within our home—
For I detest a quiet cottage—
I long to hear the city's blare—
Sound in my ears both night and day—
That is the life that I must live—
My maiden's dreams—
And so within a small apartment—
This child of nature's luring acres—
And daughter of the city's din—
Built nuptial nest—and called it home—
And every night wher folly beckoned—
These two were in the madding throng—
That sought surcease from life's dull duties—
He with the eyes of one who bartered—
A dream that never would come true—
She welcoming each added day—
He followed every noisy youngster—
With hunger eyes—
Well knowing that the future held—
Heart hurting sighs—
How few there are who find their mate—
And that is fate.

"Any abnormal children in your classes?" asked the inspector. "Yes," replied the school marm sadly, "two of them have good manners."

HOW MADGE STUMBLED ON ALFRED'S AND BESS DEAN'S SECRET.

My mental question as to Alfred Durkee's course was soon answered. At Bess Dean's noisy announcement that she must go home, he rose to his feet, leisurely, glancing at his own watch as he did so.

"We've plenty of time," he said, "so you can be leisurely about getting on your things."

There was an accustomedness about the little colloquy which angered me, and made me glance furtively at Lella. Her lips were set in a stiff, pitiful little smile, but her eyes held the tortured look I had observed in them the night before, and beyond her, little Mrs. Durkee signalled me a distinct appeal, which I promptly and gladly heeded.

"You're going to drive Bess over to Bayview, aren't you?" I asked eagerly. "Do you mind if I go along? It seems years since I had a drive in the real country, although it really is only a few weeks. You won't need me, for a little while, will you, Leila?"

"Oh, no!" Leila replied eagerly, too eagerly, I mentally commented, for I wished she would not betray to Bess Dean her desire that I should play gooseberry on the journey to Bayview. "But I'm afraid you'll be disappointed about the drive; go by train instead. The car—isn't—here."

Her voice hesitated ever so slightly, and with intuition sharpened by my desire to aid her, I looked quickly at Alfred, surprising a look of distinct embarrassmen in his eyes. And though Bess Dean was outwardly imperturbable, yet there was an indefinable something about her which reminded me of the days in Bayview when anything concerning her own class was brought into question. She was tense beneath her apparent carelessness, but there was also a little satisfied glint in her eyes which reminded me of the eyes of a cat just leaving a jug of cream.

LEILA IS PUZZLED.

That I had stumbled upon a clue to the secret which I suspected Bess and Alfred shared, I was sure. Alfred's absent car had something to do with it! I told myself that I would not rest until I followed to its end the thread I had grasped.

"Oh! In the garage again?" I laughed with the understanding mockery one motorist generally accords another. "You ought to have our make."

"Then we'd have to mortgage the house to pay for its keep." Alfred growled. "This is the only time the old bus has gone back on me for months."

"What was the matter, run into somebody, or did the motor cop confiscate it for speeding?"

He started distinctly, and his eyes turned involuntarily in Bess Dean's direction. Then he brought them back quickly to mine, and laughed so non-chalantly that I wondered if I had imagined his momentary perturbation.

"Nothing so thrilling," he said carelessly. "I was taking a chap home one night when we were detained by a conference, and the thing simply died at first. Found out that the generator was gone, and we had to be towed to Amityville. There's been some delay about the repair. Sometimes I think I'll trade it in and get a new one."

Leila had leaned forward in her chair with puzzled eyes.

"YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE YOUR DRIVE.

"Amityville, Alf?" she said. "I thought you said before the car was in a Farmingdale garage?"

"Did I say Amityville?" he countered quickly, but I had seen the nervous twitching of his eyelids at her question. "How stupid of me! I meant Farmingdale, of course."

"You probably were thinking of that wonderful stretch of road across the island there," Bess Dean put in smoothly. "Do you remember, Leila, the day we all drove along the road and ate our lunch by the roadside?"

"Oh, yes, I remember it—" Leila assented, and I guessed that the memory was anything but a pleasant one. Alfred finished her sentence with a reminiscent laugh.

"That's the day I taught you to drive, Bess, when you so nearly wrecked us coming home. No wonder you both remember it. But, Mrs. Madge, you'regoing to have your drive even if the old bus is out of commission. The garage man here is a good friend of mine, and he usually has a car he can lend for an hour or two. I'll just telephone him and find out."

He walked to the telephone and rang up the garage. Under ordinary circumstances I would have protested against the extravagance of this arrangement, but I made no protest now. It would have been too obvious for me to press my company upon Bess and Alfred for a dreary train journey to and from Bayview, while I already had signified my desire for a drive. And I, whatever happened, meant to give my former colleague no opportunity for a trip a-deaux with Alfred this evening at least.

The Advantage of Being Plumped Out

There used to be an official of the New York Jockey Club who came from the south. He left the old place as a spindly youth; but living in the north seemed to agree with him. When he went back home for a visit, after several years' absence, he had fleshened up noticeably—especially in spots.

The old negro cook, a family servant of many years' standing, was brought in to see him. "Don't you think Mr. Jimmy has grown very stout?" asked one of the family.

"Wellum," said the old woman, "he is took on a right smart fleshiness, an' that's a fact." Then she hastily added: "But a stomach dat sticks out like his'n is jest dat chelly made fur showin' off a gole watch chain."

THE CYCLONE.

In Midwest where there is so many cyclones there lived a family of a boy, girl, father and mother. The father was grouchy and would not work. The boy's and girl's name was Bob and Mary. The mother and father's were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. The mother was always scolding the children and made them work.

One day the children were playing in the barn when a cyclone came and took the barn and children way up in the mountains. It was set down just like it was on their father's farm, by a river. The boy caught fish to keep them alive. When they had been in the mountains a week Bob went hunting. Mary stayed in the barn and cleaned it up so they could live there until someone passed by and would take them home. As Bob was hunting a mountain lion saw and made for him. Then there was a bang and the lion fell dead. A hunter came in sight and without seeing Bob took the lion and walked away.

Bob went back and told his sister about his adventure. After they had been in the mountains about a year a cloud bursted at the hear of the river. The flood washed the barn down stream, past there father's farm. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were fishing. When they saw the barn they through a rope around it and pulled it ashore. Their father greeted them kindly. After that he worked and got rich. They lived happily ever after.

FLAXY.

In a smal town in New Mexico there lived a cowpuncher whose name was Jesse. He owned a horse whose name was Flaxy. This horse was just a colt of three, but the time had come to break him to ride. So one day Jesse went to the corral and got his saddle and bridle ready. He took his rope off of the saddle and lassoed the pony. Flaxy came quite willingly and Jesse put the saddle on him. The horse did not like this but he didn't do anything so Jesse put on the bridle. Flaxy jumped, but couldn't get away. Jesse got on and spurred the horse. It reared and then started to pitch and Jesse all but went off. Finally the horse calmed down and Jesse rode him to the mountains. It was very dangerous in those mountains because there were many Pirates ready to kill anybody that came near them.

Jesse was riding along peacefully when out jumped two pirates, known to be the worst in that part of the country. He jerked out his gun, but the pirates were too quick for him and he was taken captive. The pirates turned Flaxy loose and let him run off which he was very glad to do; and they never thought any more about him. Jesse was taken into a cave and left there but the pirates went away. Soon some witches came out and said that they too, had been captured by the pirates.

The pirates had not closed the door tight and soon Flaxy came back and nosed around the door. It opened and Jesse and the witches were free. So he went out and took a rope off of his saddle and made a trap that would catch the pirates as they came in. Then he hid. Soon the pirates came in and were caught in the trap. Jesse killed them and Flaxy was called the

AN ADVENTURE UNDER WATER.

Once there was a fisherman who lived by the sea. This fisherman was very stingy he did not want any one to fish in the sea.

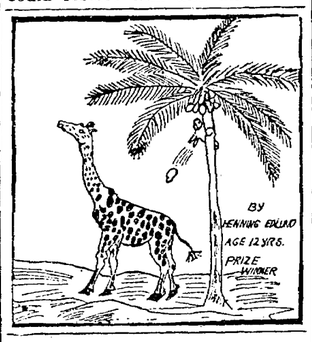

One day a genii came to him and said: "You will have to stay under water for being cruel until some one has broken the enchantment by getting a shell with black around the edge and red and blue in the center."

Before the fisherman knew what was happening he found himself under water. While he was under water he made friends with all the fishes and crabs. One of his best friends was a gold fish.

One day the goldfish told the fishermen that he once was a prince changed into a fish by a mean witch. He said if he could get a little round enchanted marble he would be restored to his own form.

One day the fisherman went to visit his friend the sea horse who had the enchanted marble, while the sea horse wasn't looking the fisherman took the enchanted marble and gave it to the goldfish. The gold fish said he had to have the shell to restore his father to his own form. He told the fisherman his father was the genii. The fisherman sent one of his friends the dogfish to get the shell.

After a year and a day he obtained the shell with great difficulty and gave it to the fisherman. The Prince told him to put the marble in the shell then they would be restored to their own form. He said his father put the fisherman under water because he said that only the fishermen could restore him and his father to their own form. The fishermen put the marble into the shell then they were all on earth again. The king gave the fishermen control of the sea.

Boom! Bang! Boom, Hokus Pokus! Buzzz! Crash!

Jack shuts his eyes until the noise subsided a little, and what do you thing he saw when he opened them? Burr! He found himself in a dark room with white objects of all kinds flitting here and there, and as soon as one thing came very close to him, he felt a breath of cold air. They went so quick, he could harly tell where they were. But he didn't care—he didn't want to know. Every time a thing came close up, he shut his eyes and squealed.

After awhile, a thing came too close to him and everything turned dark blue with black things running around. Poor Jack was so frightened he didn't know what to do, and he was so cold and Brrrr! Crash! Boom!

"Where am I now?" wailed poor Jack; but he had his eyes shut anyway, so it would do no good to tell him. When he did peep out, he was in his own room on the floor.

"No wonder I was cold," said Jack. "Next time we have mince pie, I'll only eat one piece instead of two."

THE HAUNTED HOUSE.

Once there was a haunted house. No one lived in this house it was a mile from town.

Two boys Jack and Jim asked their mother if they could go in the house all night. She said "No you cannot go in there for five men went in and never came back out." So they begged till she said: "Yes you may go but be back at ten o'clock tomorrow morning." "We will be back at that time," said Jack.

At eight o'clock that night they went in and they saw a bed. "Let's go to bed," said Jim. "Alright," said Jack.

At ten o'clock they heard a noise and they got up and seen a man push a button an a door open in the floor. The boys done the same thing and saw some stairs going down they went down and was going through the basement after the man and some one hit them on the head.

When they come too they were tied up and they smelt smoke. They looked around it was all afire and they fainted when they came too they were in the hospital.

In the days of long ago,
When the world was young and gay,
There lived in Egypt, the land of Kings,
A Pharaoh, a king, I say!

'Tis slaves he kept a working,
Building his numerous tombs,
But not to keep his mummy in,
His nector, and wine needed rooms!

Part II.

3.
His life needed not to be insured,
For his life was always guarded.
But his wives his hair they continually pulled,
And his good old soul they carded.

At last when all hope for him seemed gone,
A magician came to his palace,
And told him that he had a remedy,
For vengeance and hatred and malice.

Part III.

He told the king to get a box,
And into it stuff his wives,
And label the box, dangerous dynamite,
And discard it for future lives.

The king did as the magician said,
And lived to a ripe old age.
But his name was never written,
Upon history's brilliant page.

THE ROSE.

Once upon a time when the world was filled with fairies and witches there lived a beautiful ten-year-old girl named Rose. An old witch who lived not far from Rose was jealous of her and was determined to make her unhappy. There was also a good army of fairies who loved her dearly. One afternoon the witch kidnapped Rose, took her to her cabin and tied her to a stake and went and got her magic charms. She said she was going to change her to an ugly flower. Just as the words leaped out of her mouth the good queen passed by and heard the witch and said, "Hold! Thou wretched creature, I shall place my power against thine. See she is turned into a beautiful flower called a Rose."

That is how we came to have the flower called the rose.

BEN'S ADVENTURES.

Ben was a little seaman. He lived a block from the sea. His father made him a boat a year before he died. He is now ten years old and his mother died when he was five years old.

One day a ship came floating into shore while he was sitting on the bank. He looked up and saw that there was no driver. He went in the boat to investigate. He saw that there was no one in it. He opened all the doors upstairs, but downstairs there was one door that he could not open. So he went upstairs and started the boat.

When he was out in the middle of the ocean, he heard footsteps down stairs. He stopped the boat, and went to see what it was. When he was going through a long corridor he met a man staggering towards him. The man had a gun in his hand and said, "Hands up, young man, what are you doing here." Ben rushed at him, and took his gun away. "What are you doing?" said Ben.

The man was frightened and thought that Ben would shoot him, so he told this story. "I was going to this island to find a treasure, when a man got on my ship and killed my friend and locked me in the cell. But I knew how to get out. So now I will tell you where to get the treasure for I know that I am not able to get it alone.

So Ben turned the ship around and they went back to the island. When they got off the man led him to the treasure. They entered a cave, and at the end of the cave was a large chest. They opened it and it was full of money. They put it on the ship, and sailed for their country, for Ben afterward learned that the man was his uncle.

They built a home for themselves, and lived happy ever after.

One day Captain Berry drew together twelve battleships, and eight submarines.

They were gone only two days, when ships appeared in sight, these ships belong to Hoot. Closer they came, finally war was on, it only lasted about ten minutes, there was only one ship left, Hoot was on this one. They took Hoot off and left all the other pirates on Hoots and sunk it.

Captain Berry brought Hoot to San Quentin where he was for life. The sea was made free again, and ships were sailing all over again.

MYSTERY KID.

Tom O'Brien sat puzzling over some very mysterious notes written in some secret code that he had been finding each morning under his door. The janitor said he had seen no one enter or leave the building. (Tom was a young fellow who had left home to earn his living as a detective.) Suddenly came a knock on the door and the chief entered with a worried expression on his face. He said to Tom, "Tom I have received a note which makes me kind of nervous so I want you to help me." He handed Tom a note which said:

"TONIGHT BEWARE."

There was nothing else on the note. Tom being an adventurous lad gladly accepted and he thought possibly that it might lead to a clue for himself. That night as the clock struck seven the chief and Tom came up the walk armed with automatics and hid behind some bushes till the robbers (or who ever they were) tried to get in the house. The chief went over to where Tom was hiding and to his surprise he wasn't there. The chief felt himself falling and he landed on a mattress almost on top of Tom who held up a warning hand for him to be still. They heard voices and one voice said:

"I guess we will go now and kill the chief." Tom and the chief hid back in a corner of the wall till the robbers (that's what they were) started to go out a trap door. Then Tom rushed forward and yelled, "Hands up," the men all held up their hands and Tom and the chief took them to jail where Tom and the chief each got a reward of $500 apiece. Tom's mysterious letters stopped, but no one unraveled their mystery. Have you a faint suspicion?

NOBODY'S BOY.

Once upon a time there was a boy named Bob. Bib didn't have no mother or father. They were thought to be dead but they weren't.

One day while Bob was going to school, all the boys made fun of him because he was poorly dressed and he couldn't afford to buy any because he was too poor. That night while going to his shack, he spied a cave which he had never seen. He went in and saw a door. He opened it and saw his father and mother. They had lots of money so Bob could go to school with good clothes and the boys and girls are wondering how it can be.

"THE ADVENTURES OF TWO BOY SCOUTS."

Jim and Harry went hiking up in the hills; after a long time they were tired and sat down to rest. Harry got up and climbed onto a high rock to look around, and he saw something that looked like a cave. He called to Jim to come and see, then they went over to where it was, and sure enough it was an old save. They crawled in and went to the very end of the cave. With their spot lights they saw a loose rock, they pushed it aside, and looked down and saw a dim light, and could hear men talking and planning a robbery for the next night. Upon hearing these things, they rolled the rock quietly back in its place and hurried back to town. They were all excited and told the police their story. With a number of men the boys led the way to the cave. Then they hid near by and when the men came out, they took them by surprise and captured them. They confessed to robbing different places and on examining the cave they found many articles of jewelry and other expensive things. For this, the boys were liberally awarded.

A TOY WAGON TO MAKE.

"Billy, look!" cried Betty Cut-out on her way home from school. "Up in a window of the Children's Hospital I see a poor crippled boy in a wheel chair. He's laughing and pointing at my wagon." Betty held up the toy she had made at school while the boy clapped his hands with pleasure.

"I have a wonderful Christmas idea," Betty said when a nurse came and took the little invalid away from his window. "I'll tell my teacher tomorrow."

Every day at school the Cut-outs make a new kind of Christmas toy. Here you see a wagon they made out of the bottom of a match box. Try making one yourself with milk stoppers for wheels. Sew meat skewers or two smooth sticks on the bottom of the box (see the top diagram) with wheels on the ends and string wound on the outside to hold the wheels on. Make a seat from cardboard, cutting it by the picture, half an inch wider than the size of the match box. Cut a wagon tongue of cardboard to paste on the front.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DISH PAN.

"Goodness me! It's all running out!" cried Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"What is running out?" asked Uncle Wiggily. The rabbit gentleman was getting ready to go look for an adventure. "Do you mean the Fuzzy Fox got into my bungalow, Nurse Jane, and is now running out?" he asker his muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Oh, no, nothing like that, I'm thankful to say," answered Nurse Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But I just filled my dishpan with water, to give the cups and saucers their bath. There must be a hole in my dishpan."

"Then I'll get you a new one," offered Uncle Wiggily.

"A new hole?" asked Nurse Jane. "Thank you, but——"

"No, I mean a new dish pan!" laughed the bunny uncle. "I'll get you a new dish pan without any holes in and then the water won't run out."

"Thank you, it will be very kind," said Nurse Jane. So she emptied the water from the leaking pan and sat down to mend the stockings instead of washing the dishes.

"I'll hop off now and get the new pan," offered Uncle Wiggily. "It will be a little adventure for me."

The rabbit gentleman hopped to the twenty-six and twenty-seven cent store, where they sold new tin dish pans as shiny as looking glasses, and there he bought a fine, large one for Nurse Jane.

"Are you sure there are no holes in this dish pan?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the little mousie girl clerk who waited on him.

"Oh no ma'am—I mean no sir," she answered. "There isn't a hole in it, except the big hole at the top, but that has to be there to put the water in and so you can wash the dishes."

"Yes, I suppose so," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I'll take this. Nurse Jane can give all the dishes their bath at once now. It's a larger pan than she had before."

There had been a little snow that morning—just a light fall of white flakes which covered the ground to get it ready for Christmas. Little as the snow was, some of the animal boys and girls had brought out their sleds and were coasting down hill.

"Oh what fun this is!" cried Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, as he coasted down.

"Jolly good fun!" bleated Billie Wagtail, the goat.

"Here comes Uncle Wiggily!" chattered Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boy.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Why don't you coast down hill?" asked Betty Ringtail, the little raccoon girl, in her warm coat of fur.

"Coast down hill? Why I haven't a sled, for one thing," said the Sammie gave him a push.

bunny uncle, as he stopped to watch the animal children, at the same time twinkling his pink nose. "And for another reason," he went on, "I'm too old to slide down hill."

"Oh, no you aren't!!!" laughed Sammie, who had come up from the bottom of the hill so he could coast down again. "You aren't too old."

"Thank you for the compliment—perhaps I'm not quite too old," said Uncle Wiggily. "But, anyhow, I have no sled, and I don't want to take any of yours, for I might——"

"Oh, you can take any of our sleds you want to," said Jackie Bow Wow. "But you don't need to, Uncle Wiggily. You have, there, as good a sled as you need to coast down hill."

"I have a sled—what do you mean?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"The dish pan," barked Jackie. "You can sit in it and coast down hill just as we do on our sleds."

"That's right," said Susie Littletail. "Once, when I hadn't any sled I coasted in my mother's dish pan."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose again and said:

"All right, I'll try it." So he put the new, shiny tin dish pan down on the snow-covered ground at the top of the hill. Then he sat down in the dish pan, curling his paws under him. Sammie gave him a push, and the rabbit gentleman coasted down as nicely as you please. "Hurray! This is fun!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. He got out at the bottom of the hill, put the dish pan on his head, walked to the top and coasted down again.

This he did two or three times, while the animal children coasted on their sleds. And once, when Uncle Wiggily was going down the hill, the Fuzzy Fox stuck his nose out from the bushes and tried to bite the bunny.

"No you don't!!" cried Uncle Wiggily. He steered his sled into the bad chap, bunking him keebango, and the Fox ran away. Then Uncle Wiggily coasted again in the dish pan before he took it to Nurse Jane.

The muskrat lady put some water in the pan and set it on the stove. And in a moment she cried:

"Oh, Wiggy! They gave you a leaky pan! The water is leaking all over the stove!"

"Oh, is that so?" asked the bunny. "Well, that's my fault. The pan had no holes in it when I bought t, but I must have worn them in sliding down hill. I'll get you another new pan, Nurse Jane, without any holes in, and I'll keep this one for sliding down hill." And he did.

And if the dusting brush doesn't tickle the gas stove with an icicle and make the phonograph laugh, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily on roller skates.

"DID it hurt you, Mr. Gingerbread man, when Hookie, the Goblin, was eating your cookie arm?" Raggedy Andy asked.

"Not even a smidgin!" the gingerbread man replied. "It is just like you, Raggedy Andy," the gingerbread man went on. "It doesn't hurt you when some one bites you, does it?"

"Oh, no!" Raggedy Andy replied. "Both Raggedy Ann and I are made out of cloth and stuffed with nice clean white cotton, so it does not hurt us at all. In fact, nothing hurts us! Does it, Raggedy Ann?"

"Not a little teeny weeny bit!" Raggedy Ann replied.

"I am glad that the nice Snitznoodle and Raggedy Andy rescued you before hungry Hookie the Goblin had eaten you completely!" kind Mrs. Cookie said. And the gingerbread man was even more glad; in fact he was very happy to be with his nice kind friends again.

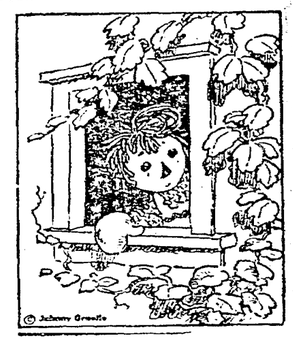

"I wouldn't go out and visit the cookie cows and pigs and chickens, if I were you, Mr. Gingerbread man!" Raggedy Ann said. "Not unless the kind Snitznoodle is along to give the Goblin a hard thump if he comes about!"

"I shall not go out to see the cookie cow unless the Snitznoodle goes with me!" the Gingerbread man replied.

Just then Raggedy Ann looked out of the window. "Oh, look!" she cried, "Hookie the Goblin is taking all the cookie chickens! He has filled a large sack with them. I just saw him put the last one in!"

"I shall catch him and give him a hard thump!" the Snitznoodle cried as he ran out of the door. "It is wrong for the Goblin to take Mrs. Cookie's nice cookie chickens!"

Hookie the Goblin saw the Snitznoodle run out of the door, for he had been watching to see if the squawks of the cookie chickens would be heard by the folks in the Cookie house. So, when he saw the kind, brave Snitznoodle coming out, Hookie threw the sack over his shoulder and ran as fast as he could and the Snitznoodle ran after him.

Over logs and through bushes they ran, but although the Snitznoodle could run very fast, the Goblin easily kept ahead of him until he came to a queer house, then into the house he ran, banging the door behind him. It was the strangest house one could imagine. There was one room downstairs and three rooms, one above the other on top of the first room.

The Snitznoodl had no idea who owned the house, so he thumped upon the door as hard as he could.

"Who is it?" the Goblin asked.

"It's me, the Snitznoodle, and I want you to open the door!"

"I knew it was you all the time," the Goblin replied. "But I wanted to see if you would pretend it was someone else!"

"If you do not open the door, I shall thump it so hard I will break it open!" the Snitznoodle cried.

"Ha, ha! You can't thump a open, because it is iron!" the Goblin laughed.

"Then I shall wait for you at the door!" the Snitznoodle said as he sat down on the step, "for you will have to come out some time, and when you do, my but I'll give you a hard thump!"

"Then I shall not come out!" the Goblin replied, and the Snitznoodle could hear him going upstairs.

CHIEF OF LEGION FIGHTS COOLIDGE STAND ON BONUS

National Commander Writes Letter to Congressman Outlining Issue.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 11.—John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, took issue with President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in a letter today to congressmen on tax reduction and adjusted compensation.

Quinn declared both can be enacted at the same time.

"Since Mr. Mellon's tax reduction proposals, an almost concerted effort has ben made by opponents of the soldiers' measure to make it appear that tax reductions cannot be made effective when the bill becomes a law," Quinn said. "A vigorous attempt has ben made to thrust this issue upon the people, but the truth has gradually been coming to light and it is now being realized more and more that both measures may be enacted at the same time."

Payments on the British debt of $179,000,000 yearly will more than take care of the annual payments provided by the adjusted compensation proposal as shown by the treasury department's own figures, according to Quinn.

The sum of $11,105,000,000, which Great Britain has agreed to pay the United States, exceeds by almost thre times the $3,485,000,000 which the treasury actuaries estimate as the total cost of adjusted compensation, the letter states.

Four years have elapsed since members of the ways and means committee of the lower house called representatives of the American Legion to determine the viewpoint of ex-service men regarding what measure would met with the most unanimous accord among the veterans, and the adjusted compensation measure was drawn, Commander Quinn declares in his letter.

Commander Quinn cited that, while Milon, proposed a tax cut of $323,000,000 based on a surplus of receipts over expenditures for the next four or five years, the adjusted compensation would require only an average of approximately $80,000,000 annually.

"In the past," said Wing, "the city pound has laid off for two weeks to allow dog owners to take out their licenses in January, but this year we are opening the license office several weeks earlier, and hope that dog owners will have their licenses bought by January 1. If not, the poundman will probably get their dogs."

MANY NEW FACES WILL APPEAR ON TOMORROW NIGHT'S BOXING CARD AT AUDITORIUM

"WILD MAN" GOULD IS A GOOD ENTERTAINER IN SQUARED CIRCLE

Baker Being Trained Differently for His Match With Tommy Gardner at the Auditorium Tomorrow Night; Silva and Farr in Main Event.

By BOB SHAND.

"Wild Man" Gould, the Boston lightweight who meets Teddy O'Hara at the Auditorium tomorrow evening will either be a sensation or a bust. The Wild Man has a style that is peculiarly his own and it has made him famous in eastern fistic circles. He is a combination of Willie Meehan, Pickles Martin and Teddy Seidman with a few of Frankie Denny's tricks thrown in for good measure. When the Wild Man cuts loose tomorrow night it will be up to O'Hara to decide if the Gould boy shall remain here and collect a few more medals or depart for other scenes immediately. If Teddy lands that left hook in one of Gould's first jumps the curtain may fall right there but should the Wild Man be able to evade the O'Hara punches and pile up enough points to win he will be hailed as a hero by the upstairs customers. Any little four-rounder desiring the favor of the customers in the left has only to lick O'Hara. That's how well the Watts Tract entry stands with the Get-There-Early boys.

They say Gould is not particular what kind of punches he uses. The pivot and back-hand wallops are all right with him, but they may not get over very well in this town. Both are illegal. Once in a while some goofy fighter gets away with the pivot punch simply because it seems funny, and because it seldom lands, but a boy who makes a practice of using this punch and who has timed it so that it lands is taking a chance of fracturing his hand and causing serious injury to his opponent. And on top of this, it isn't boxing. However, Gould may prove wild enough without resorting to illegal tactics.

Silva Will Box and Not Rough With Farr.

Teddy Silva is working out in Alameda for his bout with Johnny Farr, and Manager Jockey Levy says his protege will not be foolish enough to slug with the little Italian this trip. Teddy learned his lesson when Farr knocked him out a few weeks ago, and this time he will be satisfied to try and outbox the De Lauer entry. Silva is by far the better boxer and the snappier hitter, but Farr is the more rugged of the two and is an aggressive little cuss.

Mack House tackles Ray Pelkey this week in what should be one of the best battles of the night. House has won his two local starts via the K. O. route in the second round, but Pelkey is far the best boy he has been called upon to meet. Ray won't have much of an advantage, as the colored boy is a big middleweight, while Ray is a little light-heavyweight.

Sammy Baker has adopted different training methods this week, and should show vast improvement when he meets Tommy Gardner. They ran the big fellow to death while training him for the Gibbons bout, and then they worked him from ten to fifteen rounds every afternoon in the gymnasium. This week he has eliminated the road work and is stepping only five rounds in the gym. His sparring partners, little fellows who meant nothing at all, have been fired, and Baker is working out on the big sandbag, where he can let his punches "go" without fear of hurting anyone. Lee Johnson has had charge of the training program for this fight, and little Lee says he can already see a big difference in the Baker boy. Harold Broom, who has steered Jimmy Duffy to many a victory, will be in Baker's corner tomorrow.

Pep Webster Is Coast Welterweight Champion.

"Pep" Webster, the Coast welterweight champion, makes his local debut in a preliminary to the Farr-Silva contest. Webster won the title when he defeated Gene Cline after Cline had received a decision over Jimmy Duffy in Stockton. If Webster makes the right kind of showing tomorrow night he will get a match with Duffy the following week. "Pep" is colored and a real tough guy in the ring.

Jack McPartland vs. Eddie Doody and Eddie Phillips vs. Cap Nelson round out the best looking card that has been offered here in a long time.

Last Night's fight results

MEMPHIS, Dec. 11.—Eddie Anderson of Chicago won a decision over Jimmie Russo of St. Louis in an eight-round bout here tonight.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Jack Renault of Canada knocked out Tom Cowler of England in the fourth round here of a scheduled 12-round fight. Cowler was in no condition to meet the youthful Canadian heavyweight. A right over the heart, followed with a blow to the solar plexus, sent Cowler down for the count.

High School Heads Quarrel About Finances

TOLEDO, Ohio, Dec. 10.—A dispute over the financial guarantee claimed by representatives of the Cedar Rapids, Ia., high school team from its game here Saturday against Scott high of Toledo, led to a clash between Coach Lee Novak of Cedar Rapids and Toledo officials. Novak, it is said, went to a hotel to meet Fred L. Siebert Jr., faculty representative, and William Kirk, graduate manager of Scott high, who were at the time discussing the guarantee with M. A. Carlsen, Cedar Rapids faculty manager.

A quarrel started between Novak and the Toledo officials and Novak, it is said, knocked Siebert off his chair. Witnesses said Siebert then drew a revolver and forced Novak out of the room, ordering the other Cedar Rapids men to remain while the house detective was called. No arrests were made.

VALLEJO, Dec. 11.—The All Vallejo football eleven is home after losing a game to the Antioch team on Sunday by a 6 to 0 score. The teams will meet again this year as both have won a game and are anxious to settle their championship dispute.

Harry Greb Is Given Beating By G. Tunney

Loser Makes Game Try in Final Rounds, But Margin Is Too Great.

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Sports who took a heavy fall on wrong way bets were clambering loudly today for the official housetops to tumble in on the two judges and the referee who gave Gene Tunney the decision over Harry Greb after a 15-round contest last night in Madison Square Garden.

Tunney retained the title as the American light-heavyweight champion on a just and meritorious decision.

Announcement of the decision was followed by a long demonstration of disapproval by a small part of the 11,000 fans who saw the bout and several tried to get into the ring to punch Joe Humphreys, the announcer. If points were awarded for holding and slapping on the back and shoulders, Greb won by a mile, but points are not scored that way.

GREB HOLDS ON.

From the third round on, when Tunney began to punish Greb with punches to the body, Greb did nothing but hold for his life.

He led with wild swings that generally bounded off Tunney's shoulders. Then he would embrace Tunney and the referee would almost have to blast him loose.

Tunney was in splendid shape. Greb was overweight. Sensing this, Tunney confined his attack to the body and he took most of the circus gymnastics out of the middleweight champion.

Tunney's work was spotty, however. He showed the effects of having been out of the ring too long. His timing was poor and his direction faulty. Had he been tuned up on a good stiff fight he might have stopped Greb any time after the fourth round.

The light-heavyweight champion had a clear margin on points.

TODD IS DEFEATED.

In the semi-final bout Roland Todd, British middleweight champion, made his American debut and lost a 10-round decision to Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, who had 10 pounds on him.

The decision was terrible. The worst that should have been given the Englishman was a draw. Todd is by far the best looking British fighter who has shown here in a long time.

Reeves and Colima Top Card at Vernon

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Bert Colima, Whittier, Cal., claimant to the Pacific coast middleweight championship, will meet Jack Reeves of Oakland, in the main event tonight at the Vernon arena. Flyweights are carded for the semi-finals as Frankie Grandetta will meet Abie Gordon, both Portland, Ore., boys.

Joe Gans to Meet Omaha Box Fighter

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 11.—Panama Joe Gans, negro welterweight, has been signed to fight Morris "Kid" Schlaifer, Omaha welterweight, in place of Warnie Smith, who had previously been substituted for Sailor Friedman of Chicago, here December 17.

THIRTY YEAR'S of FOOTBALL

By FIELDING H. YOST

VALUES OF INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS.

Boys go to college, or are sent to college by their parents, primarily to obtain a better education and to become better fitted for life, and athletics are, and should ever remain, a contributory factor to this main object of college training. This fact always has been and always will be so. However, when a program of athletics is made an end in itself a large part of the benefit ordinarily derived from it is immediately lost.

Athletics and football have always been a benefit to the participant and the training that is secured on the athletic field has been of great value to all who were fortunate enough to receive it. Many lessons that are a valuable part of a college man's preparation for life can be learned better and more easily on the athletic field than anywhere else.

FIRST LESSON TAUGHT.

The sacrifice of self to a group or institution for the attainment of a common goal is the first lesson taught by athletics. This means co-operation, team play, loyalty and service. The qualities of determination, will power, persistence and courage, both physical and moral, have never been better learned than on the athletic field.

The ability to summon all of one's forces, physical, mental and moral to work together in smooth co-ordination for the accomplishment of a given task, and the initiative necessary to direct these forces, always have been attributes very strikingly developed by athletics. Self-confidence, self-control, poise, alertness, aggressiveness—these qualities and many more are brought out by football and athletics.

It must be mentioned in this connection that not only the participants in varsity competition are benefited by football and athletics but all the students in the school.

CREATE INTEREST.

Intercollegiate athletics create and, to a large extent, maintain the interest in athletics in general, thus furnishing not only the example but also the incentive for the participation of the great number of students who play on minor teams. By examples before them all tend to hold in higher esteem the qualities of determination, service and loyalty which are fostered by athletic competition. Athletics brings the entire student body together and focuses the attention of every individual on one particular object. The inspirational value of thus feeling to be a part and parcel of so great a throng is intangible and not measureable, but is none the less real.

Those who love athletics and those who have in their hands the guiding of this very important phase of college life must be on guard to keep our great American college game of football clean from any of the influences that threaten to destroy it. The enemies of college athletics must not be furnished with any just cause for criticism.

A coach or an athletic director must never permit himself to be dwarfed into the narrow perspective of a "win-at-any-price" policy. He must keep ever before him the great purpose of athletics in our colleges and must strive always to further that purpose. This is a job requiring the best efforts of clear-headed, keenly alert, courageous men, who will take to their tasks every faculty within their power properly to prepare young men for life.

'Vin' Richards Ranked at Top On Metropolitan

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, member of the Davis cup team for the last two years, holds number one position in the Metropolitan men's tennis ranking for 1923, according to the list made public. First place among women players goes to Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former national champion.

Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, runner-up in the world's championship at Wimbledon, is ranked next to Richards. The next ten in the men's list are: Frank T. Anderson, Watson M. Washburn, George King, Hugh G. M. Kelleher, S. Howard Voshell, Percy L. Kynaston, Cedric Major, Jerome Lang, Walter Merrill Hall, and Herbert L. Bowman.

The women's ranking list includes only ten names. In order, after Mrs. Mallory, they are: Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Lilliam Scharman, Mrs. Helen G. Lockhorn, Miss Mayme MacDonald, Seattle star who holds the national clay courts title; Miss Martha Bayard, Miss Helen Hooker, Miss Edna C. Hansell, Mrs. Edward Raymond and Miss Ceres Baker.

Pancho Villa Given Decision Over Wallace

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion, won the judges' decision over Patsy Wallace of Philadelphia last night after ten comparatively slow rounds. Both men entered the ring overweight, Villa's weight being announced as 112½ pounds and that of Wallace as 116½.

The first three rounds were unusually slow, with the local boxer frequently being forced to clinch. Villa did most of the leading throughout the fight and landed almost at will. In the eighth round the champion beat Wallace to all corners of the ring, and the Philadelphian clinched several times to save himself.

Laverne Admitted To So. Conference

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Laverne college has been admitted into partial membership of the Southern California Intercollegiate conference, according to an announcement made yesterday [illegible].

Collins and Evers May Be Used in Trades

Strand Will Not Be Sold Until P. C. L. Prexy War Is Settled.

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—One of the probable developments of the whispering chorus, annually known as the major league baseball meetings, is the transfer of Eddie Collins, front rank second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, to the Washington Senators as manager and leading spirit. Another is the probability that John J. Evers, the stormy petrel of baseball, will team with Frank Chance in the control of the White Sox. Evers is almost sure of the post as coach of the Sox.

These are the only two probable developments of the day at the Congress hotel. At last reports Chance and the worthy Miller Huggins were still in conference over the possibility that Eddie Collins might become a Yankee.

COBB WANTS SHOCKER.

Huggins was naturally susceptible to the lure of Collins' name but the point was that the Sox desired pitchers and Mr. Huggins had no mind to part with the same. Ty Cobb also entertained an idea that he would like to have Collins as a member of the Detroit Tigers. Cobb, however, had little to offer beyond outfielders and the Sox are not in the market for this particular commodity.

Cobb was also said to be casting covetous eyes upon Urban Shocker of the St. Louis Browns. Here again Cobb was handicapped by the fact that he wished to talk in terms of outfielders, and the Browns had small ideas of entertaining any trades which would not deal with pitchers.

The little tempest is having an effect elsewhere than in the minds of the well known gladiators for the position. The Salt Lake City club would like to sell Paul Strand, outfielder, to the Philadelphia Athletics, but they are unable to do so until they find out who is going to be boss of the coast outfit. The deal might not be acceptable to the new president or the old one, as the case may be.

There are reports that Ty Cobb wants to take Second Baseman Jimmy Dykes from the Athletics in a trade, but you can hear almost anything if you sit still long enough. The rumor this time says that the purchase of Bishop from Baltimore yesterday by the Athletics is one step of the deal for Dykes.

BOLEY FOR SALE.

Joe Boley, Baltimore shortstop, whose sensational playing a year ago attracted great attention, has been flung gracefully in the market by the famed Jack Dunn, but he is not having the slightest difficulty in fighting off the bidders. It was made known in a roundabout way that the White Sox had been approached and offered Boley for $100,000. Frank Chance, new manager of the Sox, is slightly deaf, so no great harm was done. Harry Grabiner, secretary of the Sox, said there was small chance of a deal being made.

The American League and National League will meet again today, but small business is expected. The great powwow will be held tomorrow in the joint session.

Listeners are still sure they will hear something involving Rogers Hornsby.

Haskell Indians Not to Meet Olympic Club

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 11.—(United Press.)—Possibility of the Haskell Indians meeting the Olympic club football team of San Francisco, here on Christmas, was considered slight today with the announcement that the teams will not be permitted to play in the Los Angeles coliseum.

The Olympic club accepted the bid for the game with the provision the coliseum be the scene of the encounter. Coliseum officials, however, have determined there will be no Christmas game which might detract from the New Year's contest at Pasadena.

The Hollywood chamber of commerce supporting the contest, may obtain another gridiron and still decide to hold the event, it is said.

U. S. C.-Nebraska to Meet Next November

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—The University of Southern California football team will meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers here on Nov. 29 next year, according to an agreement between the two schools announced today.

The Trojans will play a return game at Lincoln, Nebraska, Thanksgiving day, 1925.

The decision, which will make the Nebraska game the big one of the year in U. S. C.'s schedule, will force cancellation of the scheduled contest with Montana, it was said.

So. Cal. Golfers To Have New Club

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Organization of a new golf club to be known as the La Canada Country club, with a course which promises to be the finest in southern California, was announced last night when thirty of the representative golfers of this section of the country met to effect plans for the enterprise. Included in the organizers are E. S. Armstrong, former southern California golf champion; Willie Hunter, former British amateur golf champion; Martin Leach and Dr. P. A. Moulton.

McKinley Tossers Lead at San Jose

SAN JOSE, Dec. 11.—The McKinley baseball team won the first half of the San Jose Winter league when they handed the Woodmen of the World team a 5 to 2 beating.

But five runs have been scored upon the McKinley tossers in the five games played, which is much to the credit of the hurling of Adcock and Farr.

Manager Chester Maher of the San Jose club announces his desire to meet any of the Oakland Winter League winners.

Dancing Urged as Training for Basketball Men

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Dec. 11.—Basketball is to be considered as a social activity as well as an athletic event if the words of Coach Earl Wight of the University of California are to be taken.

The California coach is out with the proclamation that dancing is one of the most useful "avocations" a basketball man can follow during the training period.

One wonders instantly whether the coming trip to Southern California over the Christmas holidays is to develop into a basketball session or one dancing festival after another. Wight is noncommital on the subject but indicated that his men might be expected to "trip the light fantastic" during their spare time.

Harry Wills Is Sincere in His Claims

Colored Heavyweight Leading Drawing Card to New York Fans.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(United Press).—To be consistent is to be as much desired and is required perhaps as much in writing sports as it is in any other line of business.

To be consistent means to say one thing and stick to it as long as it is warranted by the facts; to adhere to the popular line—"That's my story and I'll stick to it," even when the facts turn in wrong.

Harry Wills has been frequently and consistently criticised in this column. It has been said of him that he was holding out for the loser's end of a fight with Dempsey; that he had turned down more than $100,000 in business last season because he did not care to risk the loss of his prestige with any dangerous contenders, and that he had gone back until it was doubtful that he would be able to win from a good opponent where the rules against "holding and hitting" were enforced.

This last opinion still holds good. It is thought that Wills is not the fighter he once was, granting that he once was a great fighter. It is only natural that at his age he could not remain idle and out of practice and retain the peak of his form.

IS STILL CLEVER.

It is still believed that he is not as effective when he cannot hold and hit as he is when he can snake out his left hand behind the neck of his opponent and pull him into a right hand punch. As far as that goes, no boxer can be as effective when he has to stick to the rules, but Wills is more inclined to foul tactics than any other contender for the heavyweight championship.

But as to the other things said about his sincerity in seeking the heavyweight championship or in proving his claim to the first shot at Jack Dempsey, it is sincerely desired to take those things back.

It is not appropriate to say that those criticisms are retracted by the desire to do justice to Harry Wills, because it should not have to be said. Justice is the first requisite of a critic who would like to have his criticism respected. Fairness is primarily essential in anyone who desires to be manly and a good sport with it.

So, it is with pleasure, principally because Wills is too good a sport to ask it and for the reason that he is so fair-minded that he will sacrifice his own feelings to grant the right of others to their own opinion, that those previous statements are contradicted and that they are amended to state in fact that Harry Wills is willing to do anything asked of him to prove his right to meet Dempsey.

Several weeks ago a committee in charge of a Christmas benefit fund in New York was trying to arrange a card for a boxing show that would be the best attraction available.

At the close of the outdoor season when he had finally become convinced that his chance for getting into the ring with Dempsey had blown up, Wills said that he was going back to fighting and that he would take all comers.

Wills perhaps is the best card in New York against any opponent outside of the "set-up class."

The committee approached Wills and asked him if he would be willing to fight the star number on the card.

He replied that he was willing. With some doubts the committee then asked him what fighter he would be willing to take.

"Anyone," he replied.

When the names were called for him—"Firpo, Gibbons, Renault, Siki, Godfrey—" he broke in and said:

"Yes, or any other one you can think of, go get him!"

Figuring that the biggest part of their job had been accomplished, the committee set about getting one of that list of fighters who had been yelping that they were willing to take Wills—and not one of them would listen to an offer.

Wills was ready to meet any one of them. Perhaps he would have fought three of them five rounds apiece (he didn't say that), but they wouldn't listen to any kind of terms.

Firpo is in South America, and he has his own ideas about purses not in keeping with those of any committee that desires to have anything left for charity.

Gibbons has drawn the color-line. He is busy with vaudeville and he wants Dempsey again without any risks between.

Renault was forced to admit that he had no excuse other than that advanced by his manager that is not ready. His same manager, several weeks before, had invited a sport writer to go with him and watch Paddy Mullins run out when Renault was hurled at him.

"Big Ten" Will Have a Strong Basket League

Plenty of Material, Promise of Battle for Honors Being Close.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. — Strong, threatening basketball teams are being developed at most of the Big Ten conference schools this season, with prospects of another close battle for title honors. Reports received from conference universities show that material is plentiful almost everywhere.

Iowa, titleholder in 1922, with Wisconsin, has its whole winning aggregation back in competition: Chicago, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan are building quintets having strength that will threaten the Hawkeyes, however.

The Maroons, under Coach Nels Norgren, are already showing good form. Campbell Dickson, captain, is about recovered from a football injury and will be in shape for play at Forward, in company with Barnes, another football man.

In Illinois, Coach Ruby has a complete line-up of regulars, but he points out that none of the men starred last season. Captain G. E. Potter and W. N. Roettger, forwards; L. M. T. Stilwell, center, and G. C. Lipe and R. H. Popken, guards, are the letter men on the squad.

Michigan lost most of her regulars by graduation. Coach Mather is called upon to round into shape an entirely new quintet. He will have four football men on the squad—Kipke, Steger, Palmer and Herrnstein, Haggerty, leading scorer of the men left on the squad was headed by twenty other conference players last season.

Purdue and Ohio are reported to have material for fairly strong teams while Northwestern has only one old man back on the squad.

Basketball, in common with other college sports, is drawing larger crowds than ever before.

The league leading Piedmont No. 1 quintet retained their position at the top of the list in the Alameda County N. S. G. W. Bowling League last night on Eastbay alleys when they made a clean sweep from the Oakland No. 1 five at the Bowling Center slips.

The Oakland No. 2 quintet kept right on their heels by taking the entire four from the Piedmont No. 2 aggregation at the Auditorium house, Harry Watkins' boys remaining one point behind the leaders.

Commodore Macabee's Athens rollers worked their way one notch higher in the percentage column, going into a tie with Brooklyn for third place by taking three out of four from the Halcyon five on the Bowling Center alleys.

The surprise of the night was furnished in Alameda where the tailenders made an unexpected clean sweep from Fruitvale. Claremont also furnished a surprise by taking three out of four from the Brooklyn team, which appears to be on the downgrade after having been one of the teams setting the pace nearly all of the first half of the season.

McCaw of Piedmont No. 1 provided the best shooting of the night with a series of 643, the Piedmont ace hitting 242 in his final game.

"Buck" Nesbitt of Brooklyn registered high single game for the night with 243.

ST. MARY'S BASKETBALL PROSPECTS REPORTED BRIGHT

SEVERAL GOOD RESERVES NEEDED TO MAKE CARDINAL QUINTET A SERIOUS CONTENDER

COACH MADIGAN HAS FOUR VETERANS FROM LAST SEASON'S TEAM

Local Collegians Preparing for Hard Year on Courts; Opening Game Scheduled for Jan. 12; Complete Schedule Is to Be Settled Shortly.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

Starting training yesterday with a nucleus of four veterans from the quintet of last season the St. Mary's basketball team is now strenuously preparing for the coming hoop season under the supervision of Coach "Slip" Madigan.

Prospects for a successful season may be said to be excellent, and the Saints will take on a tough schedule of games immediately after the first of the year, lasting through January and February.

As was the case in football, winning from Santa Clara is the objective toward which the Saints will be pointed, all else becoming incidental and of secondary importance, although St. Mary's would not object to winning from California, Nevada and the others on the list.

The complete schedule has not been arranged, Graduate Manager LeFevre still negotiating for several games on the early season list while definite dates for the games with the University of Nevada and St. Ignatius college to be played here have not been assigned. To date St. Mary's has no place on the Stanford schedule and it is feared that the Cardinals have no available date on which it will be possible for Madigan's men to meet them.

Madigan Counting on Speedy Team.

Madigan is counting on speed to carry his present team through to a championship of the small colleges and to enable them to make a good showing against the larger institutions.

Defensively the Saints are as strong as any team in these parts with two veteran guards from last year and a capable center who played a steady defensive game last year.

Conlan will again hold down the standing guard position while Paynter will be back at his old station at running guard. Lorigan, of football fame, will be at the same position he held down on the grid eleven—center.

Only one forward position is settled, Lawless, a veteran of last season, being an outstanding star at looping baskets and it is almost a certainty that he will be a fixture from the opening of the season.

"Ducky" Grant, another football man, will be out for a guard position. Grant, while not as much of a star at basketball as in football, is nevertheless a capable man at running guard and will keep Paynter on his toes to hold down his berth. Grant was a substitute on the team in 1922-23.

Squad Working Out at College.

A squad of sixteen men are working out daily under Madigan, who is particularly anxious to get a line on the newcomers before he is required to make a cut in the squad shortly after the first of the year.

Several men from the Prep team of last year are showing to good advantage, of whom Underhill, who was one of the halfbacks on Madigan's eleven, is said to be a most promising candidate for a forward or center job. Not only is Underhill fast but is a good dribbler and a good shot.

Walter Hungerford is a rangy chap who looks like a good prospect at center.

Kelly and Crowley, two of last year's Prep team, are out for guard positions, thus giving Madigan more capable substitutes than at any time since he came to St. Mary's.

King and A. Farrell are two likely forward candidates. King played on the football squad and has weight while Farrell, the brother of the football player, is also doing nicely. Kane is a newcomer out for guard who is figured to stick on the squad throughout the season.

Will Open Season With Oakland K. C.

St. Mary's will open the season against the Oakland K. C. quintet on January 12 on the St. Mary's court. Several other games will be scheduled in January, the local college court in order to prepare the Saints for the collegiate schedule.

Two games will be played at Reno against the University of Nevada on January 18 and 19, with Nevada meeting St. Mary's on the Y. M. I. court in San Francisco when Nevada comes to the coast the last part of January and the first of February. The exact date has not been agreed upon. The Sagehens meet California at Berkeley on January 28 and 29 so the St. Mary's game will likely be played either January 26 or January 30.

The Saints will return from Nevada on January 20 and play the University of California January 22. According to the California Graduate Manager's office the game will be played in the Oakland Auditorium but Coach Earl Wight said today that the game might be shifted to Harmon Gym.

A three game series will be played with Santa Clara, the first game at San Jose and the next two on the Y. M. I. court in San Francisco, dates remaining to be agreed upon.

Soccer to Serve As a Binding Tie

MAYENCE, Germany, Dec. 10.—"We are glad to meet you in sport and forget politics," was the greeting of the Captain of a German Association football club in introducing ten other members of his team to the captain of a team composed of French civilians stationed here when today for the first time since 1914 German and French athletes met in competition.

"Sport makes brothers of us all," responded the captain of the French players and the members of both teams warmly shook hands.

Michigan Will Lose Stars of Present Eleven

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 11.—Of the twenty-one men to receive their Varsity M's at Michigan, seven will be missing from the ranks next fall. Captain Kipe, halfback; Blott, center, Uteritz; quarterback; Muirhead, tackle; Van Dervoort, tackle; curran, end, and Neisch, end, will be counted among those missing when the call is made next September.

With the passing of these men Michigan loses one of the best halfbacks, one of the best centers one of the best quarterbacks, and one of the best tackles she has ever had. Kipe, Blott, Uteritz and Muirhead compose a quartet of footballers that no team in America can match. Each is supreme in his own department. The other three men, though less spectacular than the quartet above, have given their all to Michigan for three years. They have never been found wanting and their absence will be sorely felt next year. Too much cannot be said of Muirhead. In three years he has never missed a minute of play in conference competition. He has started and finished every conference game during his career and has played in only one losing game in that time. That was his first.

In his last game against Minnesota, November 24, Muirhead was everywhere. He made three-fourths of the tackles under punts, and was always on the ball. A check was made during the game of Muirhead's tackles. No less than twenty-two times did this stalwart tackle bring down his man. He was a veritable demon on the field. He could not be stopped. If there is a greater tackle in the country than Muirhead of Michigan he has not yet been seen.

Dempsey Spar Will Go As Scheduled

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 11.—The Supreme court of Missouri yesterday unanimously denied the application of Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett for a writ of prohibition against Judge E. Frank Landwehr of the St. Louis Circuit court to prevent him from enforcing a temporary injunction issued against the police department of this city last Saturday to prevent interference with a "sparring match" between Jack Dempsey and his sparring partner, scheduled for the night of December 11.

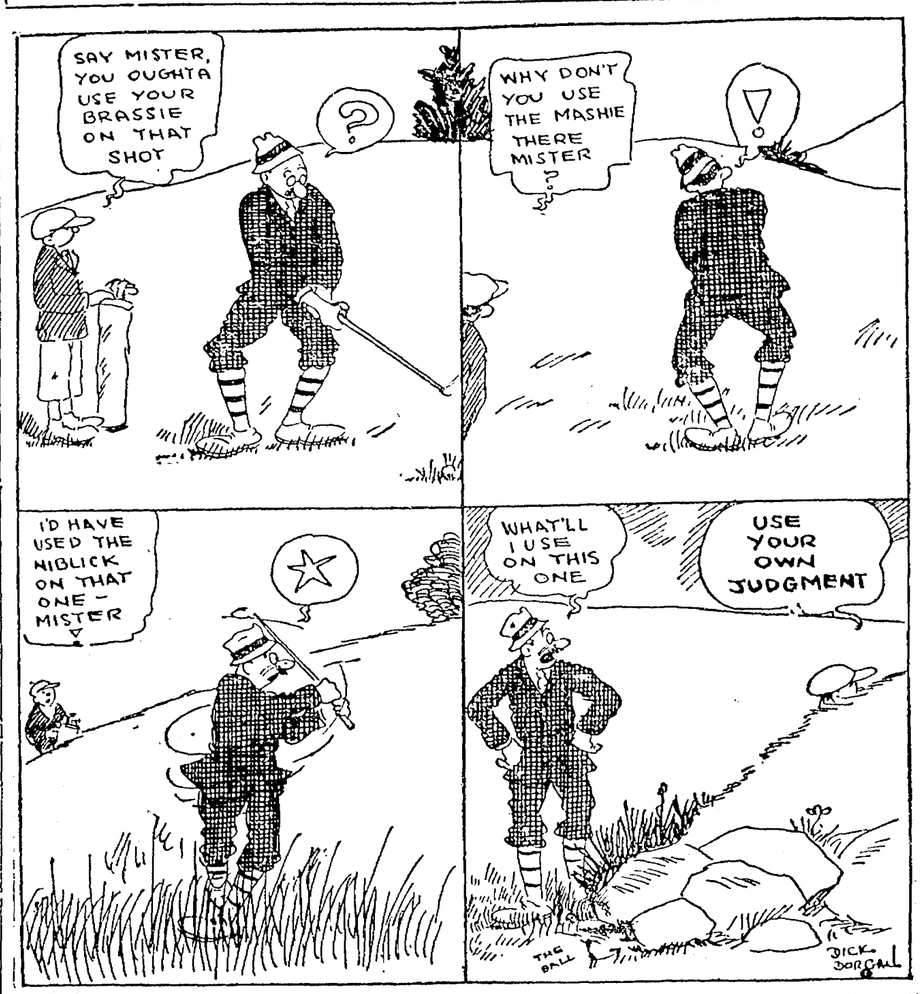

New Haven Club Owner Is Injured

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 11.—George Weiss, president of the New Haven baseball club of the Eastern league, was reported to be in a "critical condition" at the Erie hospital from injuries received in the wreck of the Twentieth Century Limited yesterday at Forsythe, N. Y., near here. Mr. Weiss suffered an injury to his back from which complications had developed, hospital officials declared.

Jack Dempsey Will Not Battle Indoors

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, arrived last night to discuss theatrical offers. Dempsey, who will arrive Thursday, will not fight this winter indoors but plans an active campaign when a big arena can be opened outdoors, he said.

Oregon Aggies Planning Trip To California

CORVALLIS, Ore., Dec. 11.—Intensive training has been started by R. H. Hagar, varsity basketball coach, in preparation for the southern invasion. The squad, composed of eight men, and the coach will leave for the Golden State within three weeks.

At present the squad is composed of sixteen men. This small number gives the coach more time to devote to the individual and to bring out strong combinations that would be impossible with a larger number of players. The strong point of the Aggies playing on the inside court, since "Bob" has had the varsity loopers, has been the famed five man defense. Numerous other coast mentors have attempted to develop this system but have not achieved the same success.

"Mush" Hjelte, former Orange and Black star and winner of all-coast honors, was the backbone of the former near championship quintets and his absence will be the blow the team will have to stand.

"Slats" Gill, two year letter man, is one of the best bets for a berth on the team.

Napa Eleven Wins From Eureka Legion

EUREKA, Dec. 11.—On a heavy field which seemed to worry the warriors on both sides during the first part of the game, the Napa Legion gridders handed the Eureka Legion eleven the short end of a 12 to 6 score Sunday.

Both teams played good ball with Coffield and Wright distinguishing themselves for the visitors. Timmerman in the Backfield and Tony Massei as tackle played the best ball for the locals. Anderson who made the only touchdown for the Eureka eleven received a number of difficult passes, and also proved strong in bucking the line.

BASKETBALL.

The Trojan club of East Oakland defeated the First Christian church basketball quintet by a score of 40 to 20 in a practice game on the court of the First Christian church team.

The Trojans are in the field for games with any unlimited team of the bay region.

Roy Windle is managing the club and may be reached at Merritt 5031. The team would prefer to play Thursday or Friday nights.

Strater Will Captain Saints During 1924

NORMAN STRATER will be the captain of the 1924 varsity football team at St. Mary's College. At a banquet held in San Francisco last night, Strater, who is fullback and a second-year man on the local college team, was elected to the position. He is a Modesto boy and starred on the gridiron for both Modesto high school and St. Mary's College.

Marchbank Arrives At Tijuana Meeting

TIJUANA, Mex., Dec. 11.—J. W. Marchbank, well-known California breeder, has arrived with his family and they will pass the entire winter here. The Marchbank string is a formidable one, including Snooksie Bradley, the clever runner who took the measure of A. B. Spreckels' Runclar in the match race at the Tanforan meeting.

The arrival of Marchbank gives the tip that match races here will soon be proposed, for Spreckels will arrive here December 15 for the winter. He will race a big string, including the mighty Runstar. It is said that Spreckels will ask for another match race and that Marchbank will readily agree.

BEGAN EARLY.

Walker Cochran, 27 years old, who recently played a tie with Willie Hoppe for the 18.2 balkline billiard championship of the world in New York City, began playing billiards when he was 16 years old and became a pupil of Lansing Perkins, who tutored Calvin Demarest, a former world's champion. He operates a billiard academy in Hollywood, and has 21 tables.

SEND SMALL TEAM.

Because of the earthquake Japan will send only 10 athletes to next year's Olympic games instead of 30, as originally intended.

Bruin Rifle Team Wins in Two Contests

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Dec. 11.—The University of California rifle team has started their strenuous season earlier than usual, having already participated in two matches successfully during the fall semester, just closing. Ordinarily the Bruin marksmen do nothing during the fall in the line of competition, but this season, due to the success of last year, when the Bruins walked off with eleven out of the fourteen matches in which they shot, the Bears are off to an early start.

The first match of this season found California successful in a telegraphic shoot against the riflemen of the University of Maine. California won this phone match with ease, scoring 497 against the 493 registered by the Maine marksmen.

Last week the Bruins engaged in their second shoot, against the University of Washington, defeating the Huskies by a score of 922 to 920.

L. Soo-Hoo and R. Malmsten were the mainstays of the Bruin team this semester, but will be lost to the Bears after Christmas. Renkema, Meigs and T. Soo-Hoo are expected to be leading lights in the regular shoots next semester.

WINS MATCH.

VALLEJO, Dec. 11.—Attorney R. F. O'Hara won the golf match at the Vallejo Country club on Sunday. Mrs. Ruth Tobey won the women's prize.

MANY LEAGUES.

During the past summer there were 33 leagues in the United States playing baseball.

Andy Kerr Is Hard Pressed For Reserves

Ernie Nevers Is Slated to Fill Vacancy Left by "Lefty" Rogers.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 11.—With three regulars gone from his 1923 basketball five, Coach Andy Kerr has no such easy task cut out for him as recent reports would have the public believe. Stanford basketball this year is perhaps on the upgrade, but by no means at the top. Captain "Nip" McHose is back at forward, Guerdon Steele, substitute center, is still with the squad, and Dave Oliva, standing guard, is expected to retain his old place.

But Bob Janssen married, and is out of college, ex-Captain Lefty Rogers in advanced medical work, and Fred Anderson ineligible, makes Kerr's problem a tough one.

DEPEND ON NEVERS.

Big Ernie Nevers, star in four sports, will be able to fill Rogers' place well enough, while Steele is expected to go well for Janssen at center. But since Hoffman, star running guard of the freshman team two years ago, dislocated his knee in practice last week, this will be a weak position on the Cardinal squad.

Hoffman was expected to beat Anderson out last year but he injured the same knee early in the season and was forced to take to the bench. His second injury is likely to keep him out of basketball for the remainder of his career at Stanford.

Even were Hoffman in his best shape, Kerr's problem would be none too easy. Basketball is like any other fast game in that it requires strong reserves. Here Kerr is as weak as water. True, he has Scotchy Campbell as reserve for Oliva, but the Card grid skipper is too short. He has Harry Shipkey for running guard, but he is too heavy and is easily winded. There is no material available from last year's freshman team except Nevers, who was the whole team in himself. The Card mentor would probably feel considerably relieved if Al Hooper, who made his letter at running guard last year, should return to college.

There are, of course, three or four new men on the floor who at present seem to be of varsity caliber. Among these are Mooney at center and McBurney at forward. They are at present holding their own with Steele and Nevers, but early practice appearances are deceitful.

Stanford's basketball trouble this season is likely to be the same as that of last year—overwork. A shortage of reserves forced the regulars into stringent training and into a series of games too hard for them to cover well and as a result they tapered off with three defeats in a row at the end after a wonderful preliminary season. The 1924 schedule, arranged much like that of last year, is likely to put the Cards in a tight place once again. It seems that unless Andy Kerr can develop an entire fresh string of reserves within the next few weeks that he will be forced once more to play a losing role.

His hope for salvation lies in the rapidity of the development of Campbell, Shipkey, Mooney and McBurney and the ability of Nevers as a varsity forward.

ST. VINCENT TEAMS WIN.

VALLEJO, Dec. 11.—The St. Vincent 130 and 110-pound basketball teams defeated the quints from St. Agnes' academy of Stockton here Sunday afternoon. The 130-pound team won by a score of 29 to 14. The 110-pound team won by a score of 29 to 10.

"Y" CAGERS LOSE.

VALLEJO, Dec. 11.—The Y. M. C. A. basketball five lost to the Ellery Alms five of San Francisco on Saturday night by a score of 31 to 22. The Vallejo High five won its game with the U. S. S. Beaver quint by a score of 46 to 5.

Jim Jeffries To Be Trainer For Luis Firpo

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 11.—James Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world, has accepted a proposition to train Louis Angel Firpo, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," Jeffries told a representative of the Bakersfield Morning Echo at Taft. The former champion refereed a boxing card at the West Side city this evening. Jeffries' contract to train Firpo is reported to call for a remuneration in the neighborhood of $75,000.

Jeffries is quoted as declaring Firpo will be a "wonder" when he has learned to use both hands.

Charlie Erb's Team Beats Chico Legion

CHICO, Dec. 11.—The Woodland American Legion football team, headed by Captain Charley Erb, and outweighing the Chico Legion almost 15 pounds to the man, pounded its way to a 6 to 0 victory. The two turf fields in the city had been denied to the Legionnaires because of the objection of the school and city authorities to Sunday football, and the game was played on the slow and freshly harrowed field near the city park. Coached by Luther Clements, former Carlisle star, the Chico Legion players had perfected a strong defense which was nearly impregnable to the heavy Woodland backs, led by the doughty Slater, playing quarter back.

All Is O. K. for East vs. West Game

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Complete accord between University of Washington and United States naval academy authorities for the conduct of the East-West gridiron battle at Pasadena New Year's Day, had been reached today following an eight-hour conference here in which all interested parties participated.

Les Henry, representing the Tournament of Roses committee, turned over the arrangements for the battle to the school authorities in accordance with the ruling of the Pacific coast conference and then remained to give his aid and assistance in planning arrangements for the big contest.

NOTRE DAME FIVE WINS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 11.—Notre Dame evened up the two-game series with the University of Minnesota when they won a hard-fought contest from the Gopher basketball team, 16 to 14.

Pacific Coast Elevens Make Good Showing

East Wakes Up to the Fact That Far West Has Considerable Class.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Considering the fact that collegiate football on the west coast is still in its adolescence, the far west can look back on its intersectional record against the east, middle west and south with pardonable tranquility. Its record since the intersectional idea was first introduced in 1899 is seven victories, twelve defeats and two ties, and it is no Masonic secret that many of its defenders were not always representative outfits.

Only when such teams as California, Oregon Aggies, Southern California, Washington State and Oregon were involved was the coast showing its best hand.

BEAT OHIO STATE.

In those instances a coast victory was usually the result. California scoring a cataclysmic decision, 28 to 0, over Ohio State, featuring Harley and Stinchcomb, in 1921; Washington State beating Brown in 1916; Oregon outscoring Pennsylvania the following year, and Southern California getting the verdict over Penn State last season.

California, perforce, has been the foundation rock against which the invaders have been torn and scattered. In the first East-West game in 1899 the Bears finished second to the Carlisle Indians by the mere margin of a safety. They did not return "to the races" again until 1921, when they ran amuck through Ohio State. The following year they played a scoreless tie with a great Washington and Jefferson team.

WASHINGTON WINS.

Washington State has also shown a fair record with victories over St. Louis University in 1907 and Brown in 1916, and Oregon, after beating Pennsylvania in 1916, lost to Harvard in 1920 by the margin of a single point. The Oregon Aggies got away auspiciously in 1915 by scoring a 20 to 0 decision over Michigan Aggies, but later in the same season lost to Syracuse and the following year were beaten by Nebraska.

Stanford's performances were even less impressive, the Palo Alto school losing in 1902 to Michigan by 49 to 0, the largest total compiled since the start of the intersectional series, and being beaten by Pittsburgh last year.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SLEUTH ATTACKS GRANT ALIBI FOR NIGHT OF MURDER

Gloy Slayer Suspect Accused of Saying He Was Too Drunk to Know.

The alibi offered by Frank H. Grant that he was driving with friends in San Francisco at the time Henry T. Gloy was murdered in Oakland formed the center of the prosecution's attack today in Grant's trial for thealleged slaying of Gloy.

Police Inspector "Bodie" Wallman testified that Thomas Noones and Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. McGuire had all made statements denying that they were driving with Grant in San Francisco on the Sunday afternoon and evening of September 30, when the murder of Gloy occurred.

They also, he declared, had denied any knowledge of the alleged fight between Grant and another motorist in which Grant claimed to have received the wound on his chin which, the prosecution is seeking to provte, was received at or near the scene of the Gloy murder.

ConCfronted with these denials, Wallman said, Grant had replied:

"I don't know. I was too drunk to remember who were with me."

Wallman also said that Mr. and Mrs. McGuire had contradicted Grant's assertion that he was not in Oakland on that Sunday, by declaring that he had come to their home on Hopkins street Sunday evening, with his chin bleeding, and that they had called a taxi and had taken hi mto the Park Emergency hospital in San Francisco for treatment.

"I don't know—I was too drunk to remember," was Grant's reply when told what the McGuires had said, Wallman declared.

POLICE SEEKING HOSPITAL AIDES

REDWOOD CITY, Dec. 11. — Reports of the alleged beating of two ex-service men, patients at the Palo Alto hospital, were followed by issuing of warrants for the arrest of William de Baers and Claude Korzine, former attendants at the hospital. The warrants were issued as a result of an investigation being conducted by the American Legion.

The two discharged hospital attendants are said to have kicked and beaten William T. Jenkerson and Benjamin J. Dorman. They were discharged when complaints against their conduct were brought to the attention of hospital authorities.

According to R. H. Hauck, commander of Fremont Post No. 53, American Legion, of Palo Alto, the two service men were beaten by the attendants when they refused to comply with an order.

HIGGINS ANSWERS WIFE'S CHARGES

Dr. Rufus M. Higgins former city health officer, today filed an answer and cross-complaint to the divorce suit recently filed by his wife, Mrs. Margaret E. Higgins.

In the cross-complaint Mrs. Higgins is accused of being a woman of ungovernable temper who would throw playing cards at her husband and hostesses during a card game and who invaded his offices to beat, kick and revile him before patients.

As an example of Mrs. Higgins' temper, Dr. Higgins charges that on July 1, 1915, when Mayor John L. Davie was inaugurated, his wife became enraged at the length of the ceremonies. While they were on a train bound for San Francisco after the inauguration, he claims, Mrs. Higgins pursued him to the platform of the car and while upraiding him was thrown from the platform by a jolt of the train and received a fractured hip.

Fox, Fish, Bird Go On Bat and Lark Ends in $6 Fines

"What are these men charged with?" questioned Police Judge Tyrrell this morning when three sad-eyed men were brought before him.

"Drunk, sir," replied the clerk.

"Who are they," said the Court.

"Fox, Fish and Bird," intoned the clerk.

"Strangest bedfellows I ever saw," mused Judge Tyrrell. What have they to say for themselves?"

"It was this way," said Fox, "I just thought I'd have a little drink on the sly—"

"I went out on a bat," said Bird, "and when—"

"A friend offered me a drink, and to uphold my reputation I couldn't refuse," said Fish.

"Perhaps it was only a lark, after all," said Judge Tyrrell, but I'm game too, and it will cost you $6 each."

Edward Fox, John Fish and Edward Bird pair their fines and went their several ways.

ARBITRATORS OF BASEBALL WORK ON LEAGUE ROW

Presidential Fight Among Coast Magnates Before Ball Tribunal.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. — The arbitration board announced it will reconvene at 4 p. m. today in an attempt to reach an agreement on the McCarthy-Williams case.

By JAMES T. KOLBERT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Worn out by almost 15 hours of continuous conferences, the national board of arbitration of professional baseball leagues adjourned at 4 o'clock this morning without announcing a decision in the dispute between William McCarthy and Harry Williams over the presidency of the Pacific Coast league.

J. H. Farrell, secretary of the board, said that the body would resume discussions around noon. A decision may be handed down late today or tonight, he said.

While the conference room was sealed and inquisitive persons were shooed from the doors, it was manifest that an extremely bitter fight was on.

The board went into session early in the afternoon on Monday and the McCarthy-Williams case was called almost immediately. Summed up, McCarthy contended that the vote ousting him and seating Williams was illegal. Williams argued the vote was legal in every respect.

Six lawyers represented the contestants, and final arguments in the case were not concluded until after midnight. The board conferred until 4 o'clock and decided to sleep on the matter.

Under the so far placid surface of the major league waters a battle is brewing that may erupt with a crash tomorrow. The case of Urban Shocker of St. Louis contains the dynamite. Phil Ball, president of the club, announced that he would keep Shocker, in the face of the latter's demand to be made a free agent. Shocker has applied to Commissioner Landis for a ruling to free him from St. Louis.

Shocker argues that the club nullified his contract by inflicting an unjustified penalty on him—slapping a suspension on him because he insisted on having Mrs. Shocker accompany him east.

If Landis rules with Shocker, the explosion may follow. Baseball sharks hold that Landis cannot do otherwise under the circumstances.

FLIRT OF 3 CONTINENTS LOSES MATE

H. F. Loney, 'Goldfish King,' Wins Divorce; Earl Named As Co-respondent; Mooney Marital Battle Is Recalled

Victory for "The Goldfish King" over "The International Flirt" today marked the outcome of one of the most sensational divorce battles in the history of the Bay region.

Henry N. Loney, wealthy Java goldfish importer, holds a superior court decree granting him a divorce from Mrs. Estelle Seidner Loney, San Francisco and Eastbay society matron, whom he charged with flirting on three continents. The decree gives him custody of their 15-year-old son.

The trial of the suit involved socially prominent persons on both sides of the bay and in Europe and Asia, and drew widespread attention to Superior Judge Griffin's court for several months past.

EARL NAMED IN SUIT.

Loney's victory came as a result of a counter-attack on his part against a divorce suit started by his wife, charging him with penuriousness and cruelty. He replied with a cross-complaint naming a large number of co-respondents, including the Earl of Yarmouth, Thomas V. Ambrose, Berkeley engineer, Bud Rosenberg, San Francisco advertising man, and others. The decree was granted on Loney's cross-complaint.

The break between the couple was presaged at their wedding in 1907. Mrs. Loney, according to her husband's complaint, joked about marriage immediately following the ceremony, and declared that divorce was inevitable, until she was rebuked by the minister.

The Loney divorce case was closely linked with that of W. S. Mooney, reputed heir to a $7,000,000 estate, and Mrs. Mooney, which took place in Oakland last spring and ended with a victory for Mrs. Marion Curtis Mooney, former U. C. co-ed and Claremont society girl. Mrs. Mooney accused her husband of having kissed Mrs. Loney while the two families were living at the Claremont Hotel. Mooney admitted it, but said the kisses were brotherly. Loney, in his divorce suit, repeated these allegations.

The rift in the Loneys' romance started soon after their wedding, according to testimony. While they were in Paris on their honeymoon, Loney said, his wife received "mash" notes from men and flirted with strange men on the streets.

NUMEROUS FLIRTATIONS.

On the steamer to Singapore, where Loney's business was located, his wife entered into a flirtation with the young Earl of Yarmouth, he said, and held numerous tete-a-tetes on deck with him at night.

In 1913, they visited Withington, England, where his wife, Loney said, lavishly entertained students and, after he had left her alone there to return to his business in Java, continued to entertain young men in her apartments until late into the night.

In Java, in 1914, she made her home a rendezvous for young American bachelors, he declared, and gave them liquor parties, until her name, he said, "was bandied about in clubs over clopping wine glasses."

In the fall of 1917 the Loneys took up their residence at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley. While living there and later in San Francisco, Loney said, his wife received attentions from Ambrose, and Rosenberg. A deposition by Mrs. Etta M. Young, proprietor of the Idlewild Inn at Alma, was introduced at the trial, to the effect that Mrs. Loney and Rosenberg had registered at the Inn as Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg, and had spent the night there.

Pruning Lecture Held at Bayview

HAYWARD, Dec. 11.—A field day demonstration on the proper methods of pruning fruit trees preparatory to the spring and summer yields was held today in the Bayview district by Joseph B. Hammon, assistant farm adviser here.

The program opened at 10 o'clock this morning with a demonstration on young tree pruning, conducted at the orchard of A. Talbot on Fairview avenue, followed by instruction on rejuvenating old trees at the property of J. Heckman, also on Fairview avenue.

The demonstrations were continued at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with practical pruning of peach trees displayed by Hammon at Captain A. Arnold's orchard and concluded with apricot and pear tree pruning instruction at the property of C. Sorensen, at Kelly Hill.

Today's demonstrations were a continuation of a series of such instructive sessions through which it is hoped the orchardists of Alameda county will be impressed with the value of early and scientific pruning methods, according to Hammon.

Pedestrian Robbed By Woman Bandit

A woman bandit last night robbed Harry Shell, 823 Washington street, of $82. The woman stopped him on Harrison street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, and inquired the way to Berkeley, Shell told the police. He says he directed her and, as he was turning away, he felt something pressing against his ribs that he believed to be a revolver. At the woman's command he handed over his wallet, containing $82 in currency. The woman then disappeared in the darkness. Shell said she appeared to be about 30 years old, about 5 feet 4 inches in height, and wore a black hat and dark dress.

Supervisors Favor Vote in May on New Courthouse

In the belief that a majority of the people in Alameda county are strongly in favor of acquiring a new site for construction of a modern and adequate court house and hall of records, two supervisors definitely placed themselves on record today as in favor of placing the issue before the people at the presidential primary in May. A third supervisor took a similar attitude with certain conditions.

Those definitely favoring action are William J. Hamilton, chairman of the board of supervisors, and John F. Mullins, senior member of the board. Supervisor Redmond C. Staats made reservations.

The statements by the supervisors were in reply to a recommendation by the grand jury in its report issued yesterday, that the supervisors take steps to acquire a new site for county buildings.

"I am in favor of submitting the issue to the people at the primary in May," said Mullins. "It is generally recognized that the present buildings are woefully out of date, inadequate and a disgrace to such a prosperous county as this. I am against constructing buildings on the present site, as the location is inconvenient and in the wrong part of the city. I believe the supervisors cold take tentative options on proposed sites in the heart of Oakland and then submit these sites to the people to select their choice or refuse them all if they see fit."

"If the people are thoroughly aroused to the crying need for new county buildings I am certainly in favor of submitting the proposition for a vote," said Hamilton. "It is certain that the present buildings are inadequate, obsolete and a disgrace to the county.

"The question is up to the people. For that reason I would like to see an expression of public sentiment by civic bodies and individuals before taking the initiative step. The need is not a matter of dispute, Staats said.

In recommending action at this time, the grand jury pointed out that property values were steadily on the increase and that longer delay would only mean a greater cost to the people in the future.

Local Legion Post Names New Chief

William Foss was chosen commander of Oakland Post No. 5, American Legion, at the annual election of the post held yesterday. Walter Frickstad Sr. was named senior vice-commander and Irving Hezeltine junior vice-commander.

Anson Purchase was elected adjutant and R. M. Whaley sergeant-at-arms. Dr. R. I. Newell and Elmer Zollner were chosen to fill the vacancies on the executive committee.

RANCH HAND JAILED FOR GEM THEFT

Within twenty-four hours after report of the burglary, Joe Furtado, 19, a ranch hand of Irvington, was taken into custody in San Francisco for the theft of jewelry valued at $1500 from the home of W. C. Peters, in Irvington, Deputy Sheriffs Joseph Soares and Jack Collier revealed today.

The jewelry, which included a ring, set with fourteen diamonds, and two other diamond rings besides a topaz ring and a string of pearls was the property of Mrs. Percy Robinson of Mendota, daughter of Peters, who was visiting at his home. The back door was inadvertently left unlocked and the jewelry was taken Sunday evening while the family were upstairs. Through clues secured by Soares and Collier, Furtado was traced to San Francisco, where it was found he had pawned the ring with fourteen diamonds, valued at about $600, for $5, it is alleged. Furtado was then taken into custody of Detective George Hipply of San Francisco. The other gems were found in his possession, it is claimed.

CHATTER of the MAKE-BELIEVERS

HOLLYWOOD, December 11. — Well, folks, we happened to meet up with Richard Dix over on the Lasky lot the other day, getting his shoes shined by Oscar, the demon shine artist, and Rich was all down in the mouth and unhappy and everything like that.

It seems like he had just been told to go home and pack up his suitcase and catch a rattler for New York to work for William De Mille, whose next picture is going to be made there. And Rich didn't like it. Not at all, nor any. He already had a bad cold, and was sniffling around, and he was dead sure that when he got to New York he was going to have the Spanish influenza at least, and probably double pneumonia, which was certainly a cheerful thought. But by this time he's probably on his way.

Rich was saying that he hasn't been east since he went into the movies about three years ago, except one day on his way to Europe and one day on the way back, and he said that was plenty. And he was kind of remembering the day when he landed in Hollywood and thought it was heaven. He was dead broke, his best suit was in pawn and so were his cuff links and everything else valuable. New York hadn't been kind to him.

But he said that when he got back to New York he thought maybe he'd go back down to the cheap little lodging house where he lived before he came to Hollywood just for a thrill. And then he got to thinking that all his expenses would be paid, and on second thought he decided to stay at the Ritz.

One time, a long while ago, Rich worked for a spell with William Faversham, and he told us about the time that Faversham was breaking out a new play.

It was a play that had a lot of supers in it, carrying spears and things around, and they were supposed to be massed around Faversham while he made a terrific oration that was the big moment of the piece. So one night they opened the piece on Broadway.

Well, the moment came for Faversham's big speech, and he stalked out of the wings, and all the supers came out carrying their spears and whatnots, and Faversham started to orate in his heavy voice. He was getting all worked up and dramatic when all at once he heard a titter down in the audience, and then more titters and he got all fussed up and wondered if he had his clothes on right, and tried to go on with his speech, but the laughter was drowning him out. So he turned to look at the supers, and there they were, scattered all over the stage and milling around like a bunch of sheep. And with his speech cold forever, and the house laughing its heads off, the captain of the supers came clanking up to Faversham and bellowed:

"Say, what the blazes do we do next?"

After which they rang down the curtain.

While Rich was telling this story Bill Hart came along and stopped to pass the time of day and this and that, and listen. And Rich asked Bill whether it was true, that story that Faversham told about Bill, and Bill kind of looked sheepish and said yes, it was, and told it.

It seems like they were getting ready to open "The Squaw Man" in the spring of 1905, and they took it out for three weeks to try it on the dog, as the saying is, and one night they opened in London, Ontario. The big scene, you might remember, was where Faversham was going to kill Bill, and when he's getting ready to kill him the squaw, shooting from the wings, kills Bill herself. A property man always fired the gun in the wings, but this night he loaded a center fire revolver with rim-fire cartridges. So the big moment came and Faversham spoke the cue for the gun, and Bill stood there waiting to get killed, and they heard the gun go click-click-click, back in the wings, but no shot. So they waited a long time.

And finally Bill whispered to William, "Come on, let's fight!" and they started fighting around, and Bill said, "Have you got a knife?" and William whispered "No! Nothing!" And finally a cowboy back in the wings clapped his hands and yelled "Boom!" and Bill too kthat for his cue and fell over dead, and then some of the other actors came running out, as they were supposed to do, and William stood up and majestically announced:

"I've struck him, but I think he'll live," and they rang down the curtain.

Reginald Denny will be out of all his various assorted plain and fancy plaster casts in a few days now, and along about te first of the year he hopes to be able to go up to Big Bear lake and shoot a few ducks. It's been tough for Reggy, lying in bed with a lot of plaster around him, while the ducks have been quacking south in swarms all fall.

They took one of Reggy's casts off just a little before Thanksgiving and on Thanksgiving day there were some big automobile races out here to which most everybody went, and Reggy kept worrying and worrying because he couldn't go. And on Thanksgiving morning he heard a clanging down in the street and he couldn't see what it was all about, but pretty soon Mrs. Denny came in and told him to get ready to take a ride, and then some ambulance men came in with a stretcher and took him down to the ambulance and out to the races and Reggy had a great time.

And so did Mrs. Reggy, who is one of the regulars.

Lodi Pastor Is Called by Death

LODI, Dec. 10. — Rev. Horace E. Beeks, pastor of the First Methodist church of Lodi, died shortly before midnight Sunday following an attack of heart trouble. Sunday morning as he was preparing to enter the pulpit to deliver his sermon, Rev. Beeks was stricken in the study of the church. He was removed to his home, but despite medical aid, failed to rally. He was formerly pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church at Stockton, coming to Lodi about two years ago. He was very popular here. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Twin Cities, Minneapolis has a new street car, equipped with roller bearings, making it practically noiseless.

CURTAIN CALLS By Wood Soanes

THE hue and cry that has been raised in various quarters against dirty shows in New York has finally centralized in the grand jury.

According to advices from New York, the jury has been instructed to investigate all of the alleged indecent and salacious shows and return indictments where the evidence warrants such action.

Back of this order is the assurance of the district attorney of New York that the producing managers indicted of proffering the public shows not up to the moral standard expected and demanded of the stage, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Augustin Daly's "A Night Off" is being presented at the Dewey.

This clean-up order has been the result of a persistent demand on the part of the decent managers and players that something be done about the situation. Quite recently Augustus Thomas, czar of the theater, was appealed to by theaterfolks to investigate "The Cup."

Immediately thereafter there were changes made in the manuscript of the offending play. But it appears that "The Cup" is really the least of all the offenders. There are other shows sorely in need of an official vacuum cleaner.

One of the chief proponents of the clean-up is Fred Stone, who is now appearing with his daughter Dorothy in "Stepping Stones." Recently Stone called attention to the fact that he has ever been associated with clean shows and points to his own record of continued success as proof of the fact that Americans in the main enjoy wholesome entertainment.

It remains to be seen just what evidences of smut will be eradicated before the jury arrives on the job and whether or not the official action will act as a deterrent on future blue shows.

Stars Seem to Be in Movies and on Stage

Rex Midgeley has just forwarded a herald containing information on the new Paramount productions booked into the American and the document is interesting in that it shows just how closely allied the stage and the screen are when the final count is made. It is almost impossible to say whether stage stars are appearing on the screen or vice versa.

In the list of players in "His Children's Children" we find the names of James Rennie, here last with "Moonlight and Honeysuckle," Hale Hamilton, recently at the Orpheum, and Mary Eaton, quite recently of the Follies. In "Stephen Steps Out," the Douglas Fairbanks Jr. release, the majority of the players are known mostly to the screen, but in "To the Ladies" Edward Everett Horton and Louise Dresser figure prominently, the first as star.

"The Call of the Canyon" deals exclusively with picture people, but "West of the Water Tower" brings forth Glenn Hunter of "Merton of the Movies" fame and Ernest Torrence, recently an opera singer. Hunter is also featured in "The Next Corner" and Robert Edeson and Nita Naldi are in "Don't Call it Love."

Horton and Miss Dresser figure in "There's a Fortune in It," and a stage touch is added to Gloria Swanson's "The Humming Bird," for Maude Fulton wrote it. Other features booked are "The Heritage of the Desert," "Shadows of Paris," "Woman Proof," "The Light That Failed," "Big Brother," "The Stranger," "Flaming Barriers," "Pied Piper Malone," "Argentine Love" and "North of 36."

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

Reports from Los Angeles are to the effect that there is a possibility of the Morosco Holding company's new offering, "The Lady Killer," may be just such another hit as "Abie's Irish Rose." The reviewers snorted at it but admitted its probable popular appeal. Reviewers snorted at the Abie show too.

For that matter, "The Fool" was considered no great shakes of a play when it was presented in the West and New York managers advised very strongly against its production in the East. Channing Pollock, who wrote it, will gather in about $500,000 in royalties by the time this year has passed. He thinks it a great play.

Olga Petrova is going forth again with "Hurricane." This time she is sponsored by Richard Herndon. Previously Miss Petrova was under the Selwyn wing and more previously under the paternal palm of Melville B. Raymond.

"The Talking Parrot" is being heralded by the New York critics as the worst play of the year. Last year's was "The Doormat" if memory serves. But this is early in the season. There may be much worse ones than the parrot.

Here's a new one. There must be a new press agent on Broadway. The story comes that George Marion who played the French renegade and fire keeper in "Out of the Seven Seas" read Balzac for two weeks before the opening in order to get into the spirit of the part. Which would have been a good story if the play had been a hit. As it is the publicity arrives some time after the notice of the play's departure and Mr. Marion's probable returning to the popular magazines.

Eliot Nugent had nothing to do with "Dumb-Bell." In fact he argued against it. This is the word of J. C. Nugent who admits that he erred in judgment in going against the wishes of his intimate relative. "Dumb-Bell" holds the short-distance record of the season. Two performances finished the piece and gave Cain's house another tenant.

The couple separated December 6.

Divorce Asked Nine Years After Break

Nine years after their separation Earl W. Farrow has filed suit for divorce against Norma L. Farrow, charging that her "extravagant, silly and frivolous" conduct during their married life caused his friends to shun and ostracize them. Farrow says his wife insisted upon associating with her sister, who possessed a bad reputation and associated with persons of bad repute. His wife also refused to have children or to do the housework, he says. They were married in Ottawa, Canada, July 12, 1909, and separated March 4, 1914.

SHIPS AND SHIPPING

GERMANY'S NEW MERCHANT FLEET IS GROWING FAST

Nine New Ships Are Added in Year; Fast Gaining Lost Trade.

Although figures published by Lloyd's indicate that tonnage under construction in German yards decreased from 416,081 gross tons at the end of 1922 to 301,199 tons on June 30 of this year, the Frankfurter Zeitung points out that much has been accomplished since the beginning of the year, says Consul O. N. Neilson in a report to the department of commerce.

In Central and South America, German trade is fast picking up, according to other reports.

The Thuringia of 11,[illegible] gross tons was added to the fle[illegible] of the Hamburg-American line in January and the Westphalia, of the same tonnage, was delivered in June. These sister ships are designed for cabin and third class passengers and freight service. The Albert Ballin, built this year and operated by the Hamburg-American line in connection with the Harriman Co., carries three classes of passengers. The Deutschland is expected to be commissioned before the end of the year, and the Cleveland, 17,000 gross tons, carrying cabin and third class passengers, was scheduled to make her first voyage in October.

The Idarwald and the 7500-ton Kellerwald were recently added to the Kosmos Company's South American service. The service to eastern Asia has been improved by the addition of the Oldenburg, 8650 gross tons.

The Deutsche Levant line, which since 1919 has been dominated by the Hamburg-American, plans to increase its Mediterranean service by new vessels ranging from 150[illegible] to 4500 tons.

The Hugo Stinnes line, which, in co-operation with the Artus line of Danzig, maintains a South American service, recently added to its fleet the Albert Fegler, the last of four vessels of 12,000 tons each.

The Deutsch-Australische D. G., which last summer re-established service to Australian ports, has since augmented its fleet by several new vessels.

The Oldenburg-Portugiesche D. G. placed three new vessels in service during the spring and summer of 1923 and a fourth vessel is under construction.

The Hansa Company has built three new 5600-ton vessels for its Indian service.

In the co-operative service to eastern Asia the Hamburg-American line and the North German Lloyd, together with the British Holt and Ellerman lines, have already in service, or will soon have, in addition to the Weser, the new vessel Ludwigshafen of 6000 tons, and the sister ships Saarbrucken and Coblenz of 9500 tons each. For the Australian service there are the 6000-ton vessels Aachen and Eberfeld, while in October the Werra, of 9475 tons, will sail under the Lloyd flag for Cuba. The Erfurt has already started on her maiden voyage to Rio de Janeiro and the Sierra Ventana in the La Plata service, via New York. Two other vessels of the Sierra type will follow in the beginning of 1924.

The North German Lloyd is developing its American service on a large scale by addition of three 14,000-ton oil-burning vessels, each carrying first, second and third class passengers. The Munich and Stuttgart have been launched. The Columbus was expected to make its first voyage in October.

Lincoln Has Cargo Of Silk and Sugar

The Pacific Mail liner President Lincoln is due in the Golden Gate from the Orient Thursday, with the first cargo of Philippine sugar for the present season aboard. The liner is also bringing a shipment of 140 tons of silk which will be immediately loaded into a special freight train and rushed across the continent to New York. The sugar consists of 1500 tons.

The President Lincoln, which is in command of Captain Ryland Drennan, will start on her return trip December 29. The President Pierce, which was scheduled to be the next ship of the line out, will lay over one trip.

Manulani Carries Out Largest Cargo

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 10.—The largest cargo of wheat to leave here this season was taken by the steamer Manulani of the Matson fleet which departed today for Japan. She has 440,000 bushels, valued at $528,000.

Rough weather was encountered by the motorship Dinteldyk of the Holland-American line on her trip in, Robert McGill of the Oregon Pacific company stated today. Repairs to damaged parts of the vessel, caused by high winds and heavy seas are being made. She is expected to sail Friday. She was held off the mouth of the river 24 hours waiting an opportunity to come in.

Mail Steamer Is Saved From Rocks

CORDOVA, Alaska, Dec. 11.—A wireless report received here today from the United States mail steamer Starr, which went ashore last night on Point Malina, Afognak island, Shelikof strait, 300 miles southwest of here, stated that the vessel suffered a damaged rudder as the result of the accident.

The message also declared that the boat will endeavor to work her way under her own power to Kodiak with the assistance of the gas boat Hillside. The gas boat went to her assistance yesterday.

California Oil Carriers Pass Through Canal

THE total number of tankships transiting the Canal during the past month was 154. This is 5 less than the month of September and 19 less than the month of August. Tankers comprised about 36 per cent of the total number of vessels through the Canal in October, about 45 per cent of the Panama Canal net, and carried about 41 per cent of the total cargo. Eastbound these all carried California oil.

French Cadets On Weather Ship In Storm Battle

The French steamer Jacques Cartier, carrying sixty cadets and a delegation of French weather scientists aboard, arrived in port yesterday from Puget Sound after battling through one of the worst storms that has struck the northern coast in a long time.

The vessel, which is operated by [illegible] General Translantique com[illegible]y, is on her way back to France w[illegible] a general cargo. She will probably take from here a large shipment of canned goods and general merchandise when she sails this afternoon.

The cadets are in charge of Captain G. Pavouillac. Captain G. Pugnet is in command of the ship. Six instructors are aboard. The weather detail is in charge of Captain Marcel Coyecque.

San Pedro Harbor Tied Up by Storm

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 10.—The windstorm which has swept southern California since last Friday continued today to partially disrupt marine traffic at this port. [illegible]e list of arrivals and departures was cut approximately to half through the fear of ship commanders to enter or leave the harbor. The wind tonight apparently was subsiding.

The steamship Point Bonita, purchased several months ago from the Pacific Mail Steamship company by the Hammond Lumber company for coastwise service, is to be renamed the San Pedro, it was announced here today.

MANCHURIA BACK IN BERTH AFTER 8-YEAR ABSENCE

Captain of Old Pacific Mail Liner On His Last Voyage.

The liner Manchuria of the Panama-Pacific line returned home yesterday after an absence of more than eight years. In honor of the occasion, the big steamer was greeted by the blowing of the whistles of the ships and factories along the waterfront, while a delegation of civic and commercial representatives met the vessel in the stream and extended a welcome to those aboard.

In command of the Manchuria was Captain Adrian "King" Zeeder, making his last trip before retiring from the sea after fifty years of service. He commanded the Manchuria when she flew the Pacific Mail flag. During that time he has covered more than 2,500,000 miles. Upon the return of the Manchuria to New York, he will proceed to England as a ship passenger and then to his old home in South Africa. After that, he is coming back to San Francisco to make his home at the Bohemian club.

The Manchuria brought in 467 passengers and a full shipment of freight, including twenty-eight automobiles. The trip was a fast one and as one day's record the big liner logged off 421 knots.

Several distinguished passengers made the trip from New York. Brigadier-General S. H. Wadhams, U. S. A., who was deputy chief surgeon of the A. E. F. during the World War and attached to General Pershing's staff, was aboard accompanied by his wife. This is General Wadhams' first visit to the Pacific coast in many years. Twenty years ago he was stationed on Alcatraz island.

Franklin A. Taylor, chairman of the board of directors of the Silversmiths' company of New York, and Mrs. Taylor were also aboard. The Silversmiths' company is the parent organization of the Gorham interests. Taylor, who is known as the "Silver King," is en route to the Hawaiian islands to spend the winter.

James Johnston, chief magistrate and alderman of Manchester, England, and the originator of the idea that resulted in the Manchester ship canal, who also was a passenger, thinks that the Panama canal is the greatest waterway in the world. Although Johnston has passed the three-quarter century mark in years, he is still healthy and hearty. While in San Francisco, he intends to visit George Hind, of Hind-Rolph & Co. Sixty years ago, when Hind was a child, Johnston worked for his father as an apprentice in a marine works at Yarrow.

OUR TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA IS ON A GROWING SCALE

All Pacific Coast Ports Are Handling Most of Cargo; U. S. Is Second.

Comparison of Australian imports from the United States with those from other countries shows that this country still holds second position as an importing source, with a percentage of 18.8, according to complications by the Far Eastern division of the department of commerce. Great Britain's share of this trade in 1922-23 was £68,201,000 or 51 per cent of the total. Canada had 3.7 per cent or £4,948,000 of Australia's import trade for the year, Japan following with £3,931,000, or 3 per cent of the total. Australia's imports from all sources amounted in value to £131,881,000, an increase of 28.7 per cent over figures for the 1921-22 period. Further analysis shows that the United States' share of this trade was 1.6 per cent larger in 1922-23 than in the previous year. The bulk of Australia's cargo is handled in the various Pacific Coast ports.

America's exports to Australia in the fiscal year 1922-23 were valued at £24,991,366, an increase of 33 1-3 per cent over 1921-22 export figures. This expansion includes all major groups except "foodstuffs of animal origin" (meats, fish, dairy products, animal oils, etc.); "vegetable substances and fibers" such as barks, raw cotton, grass and straw, gums and resins; "earthenware, glass and stoneware," and tobacco and specie.

Analysis of the chief items of export from the United States to Australia shows the greatest increases to have been in the following commodity groups: "Apparel, textiles and manufactured fibers," which takes in wearing apparel, footwear headwear, bedding, flour coverings, piece goods, and all textiles and manufactured fibers—increase £830,000; "oils, fats and waxes," under which caption are included greases, refined fats, vegetable and mineral oils, tallow and waxes—increase £643,000. The largest gain in this period is shown in the commodity group "machines and machinery and other manufactures of metal," which includes automotive goods. The extraordinary expansion under this heading (£3,144,000) is due chiefly to the very large increase in exports of automotive vehicles. Australia has for some time been America's best customer in this line.

50 MILLIONS TO BE PAID OUT IN EXTRA DIVIDENDS

Total Returns to Security Holders for This Year to Exceed Billions.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(By Associated Press.)—Holiday disbursements to stockholders in American industrial and railroad corporations in the form of extras, increased or resumed dividends, exclusive of the regular quarterly payments declared during December, will total well in excess of $60,000,000, according to reliable estimates in the financial district. Total dividend disbursements by such corporations, which include practically all of those having wide stock distribution in December, is expected to exceed $150,000,000, while the year's dividends probably will aggregate more than $1,000,000,000, as compared with about $876,000,000 in 1922.

Interest payments to bondholders, including disbursements of this character on government obligations, average approximately $20,000,000 a month, or $2,400,000,000 for the year.

RECORD FOR 11 MOS.

Accurate statistics for the first eleven months of 1923 disclose dividend payments by industrial corporations of $468,210,500 and by railroads of $345,080,000, as compared with $474,820,300 and $836,398,400, respectively, for the corresponding period last year.

More than 50 corporations voted extra or increased dividends or authorized the resumption of payments to stockholders after a lapse in such payments, during the month of December. The number of such payments far exceeded those of the 1922 holiday season.

Regular dividends in December by industrial corporations, it is estimated, will total about $60,000,000, a figure somewhat greater than December, 1922, payments, while railroad dividends will approximate $0,000,000, also a a larger sum than the carriers paid a year ago.

EXTRA "MELONS."

Extra or increased payments have been confined to no one branch of industry.

One of the largest of the extra payments was that authorized by directors of the Ingersoll Rand Company, who voted an extra cash dividend of $20, and a stock dividend of 10 per cent in addition to the regular payments due at this time. The extra cash dividends amounted to about $2,200,000.

The Eastman Kodak Company voted an extra dividend of $1,25 on its 2,500,000 shares of no par value stock outstanding, amounting to about $3,000,000.

Conditions In Yugo-Slavia Told

Information of interest to the holders of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes (Yugo-Slavia) forty-year 8 per cent secured External Gold Bonds due May 1, 1962, has been received by Wm. Cavalier & Company.

Economic conditions of Yugo-Slavia for the quarter ended September 30, 1923, showed continued improvement. The general financial situation has improved. Exchange showed progressive stability and bank circulation increased slightly. Exports advanced over 1922 and crop estimates were encouraging. State monopolies and railroads showed a surplus.

Yugoslavia exports for the first five months of 1923 amounted to 1,013,805 metric tons, with a total value of 2,240,665,000 dinars ($22,348,000) showing an increase in quantity over 1922 of almost 40 per cent. Exports will be facilitated this year by the number of cars and locomotives that have been allocated for moving crops.

A report in detail on Yugoslavia conditions for the last quarter is available through the office of Cavalier & Company.

Committee Will Study Shoe Dispute

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 11.—A committee of seven representative business men has been selected in the hope that they can arrive at a solution of the situation which threatens the existence of the shoe industry in Haverhill. It is estimated that more than 80 per cent of the shoe workers are out of employment in that center. A number of manufacturers have announced their intention of moving their plants elsewhere, and each brings announcement that more factories have been closed indefinitely. The situation has been brought to a head by refusal of the workers to accept a proposal by the Shoe Manufacturers' Association calling for a five year agreement with abolition of the five day week and the permit system. The state board of conciliation and arbitration has been called into the case but manufacturers declared today they were still doubtful if the board could achieve satisfactory results.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

By H. S. SCOTT.

Heavy liquidation of the Northwestern railroad shares influenced by the passing of the Omaha dividend and the cut in the Chicago and Northwestern rates was the feature of today's irregular Wall Street stock market. Pool operations were continued, however, in a number of industrials and specialties, General Electric and Chandler being conspicuously strong. Sales approximated 1,050,000 shares.

Prices were irregular at the opening with the tobaccos, steels and some of the railroads tending downward. Some of the food shares, oils and motors found good support at better prices. General Electric advanced two points, Corn Products 1¼, and Chandler Motors 1. Schulte, Tobacco Products, Pullman and General Asphalt each declined a point.

Eager bidding for special stocks caused some material advances, especially among shares selling at 100 a share and better. National Lead improved 3¼, Corn Products going to a new high figures for the year at 141¾, General Electric 2¾, Otis Elevator 2½, Lorillard 3 also going to a new high at 182¾, and American Can two points. This buying ultimately caused a steadier tone in the remainder of the list, although some of the railroads had been particularly heavy, Chicago & Northwestern yielding a point to a new low for the year at 58¼. Foreign exchange rates opened steady.

Heavy speculative selling of Schulte and Tobacco Products took place on the announcement of the formation of a new tobacco company by the Schulte interests which, however, failed to throw any light on the reported merger of these two companies. Schulte dropped 4⅝ points and Tobacco Products 3⅜. This weakness brought about sympathetic selling in other quarters, especially in the food, public utility and motor accessory groups. Subsequent support of motor shares, and a further rise in corn products checked the reactionary tendency and resulted in a partial recovery around noon. Call money opened at 5 per cent.

Heavy buying of General Motors, which lifted it to 15½, the highest in a long time, was attended by a bulge in prices of other motor shares and Dupont. Railroads also improved, Chicago Northwestern touching 60½, but it later broke precipitately to 58 on the cut in the dividend.

Northern Pacific, St. Paul preferred and Great Northern preferred turned weak, and industrials also began to yield.

Continued demand for the radio issues featured the trading on the curb exchange today with a further advance in the common stock to a new high for the movement. The preferred was traded in on a smaller scale. Petroleum stocks generally moved within a narrow range, trading generally halting because of a disposition to wait for the official statement of production on Thursday. There were some realizing sales in stocks like Prairie Oil and Imperial Oil of Canada, but the recessions in those stocks in the early trading did not indicate any weakness in the general position of this group.

While a few individual issues fell off sharply, bond prices generally continued firm or better in the early trading today. The trading was quite active in all parts of the list. Buying of Jurgens, Holland-American 6's and Denmark 6's pushed those bonds up a point each, while losses among the foreign issues were limited to fractions. Some of the western railroad mortgages which were reactionary yesterday improved slightly. New Haven on the other hand, receded 1⅝ and the convertible 6's slumped 2⅛. Good buying of sugar company bonds gave the industrial group a firm tone. Liberty bonds were either unchanged or slightly depressed.

TRADE TREND SHOWS SPOTTINESS IN PLACES.

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"Political developments are occupying the stage. The radicals have already shown ability to force the regulars to compromise with them; and the bonus supporters will doubtless show great strength. At the same time the market position of Liberty bonds appears fairly secure.

"Trade trends remain unchanged, spottiness being the general characteristic. Commodities except textiles and metals are showing a downward tendency; unemployment is slowly growing; and on the one hand cattle and hides are being liquidated, while on the other metals are in good demand and the Northwestern railroads are showing large net earnings.

"Political disintegration, which has to many appeared alarming, may well be regarded as a normal condition for the defeated nation after a great war. It does not, however, presage decay of civilization; and indeed the decease of civilizations has always been due to migrations wherein an effeminate or dissolute race was displaced.

"Economically Central Europe is beginning to recover, as indicated by growing consumption of sugar, tobacco, grain, meats and other articles. Hence the American investor can afford to take an optimistic view."

RETAIL FOOD PRICES SHOW GENERAL INCREASE.

Retail food prices increased generally throughout the United States during the year ending November 15, the Department of Labor announced today. The increase ranged from 8 per cent in Chicago to 2 per cent in Atlanta, Dallas, Norfolk and Richmond.

In Bridgeport, Manchester, Memphis, Milwaukee and New Haven the increase amounted to 6 per cent, while in Cleveland, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Salt Lake City and Scranton it was 5 per cent.

The increase amounted to 4 per cent in Baltimore, Detroit, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Louisville, New York, Providence and Rochester, and to 3 per cent in Peoria, Portland (Maine), St. Paul and Savannah.

DIVIDENDS.

The semi-annual common stock of the Chicago Northwestern was cut from 2½ to 2¼ per cent today. This was due, Vice-president Tyndo said, to general depression in the Northwest. Immediately upon announcement of the reduced dividend Chicago and Northwestern stock broke 5⅝ points to 54 on the New York stock exchange. The regular semi-annual of 3½ per cent on preferred was declared.

German Granted Russ Timber Right

The Moscow "Izvestia" announces, according to a report to the Department of Commerce from Minister Coleman at Riga, that the Soviet of People's Commissars has completed an agreement with the "Society for Economic Relations With the East" (Berlin) for the completion of the Mga-Rybinsk railway and the exploitation of twenty-one forestries along that line with a total acreage of 2,700,0000 acres.

The concessionaire is obliged to cut 13,800 acres of timber every year, to construct one or several sawmills in the course of two years, and to build tie-treating works with a capacity of 1,000,000 ties per year. The concessionaire has the right to export raw timber only during the first three years of the agreement not exceeding 25 per cent of the total production. This concession is the first by which products are to be disposed of within the country.

PACKING HOUSE PRODUCTS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 11.—Prices on certain pork cuts are lower today than at any time since 1918, according to local packers. The recent heavy marketing of hogs with its attendant drop in hog prices is held responsible. Pork loins this week sold as low as 11 cents as against 26 cents September 24. In 1913 pork cuts ranged around 15 cents a pound.

German Gold Is Coming to U. S.

Over 42 Millions Reported Received Here in Last Five Months.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The gold holdings of the Reichsbank declined from over 1,004,829,000 marks on March 1 of this year, to 469,727,000 marks on September 22, according to advices received by the finance division of the Department of Commerce. The decrease mainly represents amounts sold or pledged either to meet foreign obligations or to purchase foreign currency. At least 143,000,000 marks are reported to have been sold to New York and withdrawn from Berlin. This sum is equivalent to nearly $35,000,000. There may have been additional amounts sold to New York but withdrawn from foreign deposits of the Reichsbank or else reported under some other heading. The reflection of these transactions is doubtless visible in the reported imports of gold into the United States from Germany. Up to May 1 of this year there were no receipts reported, the amounts since then by months were as follows:

May	$14,188,578
June	12,699,999
July	7,332,000
August	4,711,873
September	3,500,000
October	7,181,967

During the five months, May to September, inclusive, in which the Reichsbank lost $35,000,000, the United States received from Germany a total of $42,432,450.

Northern Kern Co. Has Oil Excitement

Northern Kern county is having an oil boom and oil men from all over the state are visiting this district, because of showings being made by the Main Oil Company's well now drilling in the Wasco-Shafter district, according to word received by H. E. Dove of Berkeley from his associates in Kern county.

The Main Oil Company has decided to cement off water at 2060 feet on account of splendid showing.

Hundreds of acres have changed hands in leases or iate, at substantial prices, with many of the large oil companies securing land, according to Dove.

WEAK MEMBERS IN AUTO INDUSTRY NEARING AN END

Competition for Business Promises to Eliminate Smaller Companies.

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The amount of steel, copper and other raw materials ordered from producers by automobile manufacturers in the last ten days has been amazing. There seems to be a unanimity of opinion among manufacturers that 1924 is going to be a year of tremendous automobile production. What effect the prices of these raw materials will have on motor car prices, however, is being vigorously debated.

Suppliers of automobile parts assert prices for their products have been forced below fair profit margins and that prices must advance or many of them must go out of business. Some of the manufacturers of cars subscribe to the view that the trend of car prices must be upward. Financiers, on the other hand, who have been actively identified with the securing of capital for financing the industry, declare that the ambitious plans of the stronger makers will result in terrific competition and consequent price cuts when the battle waxes hot.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAMS.

There can be little doubt as to the heat of the fray. The Ford Motor Company may not reach its proposed 10,000 cars a day production mark before next May or June. But its output during the first quarter of 1924 is sure to exceed materially that of the corresponding period of last year. If the present output of 7000 cars a day is continued during the first quarter, production of 500,000 cars and trucks will be completed. The daily output for the first three months of 1922 was 5000 cars and trucks and the total for the quarter 336,500.

Other leading companies are equally ambitious in their programs. The Hudson-Essex output for 1924 is planned to reach 100,000 cars, to turn out 150,000 and Dodge Brothers have set sail for an equal total. The Chevrolet goal has been The Studebaker Corporation expects fixed at 800,000 against 500,000 cars this year, while the Overland factories will be called on to make 250,000 cars, as compared with 205,000 in the current year.

The so-called winter sales campaign of the Ford Company was so successful last year that it will be followed even more strenuously this winter. In the six months from October to March, inclusive, Ford expects to sell 1,000,000 vehicles or 250,000 more than were disposed of in the corresponding period of a year ago.

INVESTORS ON WATCH.

Investors who have made a specialty of the motor industry are scrutinizing offerings with more care than ever. Each year since the war, it has been predicted that another season would see the elimination of half the manufacturers. Examination of records showing the accomplishments of the particular companies doing the lion's share of the business in 1923 shows little change from a year ago, however, in 1922, the leading thirteen of the 124 active makers sold 93 per cent of the cars. Figures now available make it appear that this year the first thirteen producers will have sold 94 per cent of the motor vehicles purchased. The list of active producers, however, has dropped from 124 to 100.

The preliminary figures for the year show that Ford is holding his own with 50 per cent of the number disposed of. He has maintained this approximate ratio in every year of the last decade except in 1921, when his proportion rose to 56 per cent.

The trade, however, fully expects to see further mortality among the producers. Financiers say it is growing harder each year to raise capital for new motor manufacturing enterprises. But the annual crop of investors who think the field is still fertile for new makers is still amazingly large.

ORANGE BELT IN SAN JOAQUIN IS VERY HARD-HIT

Packing Houses Close to Wait Result of Damage to Crops by Frost.

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 11. — Fruit growers and experts today offer varying estimates on the loss to the citrus crop from the frost, these estimates ranging from 25 per cent to 50 per cent of the crop remaining on the trees. The consensus of opinion placed the loss at more than 25 per cent, but less than 33 1-3 per cent of the remaining crop, 75 per cent of the navel crop having been shipped, it is estimated. The actual loss cannot be determined for several days.

Packing plants throughout the orange belt of this district were reported generally as having closed down until the damage to the fruit could be ascertained.

Lowest temperature reported officially was 19 degrees at Northeast of Lindsay last night.

Valencia orange trees, now dormant, somewhat ruched but will recover within a few days if no further freezing occurs. Olives, approximately 15 per cent on trees, will probably be total loss from the freeze.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11 (International News Service).—A check over Southern California revealed today that although growers operated smudge pots to protect their crops, citrus fruit was not endangered at any points during the night, except near Ventura and Santa Barbara, where the temperature dropped to a minimum of 32 degrees.

In most sections of the southern part of the state the temperature ranged from 40 to 50 degrees during the coldest periods of the night, according to reports to the local weather bureau.

EASTERN MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Influenced by a decline at Liverpool and by bearish statistics, wheat today averaged a little lower in price here during the early dealings. Nevertheless, with Secretary Hoover and other government officials expressing themselves in favor of some plan to finance exports of foodstuffs of Germany, sellers were apparently disinclined to become aggressive. Houses with Winnipeg connections furnished most of the offerings.

7D HERBALISTS

CHRONIC TROUBLE REMOVED

Oakland, Oct. 24, 1923.
I suffered for many years from sores of the stomach and from Bladder Trouble. After years of treatment without results, I became very much discouraged and feared that I should never again be well. One day I saw in the newspaper a testimonial that Mr. P. Oliver had given to the FONG WAN HERB CO. As his case had been similar to mine, I called upon Mr. Oliver and learned from him that everything stated in that testimonial was true. I then began to faithfully take the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENT, and after three months I was entirely well.
(Signed) HERBERT R. HASKELL.

The Oakland Tribune is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Oakland Tribune as well as every other memebr of the association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads, and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standards of honesty.

Want Ad Section INDEX
Want Ad classifications appear in numerical order, and all related classes are grouped together. For example: All advertising of Rooms To Let is numbered 20 to 29. The numbers appear on the headings, so if you seek room and board look through the "20s"; "Board" is No. 25, and always follows Housekeeping Rooms (24). Note—Every "For Sale" or "To Let" heading has a "Wanted" classification with the same number, but followed by the letter "A".

1924 Will See Wide Activity On Movie Lots

Extensive Program Planned to Start in Hollywood on January 1.

By HAROLD E. SWISHER, United Press Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1923, by United Press.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11.—Filmdom faces the coming year with confident assurance. Pessimism has found no nesting place in Hollywood, trying to find a motion picture producer who predicts anything but a successful 1924 for the cinema is an impossible task. All are busy planning next year's pictures, while optimism prevails.

"Beginning with the new year, the motion picture industry will launch its greatest activity for many seasons," declared M. C. Levee, president of the United Studios. "The recent slump brought about by over-production of lavish pictures has resulted in a general house-cleaning within the business. The cry of 'wolf' has now subsided and producers are planning an extensive program, starting January 1."

"Pictures in 1924 will be well in advance of any preceding year in quality, but there will not be so many," predicted William Koenig, general production manager for Universal. "The demand for a finer type of films is greater than ever. Exhibitors want 12-reel quality in seven or eight-reel lengths. Salaries? Yes, they will be reduced, lower than during the past period of extravagance, but more than during this fall's slackening."

Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is now in New York outlining with eastern officials the company's 1924 program. According to present plans it will include a completed picture each week, as has been the past custom. Two companies are now busy at Lasky's while seven are scheduled to start "shooting" immediately after the new year begins.

The Goldwyn studio is running full time, with all stage space occupied. Others are busy, although taking time for annual inventories and plans for the next year. Only one, Warner Brothers, is closed, and that is for reorganization purposes, with activity scheduled to start within a month.

As long as the picture-going public demands new films, Hollywood will produce them. That demand appears to be increasing, exhibitors declare. For example, in Hollywood, where the pictures are made, the second feature to be shown in one of Southern California's largest theaters since it opened almost 18 months ago, has just been concluded. A new production had its world premiere last week and they turned them away—at $5.50 per seat. Surely a far cry from the old days of the nickelodeon.

Four New Buildings to Grace San Pablo Avenue

Four new buildings will be constructed on San Pablo in the Golden Gate district in the immediate future, according to an announcement made today by the Golden Gate Realty company, 5819 San Pablo, one of the constructing concerns. A new hotel and store building will occupy the 70 by 150 corner at San Pablo and Stanford avenues. Construction work will commence as soon as present leases expire, according to I. A. Beaudry and G. Brennan, owners of the lot, who will build the hotel.

The Golden Gate Realty company plans the erection of a three-store building on their present site. The building will be one story in size but will be built with provision for the addition of two more floors. The stores will occupy a 50-foot frontage on San Pablo avenue and will run back 100 feet.

The MacDonald Drug company has purchased a lot 45 by 100 feet on the corner of Fifty-sixth and and San Pablo avenue, and is having plans drawn for the construction of a new store building there.

On a lot recently acquired by the Golden Gate Market that firm plans the immediate construction of a new market and store building. The lot is 40 by 100 feet in size.

The Beckman Machine Works, 3704 San Pablo avenue, have purchased a lot 56 by 100 feet in size at Sixty-first street and San Pablo avenue, and it is understood will erect a new machine shop there in the near future.

CARD PARTY PLANNED.

VALLEJO, Dec. 11.—One of the most attractive card parties of the month will be held Wednesday afternoon by the women of St. Vincent's parish, Mrs. L. C. Short will be the chairman of the committee of arrangements. Mrs. Short will also be the chairman of the committee in charge of the regular card party on Thursday evening.

KAHN BEGINS ON HIS 12TH TERM

BY SPECIAL WIRE TO THE TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The sixth oldest member, in point of service, Representative Julius Kahn, of San Francisco, dean of the California delegation, is starting on his twenty-third year in the House of Representatives. Outranking him are Gillett of Massachusetts, Cooper of Wisconsin, Butler of Pennsylvania, Greene of Massachusetts.

Kahn first came to Congress in 1899, serving until 1903, when he was out one term, returning in 1905 and serving continuously ever since. He led and won the campaign in Congress t have the 1915 exposition held at San Francisco, and was chairman during the war as he now is, of the military affairs committee, which initiated legislation for the draft and other measures for prosecuting the war. The long hours put in on that committee caused a break in his health, from which he has never fully recovered.

The principal activity in which he expects to engage in the present Congress is the campaign to secure authorization for acceptance of the site Alameda has offered to give to the government for naval base purposes. He called upon President Coolidge to urge executive approval of this program.

"Silver King" Goes To Hawaii to Rest

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—En route to the Hawaiian Islands to spend the winter, Franklin A. Taylor, chairman of the board of directors of the Silversmiths company of New York, accompanied by his wife, arrived here yesterday on the Manchuria. Taylor is known as the "Silver King." He stated that prohibition had brought about a change in the size of cocktail shakers. In the old days, he declared, people were satisfied with a pint-size shaker. Now, since the country has gone "dry," there is a constant demand for gallon shakers to meet the increasing needs of his clients, according to Taylor.

Divorce Is Secured By Deserted Wife

Charles E. Bawden packed his suit case and walked out the back door of his home without a goodbye and has not returned, declares Mrs. Edith F. Bawden, who today has an interlocutory decree of divorce on grounds of desertion. Mrs. Bawden told Superior Judge J. S. Koford that her husband took their son with him, and that he mad no explanation of the desertion, which took place September 18, 1918. She has not seen him since, she said.

Dynamite, a detonating explosive, is never used in guns. It lacks the power which non-detonating smokeless powder develops to drive great shells ten miles and more.

It Doesn't Detonate

—this gasoline of surer, smoother power

MARK this difference in gasolines. Some explode instantaneously—detonate. Union Gasoline is non-detonating.

The detonating gasoline deals a sledge hammer blow upon the piston, depending on a single impulse to pound the piston down.

It has the tendency to explode prematurely, thus limiting compression and reducing power and efficiency.

It is frequently responsible for "knocking" on the hills. And by causing vibration, it increases wear and tear.

The Other Kind

Union Non-Detonating Gasoline delivers a prolonged explosion.

It thrusts the piston throughout the entire stroke—doesn't crash against it.

And because it does not detonate, Union Gasoline permits increased compression, which results in increased efficiency and power.

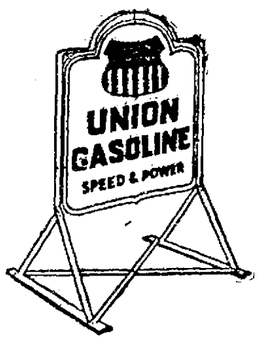

New "Lift" on Hills

You'll notice a new "lift" on the hills—a steady, sustained stream of power, more speed on the level, a faster pickup and less vibration, which means less wear and tear.

Also more mileage because of increased efficiency.

Union Non-Detonating Gasoline is always uniform. It doesn't disintegrate, thus doesn't deteriorate in storage. It has all the power when you use it that it has when it leaves the Union plants.

This is one more reason for the use of this non-detonating gasoline.
